Mill Hall Dwelling Damaged by Fire

Triple Frame House on "Island" Was Owned By J. B. Strunk

Fire of undetermined origin Sunday noon extensively damaged a triple frame dwelling house on the "Island" near Mill Hall, owned by Joseph B. Strunk.

The blaze seemed to start on the roof, caused either by a defective fuse or a spark from a passing freight train, in the opinion of Mr. Strunk. He said later that repairs will be made to the building as soon as arrangements can be made.

One end of the building, occupied by the William Berry family, suffered the most of the damage, the entire upper story being burned. Only a portion of the roof over the middle house, tenanted by the Nelson Allen family, was burned and the Allen family were able to move back in after the fire had been extinguished.

All three families had practically all their furniture out of the building. Although fire damage was confined almost entirely to the building itself, there was damage from water.

Beech Creek May Get Landing Strip

Plans Submitted By Exchange Club May Be Adopted in Near Future

According to Friday's Look Haven Express, Clinton county will probably have its first airplane landing strip located at Beech Creek, if plans being advanced by Walter C. Jamouneau and his committee from the Exchange Club in cooperation with George F. Hess are accepted.

The Express says that Mr. Jamouneau named as his committee E. L. Stein, Anthony A. Torsell, Ridgely B. Heller, and I. W. Hunt. This group motored to the neighboring community Thursday and viewed the proposed area. From all indications, as recommended by Mr. Hess, the strip will be prepared on the land directly behind the high school between the railroad tracks and crossing the baseball field.

The proposed strip allows an approximate 1,000 to 1,100 feet in length and width sufficient to allow landings of larger planes. At the present time, however, there are a number of telephone and electric light wires directly over the strip and contracts are being made with the various companies in the hope of having these placed underground.

Lightning Burns Barn, Contents

$2450 Estimated Damage at Guyer Farm Near Philipsburg

Heavy damage occurred last Thursday evening at the Jess Guyer farm at Mock's Hill, near Philipsburg, when a bolt of lightning set fire to the large barn, causing complete destruction of the building and contents. The loss is estimated at $2450.

Philipsburg firemen were called to the scene of the fire which occurred shortly after 6 o'clock. The livestock was removed from the barn but everything else housed in the barn was lost. This included farm machinery, grain, hay, straw, etc.

This was said to have been the third fire on the Guyer farm caused by lightning. Several years ago the home was struck by lightning and burned down, and a number of years ago the previous barn was hit and destroyed.

It was reported that the other barn burned from the same lightning in 1913 and that the house burned in 1927. The barn that burned down Thursday was reported hit twice by cold bolts of lightning in recent years without damage resulting.

STUPIDITY: This corner supposes, of course, that the technically-minded official in Harrisburg who recently ruled that community canning centers can't be held in school buildings because they're not covered in school insurance, can, with equal ease, wave his wand of authority and produce food in abundance next winter if and when food becomes scarce.

Propaganda: Heard "O. K." speak from Germany the other night. With tears in his voice he tried to explain that the U. S. has already got all it can hope to expect from World War II, and that it is folly to keep on.
