George Dare is holding forth at Zeller's Drug Store. He is an experienced druggist, and enjoys coming back to Bellefonte which was his former home. He has been away for over seven years.

A new instrument has been invented, the bicycleorgan. It consists of a small hand organ attached to the front of a bicycle. The rider can put it in connection with the pedals, and while traveling can enjoy all the delights of an open season.

Rev. James A. Brown, of Rebersburg, Reformed minister of Brush Valley charge, and his estimable wife are both lying seriously ill with typhoid fever. Rev. Brown is so ill at times fears are entertained for his recovery. The disease was contracted by using bad cistern water.

Miss Eliza DeHaas died at the residence of the Misses Benner on High street, Bellefonte, on Sunday morning, August 30, 1893, aged eighty-seven years. She had resided with the Benner family in the capacity of a servant for over sixty years. Her sister, Harriet, preceded her to the grave four years ago.

Rumors were afloat a month or more ago that the Evangelical Association of Penna Valley would hold a camp meeting in the Fort Woods, beyond the station, some time in August, to continue for one week. Recent information however dispels the hope and the camp has been postponed for this year by the association.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: William Houtz and Mary C. Fishel, both of Lemont; William Sauters and Mary E. Biddle, both of State College; Samuel Irwin and Ida Moran, both of Unionville; William C. Shesley and Sarah E. Eisenhuth, both of Coburn; John Woodring, Retort, and Lenora Beckwith, of Taylor; Andrew Haykic and Vernika Kocis, both of Clarence; William Hettlinger and Martha D. Duck, both of Spring Mills.

Mr. C. U. Hoffer and family of Phillipsburg, are visiting at the home of Mr. C. T. Gerberich. John Lambert, while at work on a scaffold at John C. Miller's house, Linn street, on Tuesday fell a distance of about seventeen feet to the ground and was badly injured. The accident was caused by a board breaking.

Next Wednesday evening, the 30th, is the time fixed for the wedding of Mr. Samuel Hazel and Miss Jennie Ott, at the home of the bride's parents, Axemann. Mr. Hazel is the foreman at the Watchman office and is a fine young man.

Charles J. Guetting, the man who wheeled a wheelbarrow from Pottsville to Chicago, made the trip of 800 miles in 27 days. His barrow and contents, including a keg of beer, weighed 150 pounds. The time set to accomplish the task was 31 days.

James McClain and family, after spending the summer at Spangler, have returned to their home at this place. Mr. McClain is still connected with a number of flourishing enterprises at Spangler, where he has been located for several years past.

It is an outrage that should not be tolerated to allow garbage, which accumulates from the market, to be raked on a pile and then left there rot for several days. That is the condition of affairs at present. Such negligence of borough officials should be punished by a good fine.

Mrs. Thomas Purdie died at her home in Coleville on Wednesday after a lingering illness with typhoid fever. She was 57 years of age. A husband, two sons and eight daughters survive. The interment occurred in Meyers cemetery, Buffalo Run.

By this time over four miles of railroad track have been laid from near Bellefonte eastward on the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania. The engine and construction train is running over a portion of the track carrying supplies. For ballast, cinder from Valentine's furnace is being used. The bridges at the eastern end of the line are being completed rapidly.

On Friday evening fire broke out at the rear of William B. Mingle's stable, Centre Hall. Before assistance could arrive the building was enveloped and only a portion of the contents could be taken out. Mrs. McCullough's stable, an adjoining lot took fire and was also entirely destroyed. There was no insurance on the buildings. The fire is supposed to have originated from throwing wood ashes in the barn yard.

Early on Sunday morning George Waite discovered a fire in Jenkins & Lindig's machine shops near the depot. With the assistance of Will Rhinesmith they broke in a door and found the building filled with blinding smoke and a small fire briskly burning at the side of the room facing the mill race. The fire was not large and was soon extinguished. No one was known to be in the building at the time and the cause of it is unknown and seems to have been the work of some incendiary. The shops are filled with a large lot of expensive machinery which would have made it a very expensive blaze. Other valuable property in the vicinity might have gone with it had it gotten well started.

CAN VITAMINS CHANGE GRAY HAIR?

Read the amazing experience of gray-haired people in Calcium Pantothene tests sponsored by a leading housekeeping magazine.

