INGENIOUS NEW NAZI MINE IS HARD ON U.S. SOLDIERS

The War Department reveals that the Germans had perfected an ingenious new land mine which exploded in the air and was causing serious casualties among U.S. army personnel in Italy.

The mine ,dubbed "Bouncing Betty," is buried and has three prongs protruding above ground. When a prong is disturbed, a small charge hurls the mine some five feet in the air where it explodes, scattering steel fragments in all directions Sometimes, the War Department said, the soldiers can hear a sharp "pop" when a prong is stepped on. This saused by the firing of a powder train. When they hear this, they can usually save themselves by drop-ping quickly to the ground, as the mine explodes laterally. However, "God and a Sinner Meet." most men fail to hear the first pop.
