

Jesse Adler Looks at the NEWS

SECOND SECTION

The Centre Democrat

NEWS, FEATURES

Random Items

VOLUME 63.

BELLEFONTE, PA., THURSDAY, JANUARY 11, 1945.

NUMBER 2.

Four Persons Are Injured In Three-Truck Collision At Foot Blair Mountain

$32,000 Damage Results When Heavily Loaded Vehicles Crash at Base of Short Mountain at Road Intersection

A three-truck collision at the foot of Short Mountain, Blair county, near the intersection of the Williams Penn highway and the road leading into Williamsburg at 9 a. m. Friday, caused serious injury to three drivers of the vehicles and a sailor passenger and did upwards of $32,000 damage.

Noted Clothing Official Dies

Vice President Hickey-Freeman Co. Was Native of Bellefonte

Joseph G. Gage, vice president of the Hickey-Freeman Company, men's clothing manufacturer, died after a heart attack Tuesday night, January 2, at his home, 300 Park Avenue, New York. He was 72 years of age.

Monument Soldier On Duty in France

Cpl. Harry W. Levi, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Levi of Monument, was sent overseas in December, 1944. A letter received by his parents stated that he was somewhere in France.

Classes To Open for Census Enumerators

Training classes for enumerators who will make the annual Centre county farm census, will be held in the AAA offices, Bellefonte Trust Company Building, on January 15, 17 and 18. It was announced yesterday.

Youthful Nazi Soldiers Are Hard-Boiled Babies

If anyone doubts that Hitler has saddled his country and the world with a generation of Dead End Kids, he should have been with a squad of Yank soldiers in the Aachen area the other day, reports a correspondent in The American Weekly.

Scrap Drive Here Declared Success

Chamber of Commerce officials yesterday reported that Friday's townwide scrap drive was quite successful. Scrap gathered by borough trucks during the day totaled 1 ton of processed tin cans, 15,850 pounds of scrap paper, and 220 pounds of rags.

Re-Elect Bank President

Claude G. Aikens was re-elected president of the First National Bank of State College at the annual directors' meeting last Wednesday afternoon. Other officers named were: P. B. Breneman, first vice president; J. Milo Campbell, second vice president; John H. Truby, cashier; H. P. Hoffer, assistant cashier; and Walter C. Lingle, trust officer.

Planning for 1945

Wills Dog $20,000, Snyder County Girl Is Suicide

Fox Terrier to Get Entire Estate if Will Is Admitted to Probate

A dog named Jack will become heir to an estate valued at approximately $20,000, and a son will get nothing if the will of Mrs. Margaret Myers of Detroit, is admitted to probate.

Find Aged Man Dead in Cabin

Victim of Heart Attack Had Probably Been Dead for 10 Days

An aged Tyroese man, was found dead Wednesday night in his cabin at the top of the mountain, near Northwood. In the opinion of the coroner the man had probably been dead since December 24, when he was last seen. He had died of a heart attack and hemorrhages.

Receives Word From Uncle Absent 33 Years

Shortly before Christmas Mrs. Walter Reichert, of Burnside street, Bellefonte, received a letter from her uncle, S. H. Griffith, a native of Axemann, who left here 33 years ago and from whom she had not had any word since.

Native of Kylertown Dies After Accident

As the result of complications arising from a fall suffered on December 13, Mrs. Elva D. Rapp, widow of Alfred C. Rapp, of Kylertown, died Sunday afternoon, December 31.

Fifty Scholarships For Men and Women

Fifty scholarships in Mechanical Drafting, approximating $375, for men and women, are now being offered by the Williamsport Technical Institute.

7th in Land Grant Family

On the basis of degrees granted, the Pennsylvania State College ranks 7th in the family of 52 land grant colleges and universities.

Story of Peter Hauntz And His Magical Touch With a Stradivarius

Clinton County Reader Relates Interesting Incident in the Colorful Career of Nittany Valley Entertainer

By HENRY W. SHOEMAKER in Altoona Tribune

Rural Extension Service To Meet

Co-Operative Extension Leaders to Meet Here Friday, Jan. 12

The annual meeting of the Centre County Agricultural Extension Service will be held in the Court House at Bellefonte next Friday, January 12.

Family of Five Lose Home by Fire

Mother Discovers Blaze on Return From Neighbor's House

Five members of the Mrs. Jennie Eshelman family, residing at Pleasant Hill, near Phillipsburg, were homeless Friday as the result of a fire which completely destroyed their home.

