Mitch Cunningham has a novel clock in his car store. The face of the clock is made out of a lot of cigar boxes with the hours marked by cigarettes.

Mr. David Sharer, of Zion, has been dangerously ill the past week, but is slowly improving.

Considerable work is being done at present on W. Fred Reynolds' property on Linn street.

Twenty Years Ago

Russell Smith, proprietor of the Russell soda fountain in the Petrikin Hall building, had installed a modern sign in front of his place of business.

A. E. Schad was preparing to move his plumbing shop from the present location on Allegheny street into the vacant store room on West High Street.

Raymond J. Green, who had been in charge of the radio station at the Bellefonte air field for some time, had been appointed chief radio operator aboard the Leviathan, which was to make its trial trip from Boston on June 3.

George Noll, of State College, employed on the building operations at the new penitentiary, was taken to the Bellefonte Hospital for treatment of very serious injuries of the head.

LOUISA'S LETTER

I have been going with a boy for about four months. We were planning to be married until my parents objected and said I was too young.

Dear Louisa: I think your parents were very sensible to persuade you not to get married so young.

I think you would be very foolish to give all of your time to a boy who is sharing his attentions with you and another girl.

What I did say was that no mother should do work at the expense of her children's welfare.

Memorial Day was very quiet in and about our community, not many visitors as on previous years on account of the shortage of gas and ban on pleasure driving, and the services which had been planned were spoiled on account of rain. Soldiers' graves at the various cemeteries were decorated, which shows they were not forgotten in spirit. State Library Meeting Here Is Postponed

The new library sign at the corner of the lot is the gift of the M. L. Cluster Co. This much-needed feature will be helpful not only to indicate the location of the library but to convey to all countians the information that registration, books and service are free to them as well as to residents of Bellefonte borough.

Two new magazine subscriptions have been added to the collection as the gift of Mrs. Edward Kofman: "Wise Wisdom," for very small children and the well known "St. Nicholas Magazine," reviewed in March, 1943. The library also owns the first nine volumes of this periodical which began publication in 1873 under the editorship of Mary Pades Dodge, the famous author of "Hans Brinker, or the Silver Skates."

The Pennsylvania Committee on Conservation of Cultural Resources asks that the interest of the general public be enlisted in collecting and preserving the cultural heritage of America. In the enthusiastic gathering of scrap metal and paper, it is possible to overlook the value of old newspapers, diaries, documents and personal letters of men and women who have played an important part in the development of the state.

Some of these have a rich historical value that far exceeds their value as scrap material. At this time when attics and basements are receiving an overhauling, it is suggested that careful scrutiny be given all material before consigning it to the waste pile.

The Centre County Historical Society whose headquarters are in the Centre County Library will be glad to receive and preserve material of value in the history of the county. The Historical Museum is open to the public every Saturday from 2 to 4:30, in charge of Mary Hunter Linn.

Book service to the bedside of patients in the Centre County Hospital has been resumed on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Edward Kofman is in charge of the distribution of books and magazines, but has been unable to serve since a recent accident. In the meantime, Mrs. Frank Daly is acting as hospital librarian.

Miss Betty Ann Martin of the library staff has been awarded a scholarship by the Pennsylvania Library Association for a course in library science at Penn State.

Due to the rationing of gasoline many persons are turning to reading as a recreation. The newcomers to the community are speedily finding the library and its resources of cultural, recreational and scientific reading.

It is planned to open several summer book stations again this year where children may continue their reading between school sessions. Vacation Bible schools or any community wishing a collection of books for adults and children may have 25 to 100 books free of charge by applying to the librarian, Mrs. Carl Iversen, County Library, Bellefonte.

Two Zion Farms Damaged by Wind

Parts of the roof of the house and barn were found in adjoining fields, while other parts were carried to the fields of neighboring farms. When the house roof left the building, heavy rafters went with it, cutting the building off neatly at the square.

Members of the Ebert family were at home, but none of them were injured. On the Harry Rocky farm, tenanted by Russell Stover, trees were uprooted in the garden and yard, and part of the barn roof was ripped off, carried a short distance and was "wrapped around" nearby telephone poles and fence posts.

A chicken house was moved off its foundations, electric power lines were broken, and an implement shed was blown so far out of plumb that a milk truck inside had to be cleared of its load of milk cans before it could be driven out of the building.

There was no damage to the house. Roofing and other material blown from the farm buildings were found in fields—some pieces being found on the adjoining farm.

Aside from the two farms, the storm apparently did little damage. There was little rain and although lightning was frequent and severe, the thunder indicated that the center of the storm was some distance from Bellefonte to the north.

On Saturday, May 8, the season's first severe windstorm caused general damage in the Zion area, but in no instance was any property damaged to the extent reported in Tuesday's blow.

Four Escape Drowning Four Bucknell University students, members of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity, were rescued from the Susquehanna River at Lewisburg when their cries for help were heard by Union County Sheriff A. Paul Klipp and Edward Boyer, who were fishing nearby. The youths were in a rowboat which overturned in the chill water and two were seized with cramps.
