SOLDIER COMPARES TEXAS SAND TO LOCAL LIMEDUST

Camp Berkeley, Texas.

Dear Sirs: Just a few lines in regards to the paper and the Army. I have been in the paper regularly. They put all limited service men in the Medical Corps. It is a great life. Classes all day, then night problems half of the night.

I hope to see old Bellefonte again soon. The people up there complain about limedust. One thing sure, they are lucky they aren't in Texas, as we have sand in everything we eat, and our bunk is full of it every night. I have been here three months now and still can't figure out why after living in a beautiful state like Pennsylvania they would send me to a place like this. But still cannot understand why so many single boys are at home yet. There are two of us Bellefonte, R. and the fathers have to be drafted. D. boys here in this camp—both wishing we were at home. But I

I suppose there is a reason.

Despite our faith in popular government, as exemplified by Congress, we cannot imagine the nation winning a war conducted by an investigating committee.
