door onto the front sidewalk. The owner of the property has been warned by the Board of Health to adjust the matter but all efforts of the board to date have been in vain. The owner of the residence was reported at Council meeting as having stated that "it is my policy never to make any repairs on any of my properties." At present there is no borough ordinance that would enable local health authorities to take forcible action in the matter.

Chief of Police Charles DeWitt reported that fines and fees totaling $1,993 were collected during the month of May. Chief DeWitt said that Police Officer Orr recently completed a special two weeks training course at State College, and that installation of the two-way radio in the police car was to have begun on Monday. The Chief also paid a compliment to the diligence of the local School Patrols during this past school year.

The Borough Fathers received the following complaints:

Hattie Wagner, North Spring street resident, complained about improper drainage of the rain water in that area and requested that the Street Department take such action as to alleviate the condition.

Another property holder on East Bishop street was reported as harboring a fire hazard in one of his properties due to the great amount of kerosene stored there. The Fire Marshal investigated and warned the gentleman to clean up the present hazard. Should a fire ever break out there, as one Council member reported, the occupants wouldn't stand a "Chinaman's chance of getting out."

Emory Wolf of East Howard street, made complaint against fly ash descending on his property from an adjacent property. In a letter to Councilman Colgrove, the neighbor stated that he had placed a fly-ash collector on his furnace blower to correct the matter. He said that he would welcome any further suggestions from Council as to modifications or any alterations on the collector in order that it might be improved upon. On a motion of Councilman Colgrove, Council voted to have the borough engineer look the collector over as to just what changes could be made that would improve its function. Council president Nevin Smith stated that there is no ordinance in Bellefonte that covers such a condition—fly-ash, lime dust or otherwise.

Council president Nevin Smith, on motion of Council, was confirmed as Director of Bellefonte Civil Defense.

A report was submitted to the effect that the borough lockup is in need of repairs. Arthur Boob was delegated to do them.

Dr. A. A. Donahoe, of State College, owner of Gamble Mill, informed Council that he is willing to sell the mill property to the borough at the price he paid for it originally, plus interest.

ground units as close to front lines as possible. The new clubmobiles will provide servicemen with free coffee and doughnuts, recorded music, stationary and reading material.

The Rev. Carolus emphasized that in accordance with standard Red Cross policy no charges will be made for food and supplies at any time. He pointed out that the Red Cross Club program in Korea has been operating on this basis since it began. In World War II, the Rev. Carolus said, no charge for food was made by mobile units, but at certain large installations a nominal below-cost charge was made for food and lodging at the direction of the military. Revenues so derived were used to improve and large the club operations for the sole benefit of the GI's.

Veterans of World War II will remember the Red Cross clubmobile as one of the bright spots when the going was rough. The clubmobile girl, along with the jeep and Ernie Pyle, was characterized by noted war correspondent Quentin Reynolds as one of the three greatest discoveries to come out of the war.

During the peak of the war, when nearly 14,000,000 men were under arms, the Red Cross operated 787 clubs, 289 clubmobiles, and 111 canteens in combat areas all over the world.

The club program, the Rev. Carolus pointed out, is in addition to the traditional welfare service which Red Cross field directors provide for able-bodied and hospitalized service men at home and abroad. Approximately 360 Red Cross workers are currently on duty with American troops in the Far East, he said.

Arguments On—

Henry Hippie, Lock Haven solicitor, represented those in favor of the dams. He said:

"Progress always discomforts someone. This plan will help 500,000 people in seven counties. Those who oppose the plan would not only be compensated for their losses but benefitted because if the whole valley is helped, they will be helped. It's a question of 600 people and 36 houses against a half million people."

Those from the Howard area who were scheduled to make the trip to the hearing were:

George Denthorpe, Joe Allison, Mrs. Sam Gordon, Rev. and Mrs. John Zinn, Rev. and Mrs. L. P. Markley, Emma Casman, Mrs. Fred Pletcher, Nellie Weber, Louella Weber, Josephine Muffley, Harold Kline, Preston Robb, George Kane.

Thomas Bowes, Cameron Long, John Tressler, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wallace, Woodrow Confer, Harold Boone, B. G. Long, Willard Neff, Roy Thompson, Mrs. Jane Hussler, Donald Gardner.

Harry Keeler, O. F. McCord, Billy Hanna, Cecil Pletcher, Mrs. Ruth Wolf, Ruth Robinson, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Ishler, Margaret Kane, Mrs. Bertha Schenck, Fred Sherman, Victor Thompson, Josephine Holter, Richard Wolfe, N. J. Weikert, and James Wolfe.

Kiwanis Told—

short notice.

The Red Cross blood is provided free of charge to everyone, Mr. Hile said. Bellefonte would be served from the Johnstown blood center, he said.

Mr. Hile explained that only the best trained physicians and nurses are assigned to duty at blood collection centers, where the public gives blood for use in the program. Each prospective donor is examined and no blood is taken unless he is found physically able to give it. The actual taking of the blood is painless and is done with no discomfort to the donor, he said.

Among the guests at the session welcomed by Kiwanis president Thomas H. Mensch were District Governor of Kiwanis, Ernie Bertfany, and Vic Meyers and Tom Metzger, of Lewisport. Other guests included Mrs. John Brown, executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, and Mrs. Harry McElwain, of Unionville, chairman of the local blood program.

There is no business anywhere that cannot be improved by attention and hard work.
