The Fruit Closet

One good idea for use in the fruit closet is to divide it into compartments with a label over each little section. This saves the trouble of labeling each individual jar. The partitions can be made of heavy cardboard and easily arranged.

DIES WHILE AT PRAYER—Chaplain Keith Munro, of the 87th Airborne Engineer Aviation Battalion, was killed instantly when an enemy plane crashed and exploded while he was conducting services for the men of his battalion in the Southwest Pacific. His commanding officer wrote his parents in Berkeley, California: "He died with God's words on his lips and could he have chosen the time of God's calling, he would have had it thus. He was buried last evening in a grove of coconut palms surrounded by full blooming poinsettias. He gave his life that those he loved could live in peace and freedom."

State's Death Chair Has Claimed 293

crime was punishable by hanging, 279 persons paid the supreme penalty.
Probably the most exciting execution resulted when the five Olney bank bandits were put to death in the 1920's. Rumors spread that a group of Philadelphia gangsters would make a last-minute attempt to free the quintet just before they were scheduled to take the last few steps from their death cells to the death chamber.
State police were placed on guard near the prison and all roads leading to the institution were watched closely. Officials breathed a sigh of relief when the fifth man was pronounced dead and no attempt had been made to rescue them.

RED CLOVER SEED TESTS CONDUCTED AT PENN STATE

Results of red clover seed tests from 1926 to 1942 are now available, according to J. K. Thornton, of the department of agronomy at the Pennsylvania State College. The purpose of the tests was to determine red clovers adapted to Pennsylvania conditions.
Red clovers from the Cornbelt proved to be vigorous, disease-tolerant, winter-hardy, and productive in the trials conducted at State College. The disease-resistant clovers from Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee performed as well as the best Cornell selections. A number of local Pennsylvania strains which had been grown on one farm or in the same community for 10 years or longer, proved to be more disease-resistant, winter-hardy, persistent, and productive than any of the other strains tested.

CRUSHED:
This department, after all, is only a Voice in the Wilderness. Last year we remember distinctly of having complained about the illustration used on the First National Bank's calendar to portray Father's Day. We said we didn't like the drawing of the bald, fat jerk smoking a big black cigar which filled the date space for June 18. So this year what did the calendar makers do? They put the same identical yokel back in the Father's Day space!
SNOW:
Did you notice the size of the snowflakes that fell Monday night? They weren't quite as large as pillow cases, but they were larger than a silver dollar and they "crunched" when they fell on your hat. Persons out in the storm for ten minutes looked as though someone had thrown snowballs at them.
If anybody is dissatisfied with the home front there are a lot of men in the service who would like to swap places.

Without it, nobody's going to plan any further than tomorrow. Without it, there's no incentive to invent or invest, discover or develop. Without it—and don't let any one tell you otherwise—this country would lose its high place among the nations.

How American Farmers Are Meeting the Pulpwood Challenge

EARLY in 1943 when the country was faced with a disastrous pulpwood shortage, the Secretary of Agriculture said, "The only place we can look for additional supplies is from the farm woodlot."
And the farmers of America did not let him down. Their patriotic response helped a lot to supply much needed pulpwood for war industries.

Now, as we enter 1944

It is clear that a serious pulpwood shortage will continue. But farmers have learned that pulpwood cutting is good business as well as sound patriotism. Now is the best time to thin woodlots when pulpwood prices are at their peak. And recent rulings of the War Manpower Commission encourage farmers to cut pulpwood in off seasons by counting it as war unit credits toward deferment.
And so the farmers of America are asked to make pulpwood cutting an important part of their 1944 work program. It is off-season work; profitable work; patriotic work. Do all you can. Your country needs every cord you can cut. Keep in touch with your local pulpwood committee.
