"Biggest Bargain in Food" to be Discussed

(Continued from page one) The home economist said "sometimes I wonder if we Americans are properly thankful that a simple food like milk is available to us in these wartimes. Like so many other things in our everyday lives, milk has come to be regarded as something of a birthright which never can be tak-"To snap out of this cocksure feeling about milk, we have only to look at a picture of children in war-ridden countries deprived of milk. Their gaunt, drawn faces, their spindly legs and their pitiful little bodies should make us realize the importance of milk to youngsters as well as to adults. "And let's remember that this picture doesn't apply only to wartorn countries; this same starvation could happen here, if for any reason we failed to get enough milk and other foods such as fruits and

An important part of the next Health for Victory meeting will be a discussion of the seven rules for the proper care of milk. Those rules are (1) Refrigerate milk immediately upon delivery. (2) Refrigerate the milk to 40 degrees, or put it in the coldest spot in the refrigerator. (3) Put milk, cream and butter in the refrigerator as soon as you're through using it. (4) Always keep milk covered. (5) Keep old and new milk separate for storage in your refrigerator. Of course, it is all right to combine them in cooking. Drink newest milk. (6) Wipe off bottle tops before pouring or storing. (7) Wash the bottles as they are emp-
