

Centre County Dollars Will Help to Re-Elect Roosevelt

To offset the millions poured into the Republican campaign by wealthy contributors, this appeal is made to voters with low and medium incomes who want to enlist in the fight to re-elect President Roosevelt.

No matter who your are or where you live in Centre or adjoining counties, this appeal is to you, Mr. Farmer, Mr. Businessman, or just plain Mr. Citizen, to contribute in any amount, large or small.

Elsewhere over the state, Democrats and Independent Republicans alike, are responding to the necessity for raising funds to offset the large contributions by the Big Interests who are out to defeat Roosevelt.

Let Centre County speak up with its dollars. Fill out the coupon below and mail it to the address shown. Every cent will be put to a good cause.

FARM PRODUCTS PRICES DISCUSSED AT MEETING

Price regulations on farm products were discussed at a meeting of the Centre County OPA Agriculture Committee in the OPA office, Bellefonte, last Wednesday. The session was in charge of Harold Sampson of Bellefonte, R. D. 2, chairman of the committee.

Speakers included Nevin Corman, price representative from the district OPA office, and James Miller, rationing representative from that office.

Agriculture committees are being organized in all counties to help farmers to solve rationing and price problems. Meetings will be held monthly, the next one being scheduled for November 16.

FALL PIGS NEED CARE BEFORE WINTER ARRIVES

Special attention to the development of fall-farrowed pigs is directed by County Agent R. C. Blaney to give them the best possible start before cold weather arrives.

Pigs should be taught to eat as soon as possible and kept on full feed. If sows are fed through a self-feeder, pigs can be permitted to get feed from the same source. If sows are fed by hand it has been found a good plan to have a creep for the pigs to go through to a trough or self-feeder to supplement the milk they get from the mother.

Full pigs should be kept with the dam until they are eight weeks old or more to have a good start before weaning. Pigs handled in this way will develop to good size and suffer no set-backs as cold weather comes.

Farmers were cautioned that because of short days during the winter and the fact that most pigs are kept in confinement in cold weather, more trouble is to be expected from rickets at this time than is the case with spring pigs.

To help prevent rickets, livestock extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College suggest that pigs have free access to a good mineral mixture and that the rations include 10 to 15 per cent of ground leguminous hay, such as clover, alfalfa, or soybean. This will supply the vitamins needed by the pigs to assimilate the minerals.

If possible pigs should be permitted to exercise in the open when the sun is shining. Pigs housed in this way, with ample good feed, will make satisfactory gains during the winter months.

PICTURES IN COLOR FOR SERVICE MEN

Service men will want to see the new series of beautiful paintings by a distinguished British artist revealing striking pictures of the girls they left behind. Look for the first of these new pictures in the November 12 issue of The American Weekly, favorite magazine with the Baltimore Sunday American. Order from your newsdealer.

One thing that can be said about a political campaign; it develops differences of opinion.

PLANNING SAVES TIME. EFFORT FOR DAIRYMAN

Dairymen of Centre county can do themselves a good turn, County Agent R. C. Blaney points out, if they plan carefully for the routine of winter chores with a view to saving time and labor.

Careful planning of these details can save miles of walking and hours of time and will enable the dairyman to do a better job and handle a larger herd.

Use of trucks for handling feed and ensilage were urged to make work easier. Too many dairymen still carry ensilage in bushed baskets. If they would stop to figure out how far they walk, and how many miles of walking an ensilage truck would save in six months, there would be a lot more such trucks built and used regularly.

The same thing applies to grain feeding. Many dairymen would save 75 to 100 miles a winter with such conveniences. Other conveniences will save time and steps. One of these is a place upstairs for mixing grain and a feed chute to the silo in front of the cows. This bin can be built with compartments for different types of feed, and if kept off the floor about three feet with a hog self-feeder type of opening at the bottom will eliminate stooping.

Farmers whose potato fields were infected by ring-rot should plan now for next year's crop by purchasing seed from a neighbor who planted certified seed and not affected by the disease.

STORE SEED POTATOES FREE FROM RING-ROT

That is a suggestion offered by potato growers by County Agent R. C. Blaney who advised that clean seed be obtained while it is available. He cautioned against contaminating the disease-free seed in storage and recommended that certified seed for next year be left on clean farms until sources of infection have been eliminated.

Farmers are urged to examine their potatoes now for possible prevalence of the disease and where it is discovered make sure none of them are used for seed.

DEWEY

NEW DEAL TIRED, WRANGLING

"At the very outset I want to make one thing clear. This is not merely a campaign against an individual or a political party. It is not merely a campaign to displace a tired, exhausted, quarreling and bickering administration with a fresh and vigorous administration. It is a campaign against an administration which was conceived in defeatism, which failed for eight straight years to restore our domestic economy, which has been the most wasteful, extravagant and incompetent administration in the history of the nation and worst of all, one which has lost faith in itself and in the American people."
