He was the fifth American soldier of the first platoon to enter Nancy, France, and was hailed by the populace. However, in a letter received by members of the family a week ago, Luther informed them of his injury. He said that he had received a flesh wound in the hip, that it was nothing serious but he was in a hospital and they were not to worry about him.

The Oak Hall soldier, who has two other brothers in the service, was called into service early in 1942. Following a short time at New Cumberland, he was assigned to the Infantry and sent to a camp near Los Angeles, Calif. Later he was transferred to a camp in Colorado where he remained a short while before being sent to New York City for embarkation.

About six months ago Pfc. Page landed in France and according to letters in which he referred to the fact that he was writing his letters in a fox hole, it is assumed that he has been seeing action since shortly after arriving.

Pfc. Page attended the Lemont schools and at the time of induction into the Army, was employed by Clarence Meyer, coal dealer of State College. His other brothers in the service are Cpl. Eugene S. Page, now stationed in France, and Pvt. Gilbert "Skip" Page, of Camp Gordon-Johnson, Fla., who is now home on furlough. A third brother, Samuel E. Pfc. Isenberg entered the service in the fall of 1942. Following his boot training at Parris Island, S. C., he was moved to New River, N. C., and then to San Francisco, from which he was sent to the South Pacific about a year ago.

He participated in action on Guam and on the third day of activity suffered a fractured arm. He was moved to a hospital in Oakland, Calif., and then to San Diego Hospital, also in California, before being furloughed and sent home.

Meade, Md., where he remained about two weeks until being sent overseas early in July of this year. He landed in England where he remained about a week until being sent into France.

He is a graduate of the Snow Shoe High School, and before entering service was employed part time at the J. H. France brick plant at Clarence. He has two brothers also in service. They are Cpl. Joseph, 23, now with the armed forces in Italy, and Sergeant J. C. John, now on duty in Hawaii.

The second wound, it is reported, was not serious.

Pvt. Keister has been in the service over three years, and as a member of an anti-aircraft gun unit took part in the battle of Tunisia and the invasion of Sicily. In the latter engagement he was wounded three times in the leg and in addition contracted malaria.

Capt. Gilliard, a member of the Penn State Military Department for four years, was transferred from the College to Missouri about two years ago. Following his training in Missouri he was sent to Officers School at Fort Benning, Ga., then to Fort Jackson, N. C., and overseas early this year.

He served in France with the Third Army under Gen. George Patton and in a recent letter received from him he informed he was near his two children, Lanny and Linda Lee, are with their mother, the former Althea Butt, of State College, now residing in Cleveland, Ohio.

Girl Is Molested On Dark Street

Mr. Rossman, grabbing a gun, ran to the embankment where he fired a shot. The shot was fired about 10:15 p. m. and aroused the neighborhood. Soon a number of men were combing the area for the assailant, and a short time later State Police from Rockview and Pleasant Gap sub-stations were on the scene. Bellefonte borough police also entered the search.

Miss Dickson underwent an examination by a local physician and was found to have suffered two severe bruises of the left lower leg, where the member had pressed against the guard cables during the struggle. Her neck was bruised one cheek was slightly bruised and there were several lacerations inside her mouth. The girl also suffered from shock.

Detective Carl Hartman and Pfc. Andrew Rojko, of Rockview sub-station, examined the area of the attack early Monday morning and found evidence that someone had slid down over ashes thrown over the embankment at the point where the struggle took place. The limb of a small tree near the foot of the embankment also was found to have been freshly broken off, police said.

Some weeks ago, Miss Dickson told officers she and another girl residing in the neighborhood, were walking home along the same stretch of road when a man began running after them. They broke into a run and arrived home breathless.

On that occasion neighbors had seen a stranger lurking in the shadows of trees for some time prior to the incident. Two other women living nearby are said to have been molested by a man in recent weeks.

The incident Sunday night was the first of its kind reported to police since a local man was arrested and sent to prison several years ago for a series of attacks on women in Centre and Clinton counties.

Because of this incident, the Bell Telephone Company is providing taxi service to operators leaving the exchange building at night.

Farm Question Box

Q—Do you have any bulletins on turkey diseases?

A—Yes, I can get you the turkey bulletin covering the more common diseases. Turkeys are subject to so many internal parasites and diseases that only a post-mortem examination in the laboratory by an expert can give an exact diagnosis. About all one can do is to use a disinfectant in the drinking water and butcher the flock if it is threatened with an epidemic.

Q—Should rose bushes be cut back before being wrapped up for the winter?

A—Hill them up six inches with coal ashes; prune back to three or four feet to get strong, stiff canes, and tie these together. Bind straw or cornstalks around the whole bunch. In the spring prune back to three or four canes, twelve inches long. Climbing roses should be pruned after harvest.

Q—Will a concrete floor affect the health of chickens?

A—A concrete floor is all right for chickens if you build up a deep litter, say 8 to 12 inches deep. Keep adding manure, straw, leaves or hay all season and clean out at the end of the year. Deep litter insulates the floor, absorbs moisture and droppings, and works well. Temperature is not as important as good ventilation, dryness and freedom from drafts.

Q—Have you plans for building an egg cooler?

A—A home-made cooler can be built about 18 inches square and long enough to accommodate the wire mesh trays normally collected in one day. Cut round holes in the top board to receive the baskets, and set a shelf in the box or have it shallow enough to the egg baskets rest on the floor. At one end set a small electric fan to blow through the box and send a current of air up through the egg trays. Just ahead of the fan, hang strips of burlap dipping in a pan of water. The burlap strips take up water like a lamp wick, and the moisture helps cool the air and keep the eggs moist.

Q—How should barberry hedges be transplanted?

A—Transplant the barberry hedge early in the spring. Prepare the soil in autumn and cut the roots back at least a half barberry spade rather large, and a space of 2 1/2 feet apart is none too much.

Q—Why do tomatoes rot before they ripen?

A—A fungicide spray is the standard remedy to prevent the fungus which causes most of the rot. However, tomatoes rot from many causes, and sometimes for no apparent cause.

HORSES

— AT —

PRIVATE SALE

I Was West and Bought a Load of Good Horses.

THEY WILL ARRIVE

MONDAY, NOV. 27

In 1919 I sold my first load of horses at Centre Hall. I sold many loads thereafter. In 1928 I began to keep books in the horse business and can show how many were handled each year. In 1937 was the biggest year. Never expected to come close to it again. But things can happen. This year the Gruenwald boys came to my home town with all their followers; all my competitors at home besides the stool pigeons from far around, and when the show was over there were 7 loads less horses shipped by the whole outfit than in 1943. The books will show all. Listen to this: At this writing I need to sell 9 horses to equal the 1937 record. You can buy a good horse cheaper in 1944 than ever again.
