SCOTIA

(By H. M. Williams)
We were sorry to learn of the death of our former Scotia resident, John Dewey, who died a couple of weeks ago at his home in Tyrone. John suffered a stroke last spring and had never recovered from it.
Mrs. Donald Shuey of Pleasant Gap spent last Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Reed and Grandpa Saxton.
Rev. and Mrs. O. R. Williams and son of Williamsport spent last Thursday at our home and returned home the same day.
Last week while at work on the new washer building a man walked up and said to me "I heard that you were born and raised here." I said "yes, that is true," and he said to me "I bet this was a H— of a wild place when you lived here," and I told him that the Indians had all left here when I got here and it didn't seem so wild. Then I told him a lot of people had the wrong impression of this place during its time of peration, while we were talking another man overheard the conversation and remarked, "Brother, this was a real place to work and live at that time, and if you don't believe it just ask some of the older residents who once lived and worked here."
The Fellowship Class of the Grays Methodist church met last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reick. There were twenty-two members present.
The community seems a little quiet now through the day as school started again last Wednesday in our district.
Mrs. Ruth Saxton spent last Wednesday with Aunt Dora Ghaner.
The Jack Lewis family, who had been occupying the Carl Fisher house, moved back to Ohio last week, but Jack will continue staying here until the job is finished at the Scotia mines.

takes most of the leading columnists apart one by one and shows what makes them tick. Particularly fine portions of the book are those on Dorothy Thompson, Walter Winchell, the so-called military experts with special emphasis on Major George Fielding Eliot, and lastly, Ernie Pyle. Fisher's study of his profession is an analytical one done with the rich and warm expression for which his column is noted. He gives praise to the deserving, and his manner of criticism is so pleasant to read that we suspect even the most severely lambasted columnist will harbor no lasting ill-will toward Surgeon Fisher.
MUSIC:
The rich and fruity music of the hills has moved nearer to Bellefonte. The gentleman with the potential public address system apparently has moved from the south side of Schady's mountain to a point in the vicinity of Collins Row, and his Sunday programs strike the N3rd Ward with all the gentleness of a falling load of bricks. There's a new tune in the collection—one I trust a hillbilly who left his home where the mocking bird sings in the glen, to go to the city, where he brahly spent $14 doing the town.

PROGRAM:
Ever listen to "The Pacific Story," broadcast every Sunday night at 11:30 and sponsored by the University of California Press? It is a fascinating series of background stories about the factors which led to the Pacific war, and it shows quite clearly that Japan's attack on the U. S. apparently had been planned for many, many years, the chief goal of the Japs, of course, being to establish a vast East Indian empire.

LOOKING AHEAD:
There's going to be a national furor, one of these days, over whether the U. S. is to demand that every young man, upon reaching a certain age, undergo a year of compulsory military training.
