JESUS FACES DEATH

International Sunday School Lesson for March 18, 1951.

Memory Selection: "Not what I will, but what thou wilt."—Mark 14: 36.

Lesson Text: Mark 14: 22-26, 32-36

We come now to the last twenty-four hours of the earthly life of Jesus. Earlier, he had sent Peter and John into Jerusalem to make arrangements for observing the Passover meal—the last meal he would eat with his disciples before his crucifixion. Jesus knew that Judas was plotting with his enemies, therefore, he did not let this disciple know in advance where they would gather for the evening.

When the disciples gathered in the upper room of the home of the mother of John Mark, there was again a disgraceful dissension among them as to who should have the seats of honor, which spirit Jesus rebuked by assuming the role of a servant and washing the disciples' feet. Eating and drinking with them, he established the precedent for the Lord's Supper, which is observed by his followers today, in memory of his life and sacrificial death.

During the eating of the meal, Jesus astonished his little group of intimate associates by declaring that one of them would betray him. In dismay each inquired if it could possibly be he. Apparently, to John alone did Jesus indicate who his betrayer was and shortly thereafter, in a quiet tone, instructed Judas to proceed with his nefarious plan. It may seem strange that all of the disciples inquired as to the possibility of their guilt. It reveals, at least, that none of them, up to this time, had suspected the insincerity of Judas.

There are two viewpoints on Judas. One holds him up as the arch-traitor in the world's history. The Rev. R. C. Gillie explains his attitude: "No man can live constantly with a very good person who loves him, and give in return neither sympathy nor loyalty, without coming in time to feel hatred. It is impossible to go on receiving love and playing the hypocrite and remain indifferent. Thus, in the last year of his life, Judas' love for Jesus changed slowly to distaste and dislike, and, at last, to a kind of hatred. He felt himself to be an almost ruined man. His bubble had burst."

On the other hand, the New Outlook finds Judas' sin to be more understandable: "A growing distrust of the methods by which Jesus was seeking to bring in his Kingdom and a growing impatience with him for refusing to adopt other and more practical and rational ideas. We have no reason to think that Judas' discipleship was a mockery from the beginning; it probably had quite as much sincerity in it as had any of the others. But he had come to the place where Jesus' way of patient goodness and enduring love seemed futility and foolishness, and he determined to try a way of his own. It doesn't look as if Judas' sin was such a terribly unique one after all; what else is any man guilty of when he says Jesus' gospel of love cannot be made to work in a world such as ours is, and the Beautitudes and the Golden Rule are sentimental

YARNELL

The following persons called on Sunday to see Homer B. Walker who recently returned to his home from the Phillipsburg State Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wert and child, of Lemont; Ralph Walker and family, of Runville; Miss Geraldine Snyder and girl friend, of State College, and Mr. and Mrs. Toner Petzer.

L. Edward McCloskey was among the number attending the E. M. Irvin sale at the Branch on Friday. Mrs. Charles Anderson is ill and under the doctor's care. Mrs. Ruby Richner, a good neighbor, was called in on Monday to be with her.

Richard Haagen and Bobby, and Edward Robinson, of Wickliff, O., were home for a week and spent the time sawing lumber for building purposes. They returned to their homes on Sunday.

A flock of wild geese was heard on Friday evening wending its way to their northern home. Yarnell is the center of several scenic views, such as the "Water Rocks", "O'Neil's Rocks", "The Big Bend", "Wild Cat Hollow", and the "Devils Elbow". Some of these can be visited by modern methods of travel, others are best reached by the hiking method. After being restrained by the severe winter, some of our young matrons are taking preliminary hikes to fit them for the spring hiking season.

Judas, having gone, Jesus told his disciples that all of them would be offended with him, whereupon Peter, with his usual impetuosity, insisted that he would die before he would deny his Lord. Jesus warned him that before daylight, he would deny him three times, which subsequently came to pass as Peter, alarmed by his own danger, strenuously insisted to various people, that he did not know Jesus. Finally, made conscious of his desertion by a glance from Jesus, Peter proved his fidelity and courage, of which he had boasted, eventually facing death without denying his Master.

Following the Last Supper, Jesus went out to the Garden of Gethsemane, where he had often before gone to pray. After a period of agonizing prayer to God, he was able to say: "Not my will but thine be done." Through prayer, he was strengthened to face death and to take without a murmur all that lay before him. Prayer builds reserves in the souls of men; it gives them strength in facing death and in facing life that nothing else can give. Reserve power, gained in prayer, made Christ victorious and it made the people, who looked upon him on the cross declare: "Truly, this man was the son of God!"

Mrs. Madeline Lindsay and little daughter, of Woolrich, spent the evening of Thursday at the Larry McCloskey home. Mrs. Lindsey expects to leave Clinton County for Kentucky this week, so as to be near her husband, Joe, a member of the National Guard in training there. Mrs. Albert Pett returned home from the Centre County Hospital one day last week, bringing home her new-born daughter, Cora May.

