In Memoriam

IN MEMORY of my Granddaughter, Anna Mae McKinley, aged 12 years.

Tis hard to lay into the earth A countenance as benign! form that walked but yesterday So stately o'er the earth!

It was her spirit which had made The bright world glorious to her thoughtful eve.
Since first in childhood midst the vines she played.
And sent glad singing through the free blue sky.

hou art a thing to recall the hours. When the love of our souls was on leaves and flowers. dim sweet grove And treasure untold in one captive

Are they gone? Can we think it while you are there.
Our loyous child with the clustering hair?
Is it not Spring that indeed breathes free
And fresh o'er each thought while Mill Hall, Pa. we gazed on thee?

No. never more may we smile as thou sheddest round smiles
From thy sunny brow; yet something it is in our hearts to shrine A memory of beauty undimm'd as thine.

To have known the joy of her speaking face.
To have felt the spell of her breezy To have lingered before her, and turned, and borné, One vision away of the cloudless
