building was resting on unsafe ground and it was torn down. On May 16, 1875, the cornerstone of the new church was laid, which was at the west end of the Penn's Valley Bank. On Oct. 13, 1884, a stable directly opposite the church caught fire and burned the church to the ground. A new property was purchased across from the Penn's Valley Bank for $1,000. This is where the present church is erected and it is the second oldest church in Centre Hall. The Rev. M. C. Drumm, a minister in the church drew great attention in Centre Hall because he was opposed to dancing. Some of the earliest and latest ministers were: 1854, Rev. F. Rauhbraun; 1856, Rev. Lane; 1867, Rev. G. M. Settlemoyer; 1939, Rev. Otto; 1946, Rev. Donat, and at present, Rev. Gutsall.

The Egg Hill Evangelical Church

The Egg Hill Evangelical Church was formed in 1799 by John Dauberman. He laid off a piece of land at the edge of Egg Hill for the purpose of building the church. When John Dauberman, Sr., died his son, John, took over. In 1868 a new structure was built to replace the old one. In 1938 regular church services were discontinued, but the church is still kept in repair and a home coming service is held every fall.

The Methodist Church

Methodism in Penn's Valley was started by Robert Pennington and Henry Bunn, Jr. The first Methodist Church was built on Henry Pennington's place a few years after the Centre Hall on the Brush Valley Road in 1814. Ebenezer Doolittle preached the first sermon. Today the church has disappeared, with only the graveyard and foundation to mark the site. There were only a few graves marked.

The Methodist Church at Spruce-

The Methodist Church at Spruce-town was organized in 1820. The first meetings of the congregation were held in an old home on the Sankey farm. The first church at Spruce-town was built in 1840. In 1872 it was torn down and the church which is being used at present was built.

The Zion Hill Evangelical Church

In 1858 secured a permanent and suitable house for worship. In 1907 the church which is being used today was built.

Keep Gloves Clean For Your Costume

For that spic and span touch to your costume, always have your gloves clean, reminds Miss Helen E. Butler, home economics extension representative of Centre county. Gloves in white or pastel colors seldom can be worn more than once without washing.

Wash only gloves that are marked washable. Gloves of chambray, doeking, capeskin, pigskin, calfskin, and fabric usually are washable. Gloves of kid, suede, or mocha leather are not washable and should be dry cleaned.

It is better to wash gloves before they become too soiled. When you do this, you can avoid rubbing or scrubbing soiled parts. Embedded dirt hardens leather gloves and dulls the color.

Put gloves on your hands and wash in lukewarm suds, using the same motions as you do when washing your hands. Then remove gloves and squeeze suds through them. Rinse in clear water several times. Roll gloves in turkish towel and press out as much moisture as possible. Reshape gloves carefully again on your hands. Use a dry turkish towel to help smooth gloves to their proper shape and also to force stiffened leather over your hands. Use almost cool suds when you wash leather gloves.

I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now

We know a Bellefonte girl who should have included the following among her New Year resolutions: "I'll never let a fool kiss me, and never let a kiss fool me."

Heavens Above

Heaven will protect the working girl, but who in the heck is going to protect the guy she is working?

Proctor—And Gamble

It is said that some New York society women are paying $10 an hour for bridge lessons. We could name some fellows here in Bellefonte who paid much more for lessons in poker.

Hit And Run

If Sir Walter Raleigh stopped on a Bellefonte street today to lay down his coat for Queen Elizabeth, we'd have two more traffic victims.

For Senator Keauffer

One of our Senators observes that women are wearing fewer and fewer clothes these days. It is getting practically impossible to hide anything from our investigating Senators anymore.

Directions Please

The "Carrollton Chronicle" announces: "It is proposed to use this donation to purchase new benches for our parks, as the present ones are in a very dilapidated condition."

Hey! How do you get to Carrollton?

Attention Mr. Secretary of the Treasury

"Abide With Me" would be a more appropriate motto than the one that now appears on some of our coins.

