Sunday School Lesson

ISRAEL'S FIRST KING

International Sunday School Lesson for August 27, 1944.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the king."—I Peter 2: 17.

Lesson Text: Samuel 9: 15-21; 10: 25-27; 11: 12-15.

As Samuel, the last of the judges grew old, the people of Israel began to be dissatisfied with the form of government they had had for some time and demanded a king to judge us like all the nations.

Saul's first deed as king proved his courage and established his reputation as a warrior, when he promptly went to the rescue of the city of Jabesh-gilead, which had been attacked by the Ammonites.

When, in their exuberance and enthusiasm for their new king, the people would have put to death those who sneered at him at first, Saul again showed his magnanimity of spirit by refusing to permit such a slaughter, declaring, "There shall not a man be put to death this day, as he gave God the credit for his victory."

Saul possessed all the characteristics necessary for a successful reign as King of Israel, except one, self-control.

How to Arrange Christmas Mail for Overseas Delivery

In order that Christmas parcels may reach your sons and daughters on time and in good condition, arrangements have been made by the Post Office Department in cooperation with the War and Navy Departments.

Armed Forces Overseas

The term "armed forces overseas" includes all persons of our armed forces who receive their mail through an APO or fleet post office in care of the postmaster at New York, N. Y., San Francisco, Calif., New Orleans, La., Miami, Fla., Minneapolis, Minn., Presque Isle, Maine, or Seattle, Wash., or through a naval installation or station in care of the postmaster of Seattle.

Time of Mailing

Christmas parcels and Christmas cards must be mailed during the period beginning September 15, and ending October 15, 1944. No request letter from the soldier will be required for this period only.

Size and Weight

The size and weight of Christmas parcels must not exceed the postal limits of 5 pounds in weight or 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined. No more than one Christmas parcel or package will be accepted for mailing in any one week to the same addressee.

Preparation

Metal, wood or solid fiberboard boxes must be used, wrapped in heavy paper and securely tied with a strong twine. All parcels are subject to censorship.

Soft candies whether homemade or commercial do not carry well. Therefore, items of this nature such as cookies, fruit cake, chocolate bars and nuts should be enclosed in inner boxes of wood, metal or cardboard. Sharp-edged instruments such as razors or knives are subject to censorship.

Prohibited Articles

Intoxicants, inflammable material such as lighter fluid and matches of all kinds as well as poisonous compositions, are prohibited.

Addresses Must Be Legible: Addresses must be legible, and printed with a typewriter or with ink. Complete addresses must also be placed inside the parcel.

CHARM (Part One)
We live in deeds, not years,
In heart throbs, not in shadows on a dial.

He who lives intensely is interested in life, in people, in the world about him, he lives largely in the present. A person of this kind is interesting and frequently charming.

To possess charm a woman must be well groomed and immaculate. She should never be flamboyantly or conspicuously dressed. Shakespeare's advice is, "Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy, but not express'd fancy; rich, not gaudy; for the apparel oft proclaims the man."

To a large extent one is judged by his clothes and in a measure they do reveal the inner man.

No one can be attractive in appearance, no matter how stylish and fine the apparel, if the posture is bad, the abdomen protruding, and the back stooped.

If this condition exists from disease, we pity those who are thus afflicted. When such slovenly posture is due to carelessness and habit, it disgusts the beholder.

The woman, who enters the room like a whirlwind, proclaiming to the occupants the fact of exuberant spirits, may be trying to court popularity and display her attractions and charms, but she has missed the mark. A noted author has said that charm is a "very subtle and intangible thing, elusive and complex."

It is true that charm is characterized by vitality which is not shown in outbreaks of animal spirit. It is more of the mind and soul than of the body, and yet physical attraction can be made a real asset in the acquiring of charm.

A kind heart and an unselfish nature are shown in quiet and unobtrusive ways that unconsciously create an atmosphere of trust and good fellowship among acquaintances.

A person who is naturally cruel and self-seeking may deceive others for awhile but always betrays himself sooner or later. His cold eye and overbearing conduct soon become repellent.

One who is insincere is never charming. The insincere seeker after charm always eventually shows his real self. He may cultivate his voice until he acquires the sweet, cooing notes of the dove, but when he is off his guard, he screams like the angry jay.

Pulpwood Needed for War And Peace

With the Allies making advances in all sectors it is natural that some war workers may become prematurely optimistic and start looking for jobs with more security.

The same pulpwood that today makes smokeless powder, supply parachutes and V-boxes tomorrow will make cartons for peace-time world trade, many new fiber-base products for civilian use, as well as the customary paper and paper products which are found in every home.

No new equipment will be necessary to produce pulpwood in the post-war period although, of course, worn out trucks and tires will be replaced and mechanical saws may become more widespread.

Pulpwood offers a wartime job with a post-war future. Cut all you can for war today and you'll be prepared for the industrial needs tomorrow.

"Waiter," asked the patron in a restaurant, "is it necessary to have that wretched cat prowling about among the tables?"

"Well, it's like this 'ere, sir," replied the waiter, "when there's rabbit stew on the menu, the manager thinks it adds to the enjoyment of the meal if our cat is well in evidence, so to speak, sir."

PINE GROVE MILLS 4-H CLUB HOLDS MEETING

A regular meeting of the Pine Grove Mills 4-H Club was held Monday evening of last week at the home of Edwin and Paul Stevens. There were about 20 members and about 12 parents present. The meeting was in charge of the president, Ruth Grubb.

William Youngdahl, the assistant county agent, led the club meeting. He said that the county agent would send them instructions about the roundup exhibits to be held at the Orange Fair. Following this, E. J. Anderson of State College, gave a short talk on the work of bees in making honey and beeswax.

Proceeding the business meeting, picnic supper was enjoyed by all. After the meeting Mr. Stevens showed the members some of his beekeeping equipment.

The next meeting will be held on September 11 at the home of Ruth and Dorothy Grubb.