According to this report: Age—did not seem to affect results. The earliest response occurred in a 50 year old; the latest in a 23 year old. Color—began to appear near the roots of the hair. The color may not appear all over the head at the same time. Symmetrical areas, perhaps on the temples or the back of the head, may show traces of color first, after which the color will spread to other parts of the head. Time—varies from 1 month to 6 months. Results—88% of those tested had positive evidence of a return of some hair color. New discovery: GRAVITA, which contains 10 mgm. of Calcium Pantothene (the active amount used in tests above) PLUS 400 U.S.P. units of B1, the vitamin precursor of healthy nerves. Try GRAVITA. See what a difference it may make in the way your hair looks. 30 day supply, $1.50, 100 day supply, $4.00. Phone, write

Dr. George P. Bible, noted speaker who had been touring the northwestern states with the Radcliffe Chautauque, returned to his home in Bellefonte after a delightful three months' tour.

Two rear tires were stolen from the Ford sedan belonging to Mr. Frank Williams, in Centre Hall. The thief entered the garage by means of a key. It was the second time the same garage had been burglarized.

Major H. Laird Curtin, commander of the 52nd Machine Gun Squadron, with headquarters in Bellefonte, had authorized the various troop commanders to enlist men who were musicians to become members of a military band. The band was to serve with the Machine Gun Squadron.

At the first diphtheria prevention clinic held in the Red Cross rooms, Bellefonte, 96 children received their first injection of Toxin-Antitoxin to protect them against diphtheria. Dr. J. L. Seibert and Dr. David DeLoe were in charge, with Miss Ethel M. Campbell and Miss Blanche Hayes as assistants and with Miss Daise Koehline and Mrs. Blanche Schaefer keeping the records.

Captain William H. Fry, of Pine Grove Mills, celebrated his 81st birthday by pitching hay in a harvest field. In addition to his regular work on the farm, Capt. Fry was a veterinary surgeon and took an active part in the affairs of the community. He was commander of Post 272 of the G. A. R. and expected to attend the 75th annual national encampment of the Boys in Blue at Milwaukee in the fall.

Mrs. Nancy J. McMeen, of Curtin, was to be honored on her 94th birthday at a celebration to be held at the home of her only child, Mrs. Harry Curtin, Sr., of Curtin. Mrs. McMeen was born at Milesburg and was the widow of the late Dr. McMeen, who practiced his profession in Bellefonte. The elderly woman had four grandchildren: Major H. Laird Curtin, of Curtin; John Curtin, of Bellefonte; Mac Curtin, of Pittsburgh; and Mrs. Catherine Hodges, of Syracuse, N. Y.

Struck on the head by a piece of flying rock, Sylvester S. Burkett, 19, suffered a fracture at the base of the skull which resulted in his death at the Bellefonte Hospital several hours later. Burkett, employed in the quarries of the Centre County Lime Company, Buffalo Run Valley, had taken shelter behind a quarry car when a blast was being set off. When the charge exploded, a large rock struck the side of the quarry and bounced back, striking the youth. He remained conscious for a time after being struck.

Run down by a Ford roadster Saturday night when he stepped into the middle of the street from between two parked cars, Tony Rodavich, a resident of Coleville, suffered injuries which resulted in his death at the Bellefonte Hospital the following morning. Isaac Stine, of Coleville, driver of the car, was exonerated of blame in the accident by a coroner's jury after an inquest held by Justice of the Peace Kline Woodring of Bellefonte. The following persons served as members of the coroner's jury: John W. Smith, Charles Gales, George Bush, Charles Anderson, Daily Justice and Malcolm Jones. Witnesses heard were M. R. Johnson, Clark Carson, Willard Barnhart, Sr., Harry Grubb, Samuel Wasson, Miss Verna Heckman, a nurse at the local hospital; Malcolm Love and Harry Yeager. Mr. Rodavich is survived by his wife and nine children.

Miss Nellie Smith, daughter of Ex-Register J. Frank Smith, who had been night superintendent of the Columbus Hospital, Wilkensburg, had resigned her position there to become general superintendent of a large hospital at Casper, Wyoming.

Residents of Blanchard were startled about 9 o'clock Sunday night by the sound of gunshots on a hill near that town, where a cross burned for a half-hour. The weird sight was witnessed by almost the entire population of Blanchard and created considerable excitement. Residents claimed he Ky Klux Klan burned the cross as a warning to a man who had ousted his wife and children from his home and had taken in another woman.

