C Gillie) Shame and a desire for secrecy immediately followed this act of disobedience and sin. Realizing their sin, they attempted to hide from God. When God called, Adam responded: "I heard thy voice in the garden and was afraid, because I am naked; and I hid myself." His answer betrayed his guilt, but Adam tried to pass the blame for his sin to Eve and also to God, who had given him his companion. Eve, when questioned, blamed the serpent. Guilt for our sins cannot be passed on to others-we alone are called upon to pay the penalty. In passing sentence in punish -ment for this sin of disobedience, God did not punish the serpent alone for tempting Eve, nor Eve for yielding to the temptation and persuading Adam to sin also. Each
