THE PROBLEM OF PAPER

Congressmen, perturbed by the shortage of paper, question certain officials about the use of paper by various government agencies.

Elmer, Davis, of the OWI, says that his agency, which handles "news releases" and reports for all war agencies, would use 18,000 tons of paper in 1943

This may seem like a large amount of paper but some Sunday newspapers published in metropolitan areas, use 1,000 tons an issue. We have no doubt whatever that the paper used by the OWI will result in more information for the public per ton than any paper used by the mammoth Sunday editions.

So far as newsprint is concerned the paper shortage can be solved by regulating the size and frequency of editions in metropolitan centers, where most of the paper is consumed.

NO TARIFF FOR RUBBER

As a war measure the United States has invested something like $700,000,000 in the construction of plants for the manufacture of synthetic rubber.

What to do with these plants after the emergency, is under consideration, with every indication that a great demand will arise for a tariff upon raw rubber to permit the synthetic plants to continue in operation. Just what the people of the United States will get out of their operation, except higher prices on rubber goods, we cannot imagine,

JAPANESE LOSING SHIPS

The Navy Department reveals the destruction or damage of 148 Japanese vessels in action which have not been announced because of the necessity of withholding information from the enemy.

All of the ships were credited to submarine action, bringing the score for these avengers of Pearl Harbor to 319 enemy ships sunk, 36 probably sunk and 105 damaged.

All Japanese losses, as announced by the Navy, up to mid-October, included 305 warships sunk, damaged or probably sunk and 852 noncombatant ships. The total is 1,157.

The Navy believes that 125 enemy warships have been sunk, 28 have probably been sunk and 152 have been damaged. For non-combatant ships: 469 sunk, 64 probably sunk and 319 damaged.

It should be pointed out that the Navy statement does cover all Japanese losses, although it included some losses inflicted by the Marine Corps and Army forces.

If the people who read the Tribune are ignorant enough to be in-Larry, have been on the sick list. fluenced by such trash they are less intelligent than head-hunters of the jungle.

The Tribune, which arrogantly proclaims itself "the world's greatest newspaper," evidently believes that mass circulation of distorted insinuations can fool its readers, which is not very complimentary.