The explosion of an oil stove started a fire in the Mallory studio in Bellefonte, but through the quick action of Clarence Thompson, former Bellefonte High School athlete, who quickly applied a fire extinguisher, the building probably was saved from destruction. The fire started when a woman who regularly cleaned the studio accidentally upset the stove which set fire to a cardboard carton. Little damage resulted from the fire.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: John Yatek and Mary Biggan, both of Clarence; Paul P. Macchiesi, Sunbury, and Dorothy K. Leach, Wadley; Frank Henry Shook, Powellton, and Margaret E. Corrigan, Sandy Ridge; Thomas B. Wogan, Grassville, and Florence E. Corl, Pine Grove Mills; Charles M. White and Bertha A. Yates, both of Lawnsomham; Max Elder Richards and Margaret L. Avery, both of Phillipsburg; Enoch W. Smith, and Pearl Mary Gilien, both of Milesburg.

A 1600-pound mule owned by John Horner, Tusseyville, got out of its stall and in wandering through the barn broke through the straw shed floor and fell with his body resting on a large girder. Mr. Horner hitched the mule's mate to it with the intention of hauling it to the floor, but when adjustments were made the mule, in a final struggle, slipped through the hole and fell 14 feet to the ground. Fortunately, the rope attached to the other mule slipped off, saving it from being dragged into the opening.

After he had been painfully gored and tossed into the air by an infuriated bull, William Grove, 33-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Grove, of Jacksonville, was saved by Ralph Grove, a younger brother, who stepped in front of the charging animal and struck it fairly between the eyes with a large stone. The boys were returning from the pasture with the cattle when the bull charged the oldest one. William was found to have suffered severe lacerations and bruises, but it was believed that he would recover. The younger boy's prompt work in striking the bull on the head confused the animal long enough for Ralph to carry his brother to safety.

RECORD: The Bellefonte Airport has established an enviable record for safety to date. With more than 6000 hours of flying instruction to its credit so far, there hasn't been a single mishap worth mentioning, and that's something when it is considered that many of the students being trained get their first ride in an airplane when they begin instructions here. The only mishap that has occurred was when a motor quit near the airport one day and the plane was forced to make an emergency landing. There was no damage.

NOTICE: A meeting of the temperance people of Milesburg and Boggs township will be held this coming Sunday at the Methodist church at 8 p. m., and at the Advent church at 3 o'clock, both meetings to be addressed by Rev. O. B. Poulson of Huntingdon, who is a very interesting speaker on the temperance question. Folks from any section will be welcome to these services.

Candidate For County Office

James H. Schreck, Lemont, Seeks Republican Nomination For Recorder

James H. Schreck, well known Lemont businessman, recently announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of Recorder. Mr. Schreck is well known in Centre county politics and has been Precinct Chairman of College Township since 1924.

He was born in College Township on April 19, 1884, the son of William W. and Sarah Houser Schreck. William Schreck died in 1930 but Mr. Schreck is still living at the age of 59. He attended the College Township schools and one term in Dr. Bryson's Academy at Boshalsburg, receiving his County School diploma at that time. He took his examination for a Provisional Teacher's Certificate and received it from Prof. C. I. Gramley, County Superintendent of Schools.

Being only seventeen and under age to be a teacher, Mr. Schreck worked on his father's farm for the next five years and then seven years in the family blacksmith shop shoeing horses and building and repairing wagons and buggies.

In 1907, he and his brother, John, took over his father's business which had been changed to a body and paint shop with the advent of the automobile. He married Miss Maude Musser of Buffalo Run Valley on November 8, 1907. They have one son, William W. Schreck, who is employed by the Centre Daily Times in State College.

He is a member of the Houserville United Brethren Church, where he was Sunday School Superintendent for 30 years. He directed the Lemont Band for a period of 20 years and organized the Lemont baseball team in 1932 and managed it until 1938. He has always been active in civic affairs in his home community.

Sunday School Lesson

ISRAEL'S SIN AND RESTORATION.

International Sunday School Lesson for August 29, 1943

Golden Text: "The Lord is slow to anger and abundant in loving kindness, forgiving iniquity and transgression."—No. 14: 18.

Lesson Text: Exodus 32: 7-10; 34: 4-9, 27-28.

Our lesson last week gave us a summary of many of the laws promulgated among the Hebrews about that time. These are interesting, covering many phases of life at that time and providing us with an insight into the Hebrew ideals of right and wrong.

