America is still

THE two things on which this nation relies for food-farmers to grow it, railroads to move it-have again come through.

Farmers have seen their fine young sons go off to war; but with the help of the women folks and the smaller boys and girls they've been out there tending and harvesting one of the largest crops ever to come to market.

And the railroads, while shouldering the greatest war load in history, have mobilized the cars to move those crops . . . at low prewar freight rates, too!
