

Town To Lose Quarry Offices

In the course of construction it was found necessary to raise one of the old houses six inches above its original level so thoroughly have the former buildings been overhauled that today the completed structure appears to be entirely new.

The office building faces west, overlooking hills and fields, with the main plant in the left foreground. The main entrance opens upon a spacious lobby or reception room, and a hall along the rear of the building connects with a single large room to the south and two smaller rooms to the north. Wash rooms and record-storage rooms are provided also on the first floor.

On the second floor are two large workrooms and several smaller rooms, including a washroom and storage space. Above the second floor is an unfinished area under the roof which is available for storage.

The basement is divided into several rooms, including one large fireproof vault with double steel doors for the storage of valuable records.

A modern stoker-fired hot water heating system is in the course of installation, although because of war conditions the radiators and stoker have not arrived at this time.

Floors throughout the building are to be of tile linoleum finish, and ceilings are of soundproof tile construction. The old portions as well as the new central part of the building have been equipped with modern, weather-stripped window sash.

The office building is, most readily reached from the main intersection at Pleasant Gap by turning south along a road at the side of the Boy Scout service station. From the upper end of Pleasant Gap the hard-surfaced road leading to the plant may be used.

The building will house the offices of all departments now located in Temple Court, including those of Ray C. Noll, president and general manager; P. E. Wholaver, secretary, treasurer and purchasing agent; and L. Ward Hile, assistant secretary and treasurer. W. C. Smetzer is vice-president of the firm.

In addition, an office staff consisting of about seven other persons will be located in the new building next week.

Ark, and then to Ft. Meade, Md., where he remained until being sent overseas.

He was a member of the Hubbersburg soccer team and was holder of several ribbons for achievement in agricultural work while in school.

The county soldier was born at Dix Run, this county, a son of Andrew and Mabel Bressler. He is survived by his parents and three brothers and sisters: Staff Sgt. Walter T. Bressler 21, in an Army hospital in Nashville, Tenn.; Sgt. George Bressler, 23, Camp Gruber, Okla.; Kenneth, William, Betty, Dora and Phyllis, all at home.

The brother, Staff Sgt. Walter, first engineer on a Liberator bomber, on April 17 was reported by the War Department to be missing in action since April 1, but he later was accounted for and returned to the United States by plane, landing in Washington, D. C., just an hour after his brother, Paul, had left Ft. Meade with his division for overseas.

The father of the three soldiers, better known as "Andy" Bressler, former manager of the Bellefonte YMCA bowling alley, is a wounded veteran of World War I. He was one of five infantrymen left standing after an engagement in France and later one of three survivors of another engagement.

Cpl. Johnson Wounded

Cpl. Harry B. Johnson, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes B. Johnson, of Bellefonte, R. D. (Moose Run Road), was slightly wounded in action in France September 2. It was learned in a War Department telegram received last Thursday by his parents.

The county soldier, a member of an infantry battalion, was called for service February 21, 1942, and took preliminary training at Fort Meade, Md. Later he was sent to Dillsworth, N. C., and after a short stay at a camp in Virginia, was moved to Camp Blanding, Fla., for advanced infantry training. On October 3 of the same year he was sent overseas, landing in England where he continued to train for the invasion. He had been in France since D-Day.

Cpl. Johnson attended the Bellefonte High School for three years. Before entering service he was employed as a laborer on construction at the Bellefonte High School and spent several months working in a defense plant at Elmira, N. Y. He has a brother, Pfc. Linn F. Johnson, also serving in the armed forces in France.

Lt. Lower Missing

Lt. Edward J. Lower, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lower, of Nittany Village, State College, R. D., and husband of the former Jane Hanscom, of State College, has been missing in action since September 12, his 23rd birthday, according to a War Department message received by his parents, Monday.

The telegram stated that their son has been missing in action over Germany.

Lt. Lower, bombardier and navigator of a B-17 Flying Fortress, recently received four clusters to his Air Medal and the Distinguished Flying Cross. In his last letter written the day before his last mission, he said that he expected to come home soon. It was assumed by his wife and parents from that statement that he had almost completed the required number of missions.

