

Echoes From the Past

Fifty Years Ago

A. H. Miller died at his residence in Millheim on Sunday. He had been quite ill for some time from an affection of the liver.

Mr. John Mapes, wife and three daughters, left Eagleville this week in a boat to make a journey to North Carolina by water. It is rather a long and perilous journey, but they feel confident of getting there safely.

A number of capitalists are interested in a project for erecting a big fire-brick plant at Phillipsburg. The Journal says if the plant is erected it will be twice as large as the start as any other of the kind in that section of the country.

On Saturday the alarm of fire was sounded and the entire fire department turned out in short order. A small fire in Mr. Emil Miller's house, Reynolds avenue, was soon checked. A high gale of wind prevailed and there was danger of a serious conflagration.

Mr. George Garbrick and daughter, Sallie, of near Bellefonte, returned home on Wednesday after spending a month at the World's fair and other places in the west.

J. H. Reifsnnyder, Esq., one of Millheim's well known citizens, is still in poor health and unable to attend to his business.

Mr. J. M. Hill, the Singer Sewing Machine agent, and Miss Mary E. Gates, both of Bellefonte, were married at Millersburg on last Saturday evening.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: Alvin Shoyer and Julia A. Grove, both of Lemont; Arthur B. Beck and Eva E. Emerick, both of Nittany; Frank S. Munsler, Penn Hall, and Maggie E. Runkle, Tusseyville; Joseph Griffith, Greenwood Furnace, and Lida Barger, Roland; J. D. Geissinger, Milwaukee, Wis., and Mary A. Triplett, Bellefonte; John A. Slack, Tusseyville, and Annie E. Miller, Spring Twp.; John H. Agate and Cora Gray, both of Phillipsburg; James H. Hill and Mary E. Gates, both of Bellefonte; Ammon J. Hazel and Carrie E. Rouch, both of Madisonburg.

Twenty Years Ago

Ralph Hosterman, Thomas Brown and Clifford Wilson, all of Millheim, escaped death when their Ford collided with a telephone pole in front of William Catherman's residence in that town.

Prof. and Mrs. Irvin Noll, of Philadelphia, were expected in Bellefonte for a visit with Mrs. Noll's mother, Mrs. Martin Fauble. Prof. Noll formerly was an instructor at the Bellefonte High School, and his wife also taught school there.

Motorists in Nittany Valley Saturday night witnessed the burning of a huge cross in the Roy Zimmerman wheat field at Nigh Bank. Two closed cars, traveling very slowly, were seen leaving the field, but nothing was noticed to connect the incident with the Ku Klux Klan.

The appointment of J. O. Stutzman as general superintendent of Rockview penitentiary was approved by Governor Pinchot, and Mr. Stutzman and his wife and daughter had arrived at the institution. He came here from Michigan where he had long been engaged in penal work.

J. A. Wolfe and son, of Rote, escaped serious injury or death about 5 o'clock one morning while on their way to Bellefonte to attend a sale. There was a heavy fog and Mr. Rote, in approaching a bridge at Mackeyville, got on the wrong side and the car plunged over an embankment. He was pinned under the car, with only his mouth and nose above water. Neighbors had to lift the car to free him. His son was able to crawl out of the wreckage, but sustained painful injuries.

William Dorworth, of Baltimore, Md., was a guest at the home of his mother, Mrs. E. S. Dorworth, and sister, Miss Alice Dorworth.

Joseph Undercoffer, efficient baggage master at the Bellefonte P. R. R. passenger station, was on two weeks' vacation and during his absence Robert Hillard was on duty.

A dictaphone had been added to the office equipment of the Kerlin Grand View Poultry Farm in Centre Hall. The business was preparing for a substantial increase in production.

Miss Catherine Rider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rider, of West Linn street, was a patient at the Bellefonte Hospital where she was recuperating from an operation for appendicitis.

George Glenn, Bellefonte health officer, reported two cases of chicken pox. One was at the home of Robert Fromm, on East Bishop street, and the other at the home of Fred Knarr on Spring street.

