

Bellefonte Gunner Downed In Crash

down successfully and all men cleared the pipe before it sank.
"When the plane hit the water, life rafts were released and eight of the crew members succeeded in reaching these. Shortly after this they were picked up and all these men were saved. Sgt. McNichol and one other man were unable to reach the rafts. The water was very rough that day and it was impossible for the men on the rafts to reach Bill or for him to reach them, as the waves carried them further and further apart. His body was picked up by a British destroyer and he was accorded a military burial at sea.
"I know that nothing will ease the feeling of loss which you and your family feel and which we share with you. The strength and courage of Bill and men like him, are not lost but imparted to live in dignity and friendship with their fellow men. Our challenge, yours and mine, is to show our worthiness of the great heritage these men have given and protected for us."

Mr. and Mrs. McNichol received the Purple Heart certificate last Wednesday for their son with the notice that the Purple Heart was being sent to them.
Sgt. McNichol, who would have been 22 years old in May and expected to be home for that birthday, was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad before entering the service on November 2, 1942. He was graduated from the Bellefonte High School where he played on the basketball and football teams.
He began his training at Miami Beach, Fla., and trained at Salt Lake City, Utah; Buckley Field, Colo.; and in two fields in Texas. He spent a furlough in Bellefonte last August prior to his leaving for North Africa in September. A brother, Sgt. Samuel McNichol, is in the service and is stationed at Camp Gordon Johnston, Ga.
If you don't care what people think about you, make it your duty in life to speak the truth frankly and without fear or favor.

SET LAWN MOWER FOR BETTER CUTTING JOB

To maintain a neat lawn, it is necessary to have the lawn mower in good condition at all times, according to Fred V. Grau, extension agronomist of Pennsylvania State College.
If it is to do a good job, the lawn mower must be sharp, adjusted and thoroughly oiled, Grau says. Because of the luxuriant growth of grass this spring, the mower will be busier than usual.
One of the highlights of the special events program will be the appearance on Wednesday afternoon, June 21, of authors Ogden Nash and Nea Chase, together with a prominent newspaper correspondent and one other leading writer, at State College. This event is sponsored jointly by the State College Woman's Club, the faculty of Penn State and the Bellefonte Mother's Club.
Admission requirements will be that the person seeking admission produce a certificate showing the purchase of a war bond during the 5th War Loan campaign. During the entire campaign, purchasers of every bond will be entitled to a certificate granting him admission to a special event. Presentation of the certificate at the box office will entitle the holder to a reserved seat for the authors and writers program. Other special events may be scheduled later, and if such is the case, the bond purchaser may decide which event he wishes to attend. Each certificate, of course, is good for only one event.
Mrs. Frank Daly, of Bellefonte, is a new member of the War Finance Committee and she has been assigned to take charge of stamp booths in theatres and in the Bellefonte Murphy store. Mrs. Daly also will supervise the distribution of a new Walt Disney bond designed specially for children up to five years of age. Persons who purchase bonds of any denomination may request one of the "baby bond" certificates, which certify that the designated child is one of the bond. The certificate is decorated with a number of Disney's famous characters.
For the special drive for a more complete house-to-house canvass of all towns and areas of the county, district leaders have been asked to increase their staffs of workers, with more accent being placed on women workers. It is the goal to have workers visit every home and every family in the county for a personal appeal during the drive.
Centre county's quota of $2,238,000 in the campaign is not excessive when the cost of war materials is considered. That sum would purchase a landing ship for tanks, designed as an LST, plus a landing craft, mechanized, designed as LCM. It was pointed out by county leaders.
At Monday's meeting Mr. Aiken reported that war bond redemptions continue at a low rate. Official figures reveal that of a total of $30,000,000 in bonds sold since May 1, 1941, redemptions total $2,380,000,000, or 7.8 per cent. Of a total of $21,200,000,000 in "E" bonds alone sold to date, redemptions total $2,166,000,000, or 10.2 per cent. Mr. Aiken said that the rate of redemption is exceedingly light in view of the fact that many persons purchase bonds with a view of using them for emergencies, to pay taxes, buy coal, finance operations, and for other similar needs. The over-all picture reveals that of every dollar invested in "E" bonds to date, 90 cents still remains with the government.

initial six-month probationary period on the borough police force, was placed on a full time police basis at the standard salary rate.
Council voted a reward of $25 to Paul Crispin, of North Allegheny street, for furnishing information which led to the arrest and conviction of four persons who destroyed a parking meter near the Dr. E. H. Adams residence on that street last January. A standing offer of $25 was posted by Council to anyone giving information on meter damages.
A request by Kofman's for permission to place a new roof on the former Brewer coal yard property on Dunlap street, was granted by Council. Kofman's recently purchased the property.
George Brown asked to have several trees in front of his home on South Spring street removed, claiming the roots of the trees are destroying the sidewalk. The request was referred to the Tree Commission for investigation.
The Fire and Police committee was directed to instruct police to enforce a borough ordinance regarding the riding of bicycles at night without proper lights. Numerous complaints have been received about disregard of the law and a number of accidents have been narrowly averted.
The police report covering the last three weeks, submitted by Chief Harry Dukeman, showed 162 cars tagged, 1 larceny investigation, 4 auto accident investigations, a stolen watch, 2 stolen bicycles, and a stolen car recovered, 6 arrests for drunk and disorderly conduct, 7 transients in the lock-up, 24 confidential reports, receipts of $316.71 from meters and $8.20 from market fees.
The ordinance condemning the Hepburn property passed its final reading and is ready for the Burgess signature.

Lutheran Church Is 100 Years Old

In 1844 each group was organized into a district denominational organization in view of the building of a union church building. The Lutherans were formally organized under the Rev. Gustav Eggers on June 30, 1844. A frame building was erected on the present site of the reformed church, which was dedicated January 15, 1845, and which served both congregations for a period of twenty-five years.
In 1869 the Lutherans purchased the Episcopalian church and rectory on East High street. This property was destroyed by fire on June 12, 1888. The congregation worshipped for several years in what is now the Farmers National Bank building, until the completion of the present church building, in which the first service was held in August, 1893.
For the first eighteen years St. John's church was a part of either the Military Valley or the Old Fort parishes. Since then with the exception of a few years when its child, St. Mark's of Pleasant Gap, was a part of the parish, the congregation has stood alone as a parish. Nineteen pastors have served the church during the century, only two of whom, Pastor W. M. Reasick, and Pastor Wilson P. Ard, beside the present pastor, the Rev. Clarence E. Arnold, are living. The present membership of the congregation is 411 baptized and 321 confirmed members.