Unionville Soldier Tells of Deer Hunting In India

(Continued)

WOMAN DIES OF BURNS AFTER FALL ON OIL STOVE

Mrs. Kate Myers, 87, of Lake Placid, N. Y., mother of Mrs. John Mowery, of Centre Hall, was fatally burned when she fell against an oil stove at her home last Tuesday afternoon.

Former Governor Promoted

Commander George Earle, former governor of Pennsylvania and now assistant naval and air attaché at the U. S. Embassy in Turkey, is expected to leave tomorrow en route to the United States.

18th College In Size

On the basis of resident enrollment, the Pennsylvania State College ranks 18th in size among the institutions of higher learning in the United States.

HISTORY QUIZ:

One of this corner's fourth grade readers wants to know what happened to the silver dollar George Washington passed across the Potomac River. We'll be glad to hear from any of you customers who knows the answer.

POPCORN:

It's business of writing a column does have its rewards. Our complaint about the lack of unpopped popcorn last week brought a generous response. Mrs. J. Millard Hartwick, of Reynolds avenue, kindly replenished our family larder with that item of luxury.

TOO BAD:

The lost who chased a Reynolds avenue girl last Wednesday night while she was walking to her work at the Titan Metal Company of office, slipped on the ice and fell. It's too bad he didn't break something.

NOTE:

The other day the newspapers published a photo of the Dionne Quintuplets in the classroom, and on the blackboard in the room was an arithmetic problem in French. John G. Love, Bellefonte attorney, who gently chides this corner every time we desert English for a fling at the Romance languages, might be interested in checking on our answer to the problem, which appears on the Dionne blackboard as follows: "Sue a 20 sous. Lis a 10 sous, et Jean a 25 sous de plus que Sue et Lis ensemble. Quel est l'avis de Jean?" We figure the thing out at 85 sous. If our answer is wrong we can apologize, but it's not our French but our arithmetic which is at fault!

MAKING YOUR WILL:

If, when you make out your will, you find you still have a surplus of cash left over, this corner suggests that you place it in trust to the Centre County Library. The income from the money would serve to maintain the institution and to permit it to grow with the community.

REJOICING:

There is much rejoicing in a Centre county family this week. A son, reported missing in action some time ago, turned up unannounced the other day and was welcomed home like an risen from the dead. Rigid censorship has been placed by military authorities upon the circumstances of his absence and of his "return," so this story landed in this column in sketchy form, instead of in detail in the regular news columns.

AB! SPRING!

It has long been this corner's considered opinion that people who live in this climate spend a large part of their life earning the wherewithal to keep themselves warm in the winter time. They must buy coal.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. A. Sidney Morton of New York City, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Barbara Chesnut Morton, to First Lt. James Robert Morrow, Jr., Army Air Forces, son of Mrs. Mary Rice Morrow, formerly of Park avenue, State College, and Dr. J. R. Morrow of Seattle, Wash.

Twelfth Day: This day, we decided to drive some small islands in a river bed about a mile from our camp.

We had noticed that the deer were hanging around on these islands fairly late in the day and that when chased off they generally crossed the river bed in the same place. These islands had a dense growth and a large number of fruit bearing shrubs that the deer were feeding on. There was a series of three islands with the first island being as large as the other two combined. We decided to make two drives out of them. Bass and Grant drove first while Crew and I watched. The drivers didn't give us time to get to our stand on the first drive and we watched the deer cross the river bed about three hundred yards ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired until the deer got out of their sight in a gully and then Joe and I opened up. We saw the larger deer go down and then we fired the remainder of our shots at the other deer which became confused and headed back towards Bass and Grant. Finally disappearing from our vision. We later found out that the deer ran back to about twenty yards of Grant where he stopped. Grant then shot it through the head (the only bullet hole in it). Well, we had two deer alright, but we must have shot about thirty shots altogether. It was just another one of those cases of gang shooting where everyone is trying to beat the other guy to the shot. Any one of us would probably have killed one of those deer with at least two or three shots if he had been ahead of us. I raised my rifle sights and took one shot but missed. When Grant and Bass came out we sent them around to watch the other two islands while we drove them. We came clear through the islands out to the open river bed where Bass and Grant were standing. We yelled over to them and they said they hadn't seen anything. We were just starting to walk towards them when Joe said—there's two deer, and pointed toward Bass and Grant. Bass enough about forty yards above them were two deer running across the river bed. Bass and Grant turned and saw them and then the fireworks really began. They fired