

Echoes From the Past

Fifty Years Ago

The McCuley brothers did some fine work in painting and hanging...

According to a Bellefonte Central Railroad schedule, it took 50 minutes to go from Bellefonte to State College...

On and after the 26th of next month the stage route which carries the U. S. Mail through Nittany Valley from Bellefonte to Lock Haven...

The new passenger engine of the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania arrived Saturday from the shops and is in excellent trim. It is as bright and clean as a new silver dollar.

For the first time this season there is enough snow on the ground to make good sleighing. On Tuesday we had about eight inches of snow and the weather promises to stay cold for a while.

The following have filed their applications with the Prothonotary for liquor licenses in Centre County for the ensuing year: Hotel Licenses: John M. Neubauer, Bellefonte; W. A. Musser, Millheim; Willis Weaver, Millheim; Richard Miller, Phillipsburg; Tatarski Ingram, Phillipsburg; R. A. Brauch, Coburn; Samuel B. Shaeffer, Madisonburg; John B. Swoope, Phillipsburg; D. H. Ruhl, Spring Mills; Jeffrey Hayes, Phillipsburg; W. Frank Bradford, Old Fort; A. L. Newhook, Rebersburg; J. L. DeHaas, Howard; W. L. Duggett, Bellefonte; George E. Leister, Phillipsburg; James Pasmore, Phillipsburg; Michael McCabe, Snow Shoe; Lawrence Redding, Snow Shoe; John G. Uzzell, Snow Shoe; E. L. Burgess, Snow Shoe; R. G. Askey, Rush township. Applicants for other types of licenses were: N. W. Eby, Woodward, distiller; John Miller, Pleasant Gap, distiller; William Riley, Phillipsburg, distiller; John Deim, Phillipsburg, wholesaler beer; W. R. Hayes, Snow Shoe, wholesaler beer; John Anderson, Bellefonte, wholesaler beer; Orin Vail, Phillipsburg, wholesaler liquor. From the above list it will be noticed that there are many new applicants where no license has been granted for a number of years.

Mr. Jacob Williams, of St. Paul Street, a highly respected colored gentleman, died at his home on Tuesday night...

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: Andrew Lorinjak and Annie Matz, both of Snow Shoe; Jonas M. Stover, Wolfe Store; Andrew Neimi and Annie Hannes; both of Bellefonte; Walter G. Tallhelm and Mary E. Alexander, both of Julian.

Wentworth Shortledge, a son of Dr. Swithin C. Shortledge of Media, has come to live with his uncle, Col. William Shortledge on Thomas Street...

On Monday Sheriff Condo and Treasurer John G. Miles left for Pittsburgh, to take a convicted forger to the Western Penitentiary there. On Wednesday last week a sneak thief attempted to take Mrs. Samuel Geiswite's purse while she was riding on a Bellefonte Valley train...

To travel the 27.3 miles between Bellefonte and Mill Hill over the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania requires one hour and 15 minutes. Stations on the route were: Nigh Bank, Zion, Hecla Furnace, Hublersburg, Snydertown, Nittany, Huston, Lamar, Clintondale, Kridler, Mackeysville, Cedar Springs, Salona and Mill Hill.

A report is current that E. R. Chambers, Esq., of Bellefonte, received a re-appointment to the position of deputy revenue collector of this district on Monday from Collector Herring, the recently appointed Democrat official. This is not the case. Mr. Chambers was simply requested to renew his bond and he will continue until someone is appointed in his place.

Last week the Comet Hook and Ladder Company of Bellefonte, held a meeting of its remaining members and after discussing the situation it was decided advisable for the company to be disbanded. Of late very few members took any interest in the organization and this step became necessary. The company has been in existence for about seven years and had a full equipment. All their property, bought by popular subscription, will be turned over to the borough authorities. Before disbanding they voted to present two rubber outfits—cap coat and high boots—to each of the fire companies for their chiefs and first assistants. What disposition will be made of the property is not known. A new company could be organized or it might be given to one of the fire companies.

Centre County's first winter tragedy happened Monday when Orlo Breen, aged 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Breen, of Millheim, was drowned when he attempted to cross the creek dam at the Pennington and McCullen Brothers mill, on a thin slab of ice. The discovery was made about 1 p. m. after the youth's sister reported that her brother had not been in school. A search by hundreds of Millheim residents revealed that one of the employees at the mill had found school books along the creek bank but thought nothing of it. The dam was drained and the body discovered. Evidence at the dam showed that he apparently was crossing the 150-foot stretch of ice to examine traps he had on the other side. About 25 feet out the ice broke and he plunged into 11 feet of water. He was survived by his parents and one sister.

Trees cut near Woodward on the L. L. Weaver lumber operation were of such gigantic size that three 36-foot flat cars were required to haul them. The lumber was being cut by E. H. Musser, and Howard and Roy Bowersox, of Woodward, on the Thomas Mott tract south of Woodward, under the direction of Mr. Weaver. The trees were cut to fill an order for the construction of a hoisting device. One of the timbers was white oak 41 feet long and 16 inches square; two pieces of white pine 18 feet long and 14 inches square at one end tapering to 12 inches square at the other. Another piece was 66 feet long, 14 inches square at one end and 12 inches square at the other. There were two pieces of 80 feet long and 12 and 14 inches square, respectively. No saw mill in Centre County was large enough to handle such logs and it was necessary to haul them by barge. Dan Krastetter, a veteran woodsman of Coburn was secured to do that work and he was assisted by Mr. Musser and the two Bowersox boys who were skilled in the use of the axe. The trees were more than 3 1/2 feet in diameter before being felled.

Program Suggested to Increase Food Output

Attention should be given to the proper preparation of farm products for market. Marketing organizations which encourage the handling of quality products should be supported.

Maintenance of Soil Fertility 1. A crop rotation that provides for at least one sod crop to be plowed under during the rotation is desirable. The use of additional green manure crops will add fertility and water-holding capacity to the soil.

Farm Crops 1. The type of crops should be raised that will meet the livestock needs of the farm.

Dairy, Livestock and Poultry 1. Dairy cattle, livestock and poultry serve as a market through which crops raised are sold. The efficiency of these herds and flocks is a big factor in determining the price a farmer receives for his crops.
