patients occupying beds in the halls and the transporting of infants to their mothers' beds, visitors become a problem and often have their visits delayed a few minutes.

the street. He charged the front of the Berardis store and fell stunned. There he was subdued and tied by Robert Berardis, Harry Eby, Eugene and Lynn Cori, all of Bellefonte, and James Fetzer of Milesburg.

The doe chose to visit the G. C. Murphy Co. store. (Points of view contrast sharply here. Some persons say she was piqued that Mr. chose the dress models. Others say Mr. knew it would take her some time to complete the Murphy trip, as is the custom of women, so he decided to go window shopping.)

Two broken glass doors testify she did enter the second annex of the Murphy store and emerged from the annex adjacent to Cherry lane. Damage was confined to broken glass, C. C. Brown, manager, said.

Reaching Allegheny street again she mounted Reservoir hill in high gear, paused momentarily between the Charles Martin and Mark Kovacic homes there. Last traces were found near the Friends cemetery.

Damage to the Murphy store was about $100 and at the Katz store about $700, the managers said.

tion of the Department of Welfare. The site is on Rockview prison property.

Executive Director Charles A. French stated earlier: The location of the new research site is distinctly advantageous to the Pennsylvania Fish Commission. It is in the geographic center of the state and within a few miles of the present central fisheries hatchery at Bellefonte. This will allow for centralization of personnel and equipment and will give access to the many vital records located at Bellefonte.