A Century of Progress

Then there was the Scotchman whose little son wanted fifty cents to go to the Centennial. The father refused but promised to take him to the next one.

Here's a Rye One, Harold

This is Scotch, all right.

"If a body kiss a body succumbing through the rye," you're probably drunk, that's all.

This Atomic Age

The modern young people have revised the old saying: It's not "Heat, drink and be married."

The Old Stand-By

A certain Bellefonte maiden lady refused to buy a bedroom suite at Brachbill's furniture sale, because they had the following sign on the wall: "We stand back of all the beds we sell."

In The Evening By The Moonlight

The reason a girl walks home from an automobile ride is because she "No's" men.

Sue What?

A Central City man was sued for having no tail light on his cow. The fact that she had two horns is no excuse.

Hard Worker

A girl friend who works in the office of a local lawyer told me the other day she'd been typing so many letters that she finished her prayers at night with "yours truly."

"You Don't Say"

And then there was the mongrel up on Linn street who was asked if dogs have family trees. "No," he replied, "they use any old tree."

That's all, folks: Father (awaiting news): "Well, nurse, will it use a razor or lipstick?"

Miss Anna Margaret Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hart, of Yeagertown, became the bride of Edwin William Confer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Confer, of Spring Mills, on Apr. 8 at 1 p.m. The Rev. Paul Taylor performed the single ring ceremony at the home of the bridegroom. The bride wore a powder blue street length dress.

Those who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Confer and children, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Moyer and children, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Grove and son, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Zettle and daughter, the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ripka and daughter, Mrs. Roxie Ripka, and Mrs. Sadie Auman. A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom after the wedding ceremony.

The couple will live with the bridegroom parents.

Mr. and Mrs. John Meeker and Joan were dinner guests at Green Gables, Lewistown, Saturday in celebration of Mrs. Meeker's birthday anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Acker and family attended the 25th anniversary celebration of Mrs. Acker's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Herio, of Milroy, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wyland spent Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Wyland and family.

Mrs. Abner Acker visited her sister Mrs. Frank Grey, of Reedsville, Wednesday.

Mr. Bruce Sharer visited the Potters Mills School on Monday and showed two films, one on Forest Fires and the other on Soil Conservation.

This week the Potters Mills school children were given a complete physical examination in State College at the Ellen H. Richards Institute. They were transported on three consecutive days in the College station wagon.

The committee of Potters Mills Boy Scout Troop No. 52 held their monthly meeting at the Ralph Shope home on Friday evening. The committee members present were: the Rev. Paul Taylor, H. E. Hennigh, John Stringer, John Meeker and Mr. Shope. Robert Rhoads, of Centre Hall, also was present. He showed slides on Scouting. Others present were Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. John Meeker and Mrs. Mary Dobson and Patricia Brown, Mrs. Shope and son John and Stanley. Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Third Platoon

Several football coaches have suggested the ideal of the platoon system. They want one for offense, one for defense, and one to go to class. Memphis Commercial Appeal.

You can't beat this brigade: "An honest man is the noblest work of God."

How can you explain these times to a boy?

To you, the world is in a pretty sorry state. But not to a boy. He's growing up in times like these. He doesn't remember anything much different.

Perhaps you ought to remind him that many precious things may be taken from him, temporarily. Many prized American freedoms, rights and opportunities must be suspended for a while, as the price of arming the nation against aggression.

But warn him that there may be danger of losing these freedoms permanently. Because there are some people who, for years, have been saying, "The government ought to own and run things. The railroads, for example, and the electric light and power companies." And right now the defense program may give these people a new opportunity for putting over their idea of government ownership and permanent controls.

And tell him that the real name of this idea is socialism, and that most Americans don't want it. For socialism means that people have less money, and fewer rights and privileges.

Tell him we all must make sacrifices today. But tell him, also, that when we give up any of our freedoms, we must be sure to keep the claim check that says, "Return to bearer on demand."

To help everyone remember the difference between temporary emergency powers and permanent socialism, we publish this reminder.