Mrs. Ray Shawley, Mrs. Chester Coakley, Mrs. Kenneth Robinson, and Mrs. L. E. McCloskey, all employees at the Mill Hill Sylvania plant, mixed business and pleasure when they drove to Williamsport Friday evening. They report they had a jolly time.

Mr. and Mrs. Toner Petzer attended church at Summit Hill on Sunday evening. Mrs. Petzer reported seeing and greeting some friends she had not seen in years. A birthday dinner was prepared and served on Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Emel for the aged father of Wilbur, Samuel Emel. Those attending and offering felicitations were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kessling, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ripka, of near Bellefonte; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bennett and daughter, of Runville; Algert and Richard Young, of Bellefonte; Mr. and Mrs. Blain J. McClellan, Bellefonte; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wagner and daughter, Milroy RD. and Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Wagner, of Milroy.

Mrs. Fred Kessling left Sunday for Jacksonville to be with her aged mother, Mrs. Lucy Conway, who is not so well. Mrs. Kessling will remain for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Shawley and Harold called at the Donald Shawley home in Milesburg Sunday evening to bid adieu to Mrs. Stephen Worrick and little child, who left Monday for a point in Texas, so as to be near her husband, who is serving with the Air Force.

Callers at the Homer Walker home on Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miller, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Miller, of Milesburg.

Dental Caries
What causes this universal disease, especially in children under 8 years of age. Some blame it on heredity and others accuse refined sugars. Teeth need brushing regularly, with mouth rinsing after eating. This removes much of the debris that lodges in teeth cracks and crevices. Fluoride reduces dental caries, and some cities put in water for use by the people. This is still experimental.—The Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania.

Think for yourself and act upon your judgment; whatever results, will be what you deserve.

Reminds Domestic of Social Security Law

"Maids, cooks, and other household workers whose jobs now entitle them to old-age and survivors insurance protection, will need account number cards", Irvin H. Allen, manager of the Williamsport Social Security office reminds.

Covered by the new law are domestics who work in one home on at least 24 days and earn as much as $50 in a calendar quarter. A maid, for example, who works two days a week for one employer, is covered if her cash pay is as much as $50 per calendar quarter. "Applications for social security cards, or for duplicates of lost cards may be obtained at our office, in the Susquehanna Trust Building, Williamsport, or at any post office," Mr. Allen stated.

Concrete Mixer Truck Damaged in Accident

Damage totaling approximately $2,500 resulted when a concrete mixer truck owned by O. W. Houts and Son of State College overturned on Route 322 on the Sky Top Mountain at 1:30 p. m. Friday. The driver, Robert B. Gilmore, was not injured.

Police said the accident happened when the truck's drive shaft broke while ascending the mountain. This broke the hydraulic brake line, allowing the truck to back down the mountain.

The truck, which was loaded with concrete, backed through a guard rail and rolled over.

How's this for a definition: College-bred—a four year loaf on father's dough!

One of the best ways for sick people to get well is to become convinced that they can get well.

Philipsburg Mine Undergoes Inspection

In a re-inspection report released by the U. S. Bureau of Mines, a federal coal mine inspector recommends several safety improvements at the 50 ton a day Clem Watson, Jr. No. 1 mine, operated by Clem Watson Jr., near Philipsburg. In March, when inspected by L. A. Ferry, the mine had 9 employees.

While noting that sufficient air was reaching the working places, the inspector recommended offsetting the fan and equipping it with specified safeguards. He added that pre-shift and weekly examinations for gas and other hazards should be made and that only permissible explosives be used for blasting coal and rock. The timbering plan was being followed and the roof tests were made frequently, the inspector noted, but he advised the use of goggles for eye-hazardous work, and the wearing of special protective footwear by employees.

Among the praiseworthy features observed by Inspector Ferry were the proper maintenance of haulage track and rolling stock, shelter holes where needed, adequate fire-fighting facilities, and safe and travelable escapeways.

The inspector suggested fire doors at effective points in the mine openings, and the discontinuance of open lights and smoking in the mine.

Accurate Breeding Records Important

Dairy cows must freshen at regular 12 month intervals if they are to produce milk efficiently and economically states Asst. County Agent Clair D. DeLong.

For this reason, accurate breeding records must be kept by every dairyman. Artificial breeding technicians assist with these records, but the dairyman must see that each service is entered on the stable breeding chart.

These records should be studied from time to time in order to determine which cows are not settling properly. The time required to get a cow settled is of primary importance. This may mean that a cow which returns for three or four services at 3-week intervals is a less serious case of concern than one which returns only once with an unusually long heat cycle.

As a rule, little can be gained by breeding a cow within six weeks after calving. The chances for conception of first service are much greater if at least 60 days are allowed between calving and breeding.

There are any number of human problems that will not be solved by resolutions.