Lt. Lower was inducted into the service on June 17, 1942. After completing his basic training at Fort George G. Meade, Md., he transferred to the Air Corps and took training at Nashville, Tenn.; Maxwell Field, Ala.; Douglas, Ga.; Santa Ana Army Air Base, Cal., and at Kirtland Field, N. M.

He was graduated from the Army Air Forces Bombardier School at Kirtland Field, Albuquerque, N. M., as an aerial bombardier and was commissioned a second lieutenant. He then was sent to Ephrata, Wash., where he was assigned to a Flying Fortress, following which he trained in Florida and at Langley Field, Va., before going overseas.

Lt. Lower was graduated from the State College High School in 1941 and was later employed by John Henszey of State College. At the time of induction into the service he worked for the McPeely Brick Company of Port Matilda.

The county lieutenant was married in February of this year to Miss Jane Hanscom who is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Richard Hanscom of South Pugh street, State College.

S/Sgt. Smith Missing

S/Sgt. William F. Smith, 21, operator and gunner on a B-24 Liberator bomber, has been missing in action over Germany since September 11, according to a telegram received Monday afternoon by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Smith, of Locust Lane, State College.

In the last letter written by Sgt. Smith September 10, he told his parents that he was "going out pretty soon."

Sgt. Smith was called for duty on January 11, 1943, and had been stationed in camps in Florida; Salt Lake City, Utah; Chicago, Ill.; Sioux Falls, S. D.; Wendover Field, Utah; Lincoln, Neb.; and Topeka, Kan., before going to New York from which camp he left for overseas duty about six months ago.

He was promoted to staff sergeant about two months ago.

"Bill" was graduated from State College High School and had completed a year at Penn State before going into service. He worked during vacations for his father at the Smith's Tailor Shop.

A brother, Pfc. H. K. Smith, a Marine, is now a patient in the Naval Hospital, San Diego, Cal., where he is receiving treatment for wounds suffered in the Salpan battle. He recently spent a month's leave with his parents in State College.

Cadet Dies From Injuries

Aviation Cadet Calvin E. Orwig, 23-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Orwig, of Phillipsburg, died shortly after 5 o'clock Sunday evening in the army hospital at Camp Atterbury, Ind., of injuries suffered in a plane crash a week before.

He suffered a fracture of the skull and brain injury and his condition was further complicated when pneumonia set in. Recovery was regarded as doubtful at the time of the first report of the accident. He did not regain consciousness and was in an oxygen tent the entire time.

Calvin was married, his wife living at Washington, D. C. He was home several weeks ago and he and his wife visited in Phillipsburg with his parents. Following the accident, his wife and parents went immediately to the base and were with him until the time he died. He was stationed at Freeman Field, near Seymour, Ind. The base is near Camp Atterbury where the training plane crashed. He entered the service last December 23.

A brother, First Lieutenant Harold Orwig, 25, has been in the Air Force since November, 1941, and has completed 50 missions over Europe from his base in Italy, and is now believed on his way home.

Pvt. Noll Dies in Italy

Pvt. Anthony G. Noll, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Noll, of Marango, died in Italy on September 3 as the result of a heart condition. The Nolls had previously been informed by their son that he was ill and in a hospital but that they were not to worry about him.

The Marine private was inducted into the service on July 11, 1942. He took his basic training at Camp Croft, S. C., and at Camp Oswego, N. Y., Albany, N. Y., and at Camp Dix, N. J., before going overseas on July 28, 1943.

He was a member of the military police and was stationed in North Africa and Sicily before going into Italy.

The county soldier was born in State College on March 16, 1921. He attended schools in Stormstown and was employed on the Gene Ellenberger farm at Marango at the time of induction into the service. In addition to his parents he is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Kenneth Way and Mrs. Betty Swartz, both of State College; Mrs. Dorothy Reardon and Mrs. Samuel Travis, of Port Matilda; Mrs. Sally Rockwell, of Shamokin; Mrs. Madeline Barto, of Pennsylvania Furnace; George, Jr., Elsie, Elmer, Alice, Marjorie, Freddie, and Thelma, all at home.