Modern legal conceptions were not entirely absent from these early laws. The distinction between murder and manslaughter was understood and a difference of punishment applied. The owner of a beast which damaged his neighbor or other ones was held to a much greater responsibility "if the ox were wont to push with his horns in time past," the principle which today is applied in such cases.

We find also some insights which bring to mind the intolerance of a much later age. One of the rules was that "thou shalt not suffer a witch to live, but how many times in the past to stamp out witchcraft has an innocent person been wrongly punished? The New England witch trials of comparatively recent times were efforts to obey this olden injunction but today we realize the danger of such fanatical beliefs.

Priestcraft and religious organization had been attained by the Hebrew society by this time, and we find in the sacred record full instructions about the tabernacle, the priestly tribe, and other rules and regulations for worship. Human society was already beginning to make external form a matter of seriousness in religion. Many years later Christ was to seek to rub off some of this polish and ceremony in order that men might go back to the essentials in the human heart. Modern religion constantly tends towards an emphasis of creed, forms, and external ceremonies or observances, which, we should remember, are not genuine religion, as too often these are only perfunctory lip-services and real religion can be absent from the heart while these are observed.

Moses was absent from the Hebrews for a lengthy period, receiving the law from Jehovah, and during his absence the people demanded an idol to worship. Aaron, willing to please the people and without strong religious conviction, called upon them for their golden ornaments and fashioned the calf for them to worship.

How often even in these days, do we find pastors willing to preach and practice a religion acceptable to their congregations, one that can be followed with a minimum of inconvenience of social habits and business interests! Instead of holding up the high vision to his people, Aaron was willing to follow them for policy's sake.

True religion today needs more fearless preachers, fewer types of the "smooth divine," so excellently satirized by Timothy Dwight, preachers who are good social mixers and expounders of the trite doctrines without venturing to denounce any sin near at home.

Sensational pastors are not desired, but more consecrated thinkers and practitioners who will not countenance members of their congregation in high church positions when their lives are open to question and condemnation?

Intelligence will explain most miracles. The great secret in Moses' life was shown in the prayer he made of God, "Show me now the ways, that I may know Thee, to the end that I may find favor in thy sight."

Men and women today who honestly seek God, try to understand his principles of life, endeavor to conform their lives to his plans for mankind, and constantly seek to win favor by obeying God's directions in their own individual lives usually are rewarded by that peace of mind and contentment which passes all understanding.

(Political adv.)

A smooth running church may be an excellent social organization but it may also be the result of a compromise or ignoring of vital evils which should be attacked. In interpreting righteousness or upholding true religion, the Aaron type, congregation-following preacher can not render God full service.

The selection of the calf as the animal to be worshipped was probably natural to these roaming Easterners of that day. In India today, we find the Hindus regarding the cow as a sacred animal, explained by the importance of the cow in their daily life. An Indian explains this by the fact that the cow is a giver of life in an agricultural country.

Mahatma Gandhi, a great thinker, discussed gravely the question—saying, "Cow-protection means brotherhood between man and beast"—yet unwilling to admit that a Hindu should go so far as to kill a Moham-median to protect a cow.

When Moses returned to the camp of the Hebrews and found their worship perverted to idolatry, their religious exercises nothing but the naked, sensual dances of the idolatrous heathens, he forcibly and eloquently called them back to true religion.

"Who is on the Lord's side?" he queried, and ordered the faithful followers of Jehovah to stamp out the wickedness which required the slaying of three thousand of the Israelites.

Realizing the terrible sin of his people, Moses returned to the top of the mountain to intercede with God for their forgiveness and restoration into his favor. After some pleading on the part of Moses, God forgave them their sin, gave Moses another tablet of stones on which were the Ten Commandments and renewed his covenant with his people.

Moses, the great leader, as we have pointed out recently, was close to God while the great mass of the Hebrews was fickle and wavering—is any other illustration needed to emphasize the great responsibility of leadership and the urgent necessity for our religious leaders to uphold the truth against ignorance, superstition, or desire in the mass today?

The great secret in Moses' life was shown in the prayer he made of God, "Show me now the ways, that I may know Thee, to the end that I may find favor in thy sight."

Men and women today who honestly seek God, try to understand his principles of life, endeavor to conform their lives to his plans for mankind, and constantly seek to win favor by obeying God's directions in their own individual lives usually are rewarded by that peace of mind and contentment which passes all understanding.