Frank Bradford, station agent at Centre Hall, had the distinction of having been in that service the longest of any agent on the Williamsport division of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He had begun work for the railroad as agent at Paddy Mountain. From there he was sent to Centre Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Murray Andrews returned from a summer vacation at Winter Harbor, Maine, and had reopened their home on North Allegheny street.

M. A. Landsey, proprietor of the Brockhoff Hotel, had installed a large electric sign on top of the hotel. The sign was visible to persons coming into Bellefonte from State College and also those coming in Bishop street.

While picking apples at the Boyd Samsell farm, known as the Humes farm, Daniel Showalter, parcel post carrier from the Bellefonte postoffice, fell and suffered a badly fractured ankle. Malcolm Haupt was serving as substitute carrier.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: Donald Cogan and Violet A. Thompson, both of Pine Trough, Pa.; Ernest J. Munsler, Lemont, and Esther M. Carver, State College; Russell Knarr and Clara Robb, both of Flemington; Samuel R. McCartney and Lucy Ellen Confer, both of Mount Eagle; George S. Hume, Ottawa, Ont., and Margaret L. Bailey, State College; Charles M. Houser and Ida L. Whiteside, both of Bellefonte; William Williamson and Laura E. Williams, both of Phillipsburg; John E. Burd, Coburn, and Lileah A. Vonada, Millheim.

Children are commanded to "honor" their father and their mother. As a reward for such obedience, God promises that their "days may be long in the land which Jehovah thy God giveth thee."

"The word 'honor' involves reverence (Lev. 19:32); obedience (Col. 3:20; gratitude (1 Tim. 5:4); the following of advice (Prov. 1:8); and of course, the exclusion of all the feelings and actions opposite to these (Ex. 21:15-17; Deut. 21:16)." - P. W. Farrar.

This "honor" will find expression in an acceptance of parental authority and in a becoming deference to one's parents' desires and wishes. The children who are rude, insolent and disrespectful to their parents are not only guilty of breaking this commandment, but they show themselves utterly lacking in moral and spiritual discernment.

Although this Commandment seems to be concerned solely with the duty of the child toward his parents, it by reference clearly teaches that parents have responsibilities toward their children. In order to receive the honor of one's children, parents should be worthy of their children's respect.

A parent lacking in character and self-respect has no right to expect that an intelligent child shall honor him. Parents, to merit the respect of their children should give them the best care—physical, mental and spiritual—that is possible. They should have, in the home, the benefit of proper examples of Christian living in order that they may have the chance to evaluate the advantages of proper choices.

The picture given us in Luke 2:46-52 of the childhood of Jesus, shows how perfectly Jesus observed this Commandment. Found in the temple talking with the learned men of his day, by his parents who failed to understand him, Jesus returned with them to his home in Nazareth and was "subject unto them," while he advanced in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man.

Parents make a sad mistake when they underestimate the possibilities of a child. Much more will be gained by increased confidence and trust, if the parents themselves are giving their children the proper example of what a good life should be.

The promise that goes along with obedience to this Commandment is not so much a promise for the nation as a whole. When the home-life of a nation is stable and secure, then the national life is secure. When the home disintegrates and crumbles, the nation is doomed.

One Job Well Done Begets Another

THERE'S no satisfaction in all the world like the feeling of having done a job well—of being able to see the result of your work. This is one thing that all producers of useful things have in common.

And those of us whose job is production—whether of goods on farms and in factories, or of services in stores and banks and utilities—can best see the results of our work in the high standard of living which we have helped to create in America. For this standard is built on our ability to produce more per person than any other nation on earth. And the people of every country, who are looking hopefully to us for food and weapons, can count on America because it has this great productive might.

After the war is over? Many people are talking about a richer life for all of us. And they're right! For that richer life will be brought about, not by promises, but by hard work on the part of America's producers. And they—those who grow and make and do things—can do this post-war job better if they work together and understand each other. General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y.