Pfc. Theriault Killed

Casualty lists released by the War Department name Pfc. Nelson Theriault, 22, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Theriault, of Livonia, as killed in action in the Southwest Pacific on September 2.

Memorial services for Pfc. Theriault were held last Monday evening in the Reformed church at Livonia with Rev. Glenn Weaver in charge. Albert Stover, Millheim merchant, sang the Lord's Prayer, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Stover. Members of the American Legion and its auxiliaries of Millheim, also took part.

The message notifying Mrs. Theriault of her son's death stated that he died September 2 but left a doubt as to whether he was killed instantly or if he died of wounds received in action. His father, Nelson Theriault, Sr., died at the age of 38 about six years after World War I of complications due to an illness he contracted while serving in the U. S. Navy. He is buried at Livonia.

Bellefonte 27, Williamsburg 6

The second quarter McDowell and Bottorf gained eight yards on two successive plays. McDowell again hit the center of the line and tallied. Pinge's attempted conversion went wild. Score: Bellefonte, 6; Williamsburg, 0.

The rest of the period consisted mostly of punts and running them back.

Williamsburg started the second half by kicking off. Cowan fumbled on the 30 and Williamsburg recovered. Being unable to gain they punted out of bounds on the Raider 16. Losing ten yards in two plays, McDowell attempted to kick but it was blocked and Williamsburg was sitting on the one-yard line with four plays to make a tally but they were stopped cold by a determined forward Raider wall.

Bellefonte, taking over on their own two staged a drive which, five plays and two first downs later, found them on Williamsburg's 3-yard line. McDowell then tossed a short pass to Pinge in the end zone for a touchdown. Pinge then converted to make the score 13-0 in favor of Bellefonte.

Williamsburg returned the kickoff to their own 44. Farringer, Little Giant halfback, tossed a short pass over the line which Frank Pinge promptly pulled in and went 44 yards for a touchdown. He again completed a successful conversion to set the score at 20 to 0.

White took the Raider kickoff and returned the ball to his own 44. Farringer chucked two passes, one good for twelve yards, the other for 48, to chalk up Williamsburg's lone tally. The attempted place kick failed.

The final tally came late in the last frame when Pinge pulled in another of Farringer's tosses and traveled 39 yards for a touchdown. McDowell hit the center of the line for the extra point, and the score stood 27-6 in favor of Bellefonte.

Lt. Griffith Wounded

Lt. Harold P. Griffith, Jr., 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Griffith, of West Ridge avenue, State College, was injured about the hands, especially the right hand, in France, his parents were told in a letter written on September 11 by a lieutenant friend, and received by the Griffiths last Wednesday. About the same time the parents received a letter their son had written with his left hand in which he said he had more use of his hand than he expected and that they were not to worry. He said he had received the Purple Heart.

Lt. Griffith enlisted in the reserves in October, 1942, and was called for duty on May 25, 1943. He took his basic at Camp Wheeler, Ga., following which he trained for a short while at City College, New York, and then at Virginia Polytechnical Institute at Blacksburg, Va.

The county lieutenant was then assigned to Officers' Candidate School and went to Fort Benning, Ga., from which he was graduated and commissioned a second lieutenant on April 19, 1944. His commission was presented to him by Gen. Leslie McNair at the graduating exercises.

Lt. Griffith was then sent to Camp Pickett, Va., for a short time and to Fort George G. Meade, Md., before going overseas about August 10 of this year. He arrived in England and in a short while was sent into France where he received his injury.

Cpl. Weaver Wounded

In a letter received last Wednesday from an American Red Cross nurse, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Weaver, of Lemont, learned that their son, Cpl. Randolph H. Weaver, 21, had received wounds to his left side and was unable to write. He was the only one of his crew wounded on the mission which his parents think was over Germany. He is now in a hospital somewhere in Italy.

Cpl. Weaver, top turret gunner on a B-24 Liberator bomber, has been stationed at Freeman Field, near Seymour, Ind., since 1940. He first trained in aerial photography at Lowry Field, Colo., and at Logan, Colo. Then he was assigned to submarine patrol duty on a B-24 and was stationed at Westover Field, Mass.
