

Demand For Certified Seed Exceeds Supply

Farmer demands for Pennsylvania certified seed exceed current supplies, including many improved varieties and hybrids produced by breeders of Penn State. This was indicated by seed dealers of the Pennsylvania Crop Improvement Association.

Heaviest demands were made on the 15 Pennsylvania developed corn hybrids and the spring grains. Numerous growers of certified seed have asked for additional foundation stock to increase acreages.

At the same time 32 farmer co-operators, largest number on record, are increasing material for the Foundation Seed Stocks of Pennsylvania.

vania's Agricultural Experiment Station, Drew Bellairs, new manager, revealed. He indicated that young people throughout the State are assuming a new role in the program as Future Farmers of America chapters and 4-H Clubs take on the task of increasing single-cross corn stocks for use in the hybrid breeding program.

Meanwhile, commercial growers in Oregon are increasing supplies of Penncott, the newly-released medium red clover. Seed of this legume will be brought back to Pennsylvania next spring.

Under the existing system, plant breeders of the Experiment Station develop improved varieties, strains, or hybrids, then turn over the small quantities of stock to the Foundation Seed Stocks for increase. After supplies are sufficiently increased, the pure seed goes to growers of certified seed, who in turn make seed available to growers and farmers.

Because of these necessary steps, several years are often required before new material of improved characteristics actually reach commercial growers and farmers.

Volunteers Eligible For Airborne Duty

"Although he is more often associated with the U. S. Air Force, General Billy Mitchell actually suggested the Airborne troops of the modern U. S. Army", T/Sgt. William S. Nagle of the local recruiting station commented this week.

The Sergeant explained that in 1928 General Mitchell staged a mass drop of six men with a machine gun, and this was the forerunner of the Allies airborne army used so successfully in World War II.

"Any airborne paratrooper can tell you the history of his corps, and also tell you much of value in this modern and complex age", Sgt. Nagle added. Paratroopers must be physically and mentally sound, between the ages of 17 and 31, and must be prepared to undergo extensive training—the normal basic training of a Regular Army enlistee as well as Airborne volunteer jump school training course.

This program lasts 4 weeks, with wings being awarded and jump pay beginning upon completion of the third jump pay for enlisted men, is $50 per month with a minimum of one jump every three months. Airborne soldiers also must qualify in many skills because the paratrooper may serve with the signal corps, the military police, the engineers, the quartermaster and the medical corps, the armor, the field artillery or the infantry.

ARMED FORCES DAY OBSERVED

Belleville, State College Programs Are Held Saturday

Centre County joined the nation in observance of Armed Forces Day Saturday with a program in Belleville and a parade and displays in State College.

In Belleville a large crowd heard a speaking program on the Diamond Saturday evening. Capt. Maurice F. Kelly, officer in charge of the Organized Reserve in this district, traced the meaning of Armed Forces Day. He pointed out the necessity of building up the services at this time.

Burgess Hugh M. Quigley reviewed the actions taken in Belleville and Centre County to provide men and women for the services. Last year 130 from the county enlisted in the Army and Air Force and an additional 207 entered through selective service. The number entering the Navy and Marine Corps could not be estimated, he said.

The American Legion Junior Band played for the program and the Rev. William F. Logan Jr. offered the invocation and benediction. T/Sgt. William S. Nagle, recruiting officer here, spoke.

Cpl. Irvin D. Moyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus J. Moyer of near Belleville, participated in both Belleville and State College programs. He is the first soldier from Centre County to be returned from Korea under the rotation plan.

He was introduced in Belleville and shared the reviewing stand in State College with Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, Penn State president, and officers of the ROTC units at the school. State College's parade lasted about 45 minutes and included musical organizations as well as ROTC cadets attending the college.

Demonstrations and displays were prepared by the 112th AC W squadron stationed at State College.

Weaver 4-H Club Names Officers

THE OFFICE CAT

"A Little Nonsense Now and Then, Is Relished By the Wisest Men."

"Ewe Heard Me?"
And then there's the Centre county sheep herder who was trampled to death when he sang: "Let Me Call Ewe Sweetheart."

Here's a Fast One
After lengthy research I have invented a speedometer for speedy drivers—at 50 mph a green light flashes. At 60 mph a red light flashes. At 70 mph a bell rings, and at 75 a phonograph plays, "Nearer My God to Thee."

Save This Epitaph in Case You Need It
He passed the cop with little fuss,
He passed a load of hay,
He tried to pass a swerving bus
And then he passed away.

Looney Tunes
I have been told that recently a certain Belleville business man had occasion to visit Danville and decided to look over the asylum. He found one of the inmates sitting at a flower bed fishing. Wishing to be agreeable he asked the man how many he caught. "You're the ninth," was the surprising reply.

"Listen My Children, And You Shall Hear"
If some of the Belleville sheiks, were called upon at the present day to enact the heroic role of Paul Revere you could expect this:
Paul (shouting at window): "Husband at home!"
Lady: "Yes."
Paul: "Tell him the British are coming."
Paul (shouting at another window): "Husband at home?"
Lady: "Yes."
Paul: "Tell him the British are coming."
Paul (shouting at another window): "Husband at home?"
Lady: "No."
Paul (dismounting): "To hell with the British."

Like Father Like Son
Then there was the little Milesburg boy who followed his father's footsteps—because his mother was suspicious.

"A Couple of Dead Cells, No Doubt"
It may be true as the eminent scientist up at Penn State asserts that a kiss is nothing more or less than an electric shock. But I have just kissed my wife's maiden aunt, and I guess my battery must be run down, not to mention hers.

April Fool
The sedan was parked at the side of the road leading from Belleville to Fisherman's Paradise. As our informant drew near he could hear noises of a struggle within. He could hear a rustle, probably of silk, and the muffled panting of a man. The body of the car wayed to and fro. He heard a curse and again the muffled panting. He crept softly around to the side and looked into the window and saw . . .
Now, wait a minute, don't get excited. What he saw was a man trying to fold a road map the same as it had been.
