What a Practical Trader Says of the Inter-State Commerce Law.

ITS ALLEGED INEFFECTIVENESS.

No More Lies Against It Than as to Statutes Against Burglary, Etc.

SUGGESTIONS AS TO APPLICATION

Much has been said and written pro and con regarding the inter-State commerce law, but while the doctrinaires have had full swing, the men who are vitally interested have been heard to but a limited extent, and the following from Mr. John Hood, whose experience of the law has been practical, will be of interest. In answer to some queries, Mr. Hood replied:

You have had the say of the commissioners and many railroad officers, therefore, I fear it would be presumption in me to make any statements or suggestions that would be edifying to your readers. The opinion of most of those who have spoken would indicate that the law is here to stay. Many have much fault to find with the restrictions it imposes, and some would be glad to see it repealed. They say it gives water routes some advantages because these rates are not regulated by law, and that it drives traffic through Canada; and some roads can get around the restrictions by classification and others by overloading and underbilling, and some make secret cut rates to get freight, and others depreciate the value of stocks in the interest of stock gambling, and others say the result of the law will be to build up large shippers and certain commercial centers, etc. Therefore they reason that the country would be better off if the law were repealed, although it was to correct these abuses the law was enacted.

SUCH OBJECTIONS APPLY TO ALL LAWS.

To repeal the law because it is violated would be about as sensible as to repeal all laws relating to highway robbery and burglary because they are violated every day. The law is intended to prevent a favored few from increasing their wealth at the expense of the many, and would do so if executed. Hon. Franklin B. Gowen estimated the amount thus secured at about $100,000,000 annually. Of course, that amount is taken off the patrons of the railroads and the stockholders without giving any value therefor.

There are several important amendments pending now before Congress which may correct some of the abuses complained of, as the law was an experiment and time has developed what amendments are a necessity.

In regard to classification, the commissioners could suggest the proper remedies for that, and those who ship via the Canadian route to evade the law should be made to pay duty when their goods are landed on American territory. The present system of posting rates might be improved on to correct such rate-cutting by requiring common carriers to post notice of all reductions in rates at least five days before they take effect, and it might be well to require them to have a sign board in every freight and passenger office from the general offices down to the receiving and delivering offices and platforms, including every station on their line. On the sign board should be printed in large letters, "Freight Rates," and on the same should hang the pamphlets containing the classification and rates, and when a change is to be made a poster should be placed on the same giving notice when all changes are to be made in large type, not less in size than three-inch letters as follows. Say winter rates are to be advanced December 1, post as follows: "Rates will advance on December 1," or say April 1. Rates will be reduced April 5." With such notice secret rate cutting would be hazardous, even to those who change rates to influence the value of stocks. The law should stipulate that no advance in any calendar year shall exceed 20 per cent above the lowest rate of the same year. Thus if a railway company would for any cause name 15c for 100 pounds on sixth class freight and other classes proportionately lower between Chicago and New York, it could not advance the same above 18c per 100 on sixth class until the following January. With that provision stockholders and bondholders would be more careful in selecting officers to manage their property.

HOW TO MAKE IT EFFECTIVE.

The maximum penalty is now $5,000, and the lowest should be $2,000, and one-half of all fines should go to the prosecutor, provided he is the injured party. Such persons would be public benefactors. It involves so much expense and vexation for an individual to prosecute a railroad company that be is entitled to half the fine. All lawsuits are costly and vexatious to individuals, but corporations and their attorneys appear to enjoy them as a luxury, and generally prolong the contest as long as they can, and why should there not be a limit to the time all cases that are entered under the law should be ended?

In regard to overloading and underbilling provisions should be made to weigh and receipt for all goods shipped when it is practicable to do so, and deliver the same amount at destination, that would correct the overloading and underbilling dodge.

THE STATES MUST CO-OPERATE.

To enjoy the full benefits of the law regulating railroad traffic it will be necessary to have State laws in all the States in harmony with the inter-State law. Some of the States have laws regulating State traffic, others have not. The Constitution of Pennsylvania covers the ground, but there are no penalties, and it has been impossible to get a law passed by our Legislature to enforce that provision of our organic law, although every member takes an oath to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article. Why they disregard their oaths and the wishes of their constituents is a mystery to many people.

Some of the railroad officials wish to have the section prohibiting pooling repealed, but the experience shippers had with the old pool of 27 controlled 27 railroads extending from Maine to the Mississippi river, admonishes them that a railroad pool means no competition and very arbitrary and unjust decrees, which are more to be dreaded than the Standard Oil Company Trust.

DOESN'T SWALLOW EVERYTHING.

Mr. Hood shrugged his shoulders when some of the pleas in abatement made by railway companies were rehearsed, and intimated that he had been long enough in business and had seen enough of discrimination to know that the specific gravity of most of the excuses was lighter than the imponderable ether supposed to fill the space between our atmosphere and that of the celestial bodies that dot the range of vision. He incidentally referred to the cases of individuals and companies in times past whom he had known to be favored and who grew immensely rich, while men with as much business tact and industry had hard work to make more than a meager living. Mr. Hood thinks that spacious pleadings will not win with any man of sense who has had regular business with railroad companies for 20 or 25 years past.

ROSE HALL IN A CABINET.

A Woman of the Town, Supposed to Have Skipped to Kansas, is Surprised at Home in Allegheny and Rearrested.

Allegheny yields another sensation. Rose Hall was rearrested in a cabinet in her home, 12 South Diamond street, yesterday afternoon, under striking circumstances. She was supposed to be in Kansas, whither she had fled after indictment in September for keeping a disorderly and unlicensed liquor selling house. She had been under $2,000 bail, however. Her bondsman, a prominent Allegbenian, was notified a few days ago of his liability. In order to save himself from loss, however, he took legal steps to levy on the Hall woman's $3,000 worth of furniture.

