The moonlight seems warm and inviting, but a locomotive whistle down in McCoy's Gap, sounding like the wheeze of an old man with asthma, is a better indication than any thermometer that there is only bitter, deadening cold. And still we marvel at how they ever fight a war in winter time! How can any soldier work up an enthusiasm against a mortal enemy when he's busy fighting bitter cold?

Answers

- No. A verbal "thank you" is sufficient, but genuine appreciation must be shown, and the girl must be very tactful in showing no partiality to any certain gifts, paying less attention to others.
- To the right of the plate.
- No, this is vulgar, particularly if he makes a display of it to impress his companions.
- Yes, she should express appreciation of the pleasure she had, unless it is a very large affair and the hostess is engaged in receiving or entertaining other guests.
- It would be better to suggest to other employees that a contribution be given for the purchase of one gift from all.
- Not unless he has a definite invitation to do so.
- First introduce the women to the women, then the women to the men, and last the men to the men.
- All meats, oysters, fish, chicken, vegetables, salads, soft fruits, soft cakes, pastries, pie.
- Not unless the tea is a small informal affair.
- Inattention. If a person is well bred, whether interested or not, he will show interest in what someone else is saying. Many people who talk very little are extremely popular because of their attention to what others have to say.
- No; only one mouthful should be cut at a time.
- The hands should be placed in the lap.

What Was An "Old-Fashioned" Winter?

en paths through the woods, and as they ran all we could see of them were their heads above the snow level."
The lumberman said that up at George Solt's place along the Renovo road, they used a bulldozer to open up a dirt road leading from the Renovo road back into the woods. The bulldozer pushed up snow banks 8 and 9 feet high on each side of the road.
The snow is of an unusually wet consistency, and when it is plowed up the banks freeze into almost solid ice. "I bent the fender on my car when I drove too close to a projecting ledge of ice the other day," the lumberman said.
There has been plenty of cold weather, too, he continued. "Last Thursday morning it was 21 degrees below zero. By the following morning it had warmed up, though, the thermometer registering only 18 below zero."

Fears for Wildlife
Mr. Narehood, an ardent sportsman, expressed much concern for the welfare of wildlife because of the deep snow. He said that last fall he left about 200 shocks of corn in a field for the game to feed on this winter. L. M. Narehood, who lives in the same area, also left shocked corn in a field for the same purpose.
"If you want to see a beautiful sight," he said, "you ought to see that field on a moonlight night. You'll see anywhere from 25 to 50 deer rooting the shocks apart to get at the corn ears."

Deer Will Eat Hay
To help the deer out until the snow goes away Mr. Narehood suggested that the Game Commission should provide hay to sportsmen who would volunteer to take it into the woods and distribute it. Mr. Narehood said he had several trucks which he'd be glad to use in the Pine Glen area if the Commission furnished the hay.

He was emphatic in his statement that deer will eat hay, and he is not alone in that contention. John Fleegal, of Phillipsburg, and other members of the Morningstar Rod and Gun Club in that community, took two bales of hay into the woods with them last week and now the hay is gone. All around the area are deer tracks showing where they had been in under the evergreens eating the "horse feed."

The Morningstar sportsmen and other members of the State-Centre Games, Fish and Forestry Association will be awarded the winners' Refreshments will be served. Admission 25c per person.

Ink in Their Blood

Danger of Flood

One of the most disturbing features of the present winter is the widespread fear that a quick thaw would result in unprecedented floods. A period of warm weather with rain, most certainly would melt the snow and ice so quickly that a disastrous flood would result. On the other hand, a series of brief thaws, followed by freezing weather, could carry off the heavy deposit of snow and ice without serious floods, it is believed.
Many towns and cities along Bald Eagle Creek and the Susquehanna River aren't banking too heavily on a considerate weather man this spring. In other words, they are preparing for the worst.
One Lock Haven manufacturer, whose plant is along the river, has moved perishable stock and equipment to higher floors of the building and on the ground floor has a large boat, on which he plans to load records, office equipment and other small items in the event of a flood.
Williamsport newspapers are said to have moved their paper supplies into the upper floors of their buildings, and are taking what precautions they can to minimize damage in case of a flood.

BETTERS to the Editor

ANOTHER WORD FOR MISSIONARIES
Millmont, Pa., Jan. 27, 1945
The Centre Democrat, Bellefonte, Pa.
Gentlemen:

Wishing to contribute a deserving "pat on the back" to George A. Miller of Mingoville, Pa., who, in our mind, responded so wisely and graciously to "Random Items" Missionaries, in Jan. 18th issue of The Centre Democrat, we would also like to add a few remarks.

First of all, a true missionary, to us, means much more than for an individual to choose a vocation. To us, it means one who has diligently sought and found the Saving Grace (Salvation) of our Lord Jesus Christ, then with the realization before him, that eternal riches, far surpasses temporal things, receives, and obeys the call of God, to carry to, and share with others, this Gift of His Love, though it may mean "the uttermost parts of the earth."

Now, concerning these Mohammedan missionaries being conducted out of town (that were supposedly located on High St.), we presume that if they were in favor of the fashions, (dresses without stockings these zero days, liquor, and all that goes with it regardless of what or who it destroys, and then the Mohammedan missionaries performing their ceremonies, whatever that consists of, they would not only stay, but would have the largest congregation in town.

No, old fashioned salvation has not quite expired, but is fast being set aside for more modern methods, having the form of godliness, but denying the power thereof.
I am much in favor of modern-day inventions, such as the electric labor saving devices, whereby the milking is done by throwing a switch, the family wash by turning a button, but "The Faith of Our Fathers" comes by getting in the same attitude before God, as our fathers did, on our knees.

If we want and expect the things from our Heavenly Father, that make for peace, either individually or as a nation; peace that will work in the church, in industry, or politics, we will have to have the Christian spirit, for "if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His." Romans 8: 9.

Sincerely concerned,
MARLIN E. MOORE,
Minister of the Gospel.

PULPWOOD CUTTERS GIVEN TOP 'WAR WORKER' DEFERMENT IN DRAFT
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The War Manpower Commission today issued a revised list of critical occupations for which Selective Service Boards may grant draft deferment. This new list raises "the cutting of pulpwood" as well as the "production of pulp made from pulpwood and other substances" from a merely "essential" to a "critical" rating.

WHAT THIS MEANS TO PULPWOOD CUTTERS

- If you are of draft age (26 or over) you may be deferred until all available men in both "essential" and non-essential occupations are inducted.
- If you are now cutting pulpwood and have been deferred, stick to your job full-time.
- If you are now in a merely "essential" occupation and want to get into "critical" pulpwood production, do so at once. Then apply to your draft board for deferment.
