TITLE CASE IS AIRED IN COURT

Titles to Lands Bought at Tax Sale in 1935 May Not be Valid

Who owns the town hall of South Phillipsburg borough, and do some of you people who bought properties at Treasurer's or Commissioners' sales back in November 1935 have a clear title to your purchases?

These weighty problems were being ironed out yesterday in Centre county civil court, in an ejectment suit brought by the town fathers of South Phillipsburg against Matthew Keles and his wife, Ruby.

Back in 1933 the borough bought the building and lot from Howard Vaughn, who owed 1932 taxes on the place. In the course of time the back taxes were returned to the Commissioners' offices, and then the Treasurer—still in Vaughn's name, even though he had sold the property.

The hall was sold by the Treasurer to the Commissioners in 1935 and the Commissioners sold it to the Keleses, Matthew and Ruby, in 1941. All the time, of course, the South Phillipsburg town fathers were in the place and supposed they owned it, until they were dispossessed in 1941.

As the case for the ejectment of the Keleses as owners went on trial yesterday, it developed, in tracing the course of the unpaid taxes through the various government agencies.

LARGE CROWD AT VICTORY RALLY

Surrender of Italy Gives Impetus to Third War Loan Drive

A large crowd last Thursday night gathered on the Diamond in Bellefonte for a victory rally sponsored by Brooks-Doll Post, American Legion, in celebration of the surrender of Italy.

The rally took on something of the nature of a War Bond rally, for the surrender of the junior Axis partner last Wednesday came on the eve of the opening of the Third War Loan campaign.

Judge Ivan Walker, in a brief address, forcefully pointed out why Italy's surrender makes it doubly imperative at this time that sufficient money be available to launch and carry on a full-scale attack against Germany and Japan.

The Rt. Rev. William E. Downes, speaking of the new turn of events in the war, declared "We all rejoice with our fellow Italian citizens, the Italians of this community and country. The Italians never meant to be in this war, they would have been with us from the very beginning."

John G. Love, of Bellefonte, served as master of ceremonies at the rally.

LARGE CAVE-IN AT BUFFALORUN VALLEY MINE

Part of Road Carried Away as Earth Drops Into Mine Stope

COMPANY REPORTS NO HEAVY DAMAGE

Cave-in Somewhat Similar to One at Warner Mine 7 Weeks Ago

Coming less than seven weeks after the mammoth cave-in of an abandoned stope in the Warner Company mine at Coleville, a stope of the newer mine of the National Gypsum Company in Buffalo Run Valley, caved in late Monday afternoon.

Although the cave-in, located about five miles west of Bellefonte, carried with it a portion of the well-traveled road leading from Valley View to the Hiram Grove farm house in Buffalo Run Valley, no one was injured and company officials said yesterday that no damage has resulted to equipment.

The cave-in is almost circular in shape and involves an area about fifty feet in diameter. The sides of the hole drop perpendicularly to a depth of about 50 or more feet. From the hole, the tops of several giant trees, which formerly stood on the site extend above the ground level.

Bayard Magee, works manager of the National Gypsum Company, declared that the cave-in occurred over stope No. 6, in which no work has been carried on for about six weeks. He said that Monday afternoon a crew of miners was at work in another stope about 300 feet distant, and that nothing unusual had occurred.

County Lags in Purchase of War Bonds, Report Shows

County in Danger of Falling Far Behind Quota of $2,549,600

SALES TOTAL ONLY $164,700 TO DATE

Bellefonte Organized For House-to-House Canvass; Drive Ends Sept. 30

Yesterday while United States troops engaged in desperate hand-to-hand battle in an effort to maintain the bridgehead at Salerno, Italy—in what might be one of the crucial battles of the war—Centre County was falling far behind in its war effort through purchases of Bonds in the Third War Loan.

Reports yesterday received by Claude G. Aikens, chairman of the War Finance Committee, indicated that the county quota of $2,549,600 only $164,700 had been bought up to yesterday. The drive ends September 30th.

Mr. Aikens declared that while sales reported to date are disappointing, there is no reason to give up hope at this time. In many sections of the county the organizations canvassing their respective areas are just beginning their work and the full effect of the house-to-house canvass has not had an opportunity to show up in the sales totals reported from the State headquarters at Harrisburg.

Bellefonte has been divided into fourteen sections, each under the direction of a lieutenant assisted by from four to six block leaders in each section. The membership of this citizens' committee of the Civilian Defense Council is as follows:

COUNCIL TO MAKE SURVEY OF TREES

Diseased Ones May Be Removed; Plan Post-War Activities

A townwide survey of trees in Bellefonte borough, with a view toward determining which ones are diseased to the extent that they constitute a danger to life and property, was recommended Monday night at a meeting of Borough Council.

Although definite plans were not made, it was indicated that any trees in a dangerous condition probably would be removed at borough expense. If the plan materializes, Council would make an effort to plant a new tree for every one removed.

Reynolds Shope, of Bellefonte, who is said to be able to determine the health condition of a tree from its external appearance, was recommended to make the survey of Bellefonte's trees.

In this connection, Council agreed to co-operate with the State Highway Department in the removal of any trees which the department deems necessary when the contemplated rebuilding of Allegheny and High streets gets under way.

Observe 50th Wedding Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. SINIE H. HOY

A well known Bellefonte couple during the weekend celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, highlights of the celebration being a family dinner at the Penn Belle Hotel, Saturday night, and an open house at their home, Sunday.

The honored couple, Mr. and Mrs. Sinie H. Hoy, of South Thomas street, were married September 14, 1893 at the home of Mrs. Hoy's foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Dale, who lived on the farm on which the fish hatchery at Pleasant Gap is now located. The bride and groom went to housekeeping on the Dale farm there and for two years after their marriage Mr. Hoy continued to teach in the schools of Benner township. After that he devoted his entire time to farming. In 1906 Mr. Hoy purchased the homestead farm in Benner township from his father, the late H. K. Hoy and for 18 years he tilled the fertile acres of what is commonly known as "the garden spot" of the present Rockview penitentiary lands.

Mr. Hoy retired in 1924 and moved to Bellefonte to his present home on South Thomas street. In 1930 he sold the homestead farm to Rockview penitentiary. Mr. and Mrs. Hoy are in excellent health and continue to remain active. (Continued on page four)