Armed with an execution against the furniture, Detective Heil went to the house yesterday and was assisted in taking an inventory on the ground floor by an old colored woman, who had for years been housekeeper at the place. The latter was observed to slyly ascend the stairs (secretly, as she supposed); and, entering a fine room, she locked a cupboard or cabinet door and pocketed the key. The officers took this as indication that silver or jewels had been there concealed. When finally they asked for the unlocking of the cabinet, the housekeeper refused. Being pressed, she at last reluctantly yielded.

Opening the door, what did Detective Heil find? The missing Rose herself, too indignant for utterance. She offered all she possessed to purchase release, but had to go to jail in default of $2,000 bail, her bondsman having delivered her up in disgust.

LATE NEWS IN BRIEF.

—There were no bond offerings at the Treasury yesterday.

—The great carpet workers' strike in New York began yesterday, 1,000 men being out of work.

—Six inches of snow have fallen throughout the Wisconsin pineries, and the lumber men are happy in consequence.

—At a meeting of railway Presidents in New York City yesterday a committee was appointed to prepare the necessary papers for a settlement of the existing difficulties and to confer with the Inter-State Commission as to the legality of any plan that might be prepared.

—At 8 o'clock yesterday morning a caboose containing section men was crashed into at the crossing near Streator, Ill., by a train on the Illinois, Indiana and Iowa road. The caboose upset and William Joy, section boss, was killed. Chris Malody, James Malody, Steve Malody, Eph Mudds and George Steiner were badly wounded.

—The 500 employes of H. W. Davis, carriage factory at Cincinnati, whose contract expired with the beginning of the year, submitted a new scale of prices to their employer. Instead of negotiating with the men he discharged them all, and announced that he was ready to re-employ them individually, but would make no bargains through committees. The men have not returned and the factory is closed.

—The Indiana Democratic State Senators have held a caucus and determined not to allow Lieutenant Governor Robertson to preside at the organization of the Senate on Thursday, and to use force, if necessary, to prevent him from taking the chair. Robertson declares that he will insist upon his rights, and the Republican Senators will back him. A repetition of the scenes of violence that marked the session two years ago is probable.

—It has just been learned that Norman Carter was brutally murdered by Andrew and Frank Jackson, in Brown county, Illinois, last Friday. While chatting together Carter was struck on the head with an ax by one of the Jacksons and fell to the floor insensible. The brothers then subjected Carter's body to the most horrible treatment and fled. Carter lay in the woods until Saturday night, when he died. The murderers have not been apprehended.

—In New York City yesterday morning Marshal Goode, a city marshal attached to the Seventh District Civil Court, levied on some goods belonging to Gustav Simon, at 114 East Fifty-sixth street. Simon resented the intrusion of the marshal and shot him twice, once in the back and another time in the right side of the face. Goode was badly injured and was removed to the house. Simon is a lace merchant who failed in business here some time ago. He was arraigned in court later, and remanded to await the outcome of Goode's wounds. During the seizure Simon was noticed to be acting strangely, and kept his hand on his hip pocket. He is thought to be out of his mind.

OUR LITTLE SON,

Four years old, afflicted with a painful skin disease. Six doctors tried to cure him; all failed. Got worse and worse. Completely cured by one set of Cuticura Remedies, costing $1 75.

Our little son will be four years of age on the 25th inst. In May, 1885, he was attacked with a very painful breaking out of the skin. We called in a physician, who treated him for about four weeks. The child received little or no good from the treatment, as the breaking out, supposed by the physician to be hives in an aggravated form, became larger in blotches, and more and more distressing. We were frequently obliged to get up in the night and rub him with soda in water, strong liniments, etc. Finally, we called other physicians, until no less than six had attempted to cure him, all alike failing, and the child steadily getting worse and worse, until about the 20th of last July, when we began to give him CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, and the CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP externally, and by the last of August he was so nearly well that we gave him only one dose of the RESOLVENT about every second day for about ten days longer, and he has never been troubled since with the horrid malady. In all we used less than one half of a bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, a little less than one box of CUTICURA, and only one cake of CUTICURA SOAP.

MR. RAHENKAMP'S STATEMENT.

"I wish to give my testimony as to what the physicians of the Catarrh and Dyspepsia Institute, at No. 22 Ninth street, have done for me. I have been afflicted with catarrh for several years. The symptoms that alarmed me most were, almost a continual hawking and spitting, headache, sore throat, tenderness across the lungs, with pain under my shoulder blades, a tired, worn out feeling, belching of gas from my stomach, and a full, distressed feeling after eating. The above symptoms have entirely disappeared by the use of their vegetable remedies.

The True Champions of Liberality!

KAUFMANNS'

Give Dollars Where Others Give Cents.

To compare KAUFMANNS' with other clothiers, when liberality is the subject, would be like placing a tallow candle along side of the brilliant electric light. Comparison is simply out of the question. Indeed, if liberality is a virtue, then KAUFMANNS' are possessed of this virtue to the highest degree. To say that for every cent given away by others, KAUFMANNS' give a dollar, would be a fair estimate. This is true, and don't you be misled by noisy actions of certain clothiers. They may shout a hundred times louder than KAUFMANNS', but the latter will give you a hundred times more than the shouters. Take KAUFMANNS' present

Who can point out another concern that has ever had the pluck and nerve to go through its stock and mark down every garment a full 33 1-3 per cent?
