PITTSBURGH, SATURDAY, MAR. 2, 1890.

DIPLOMACY RESENTMENTS. Lord Salisbury has borne testimony to the fact that his delay in the appointment of a Minister to Washington was due to resentment at Cleveland's administration, by the official announcement of Sir Julian Pauncefote's resignation just in time for the retiring administration to learn of it before it goes out of office.

This is not much above the standard of the diplomacy manifested by Bayard and Cleveland when they frantically kicked poor Sackville upstairs into the Paris mission. It is done more quietly and with rather more dignity; but both acts show a prevalence of small resentments, which would be impossible if the business of diplomacy had any really broad international relations to deal with.

In the interim between Sackville's dismissal and the present time Lord Salisbury and Mr. Bayard have succeeded in showing that the two most closely related countries in the world world can get along very well without any expensive ministers. The English Premier seems to recognize the fact, by his appointment of a Minister who will fill the post just about as much as it is filled at present.

PRIVATE DETECTIVES RESPONSIBILITY. The verdict of $2,500 rendered yesterday against a private detective agency for a false arrest in the Murdoch bunko case will be likely to prove a needed check on the methods of this class of business. The private detective industry has undergone considerable expansion in the past few years; and the opinion which unprejudiced people will be apt to take of that development can hardly be favorable to the exercise of such functions by private parties. It is certainly evident, when the methods consist of arresting people on such evidence as that employed in this case, that there is need of a check; and the check which consists of levying damages on the purveyors of alleged detection ought to be efficient. The powers and duties of detectives should legitimately be confined to officers paid by the public, and responsible to the public. Until we can maintain that standard of civilization the best thing is to fix the responsibility of the private agencies for the legality of their acts.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS. It is far from pleasant at a time when Pittsburg prominently needs street improvements to find a confusion of ideas and perplexity of mind in official quarters as to what sort of a law is wanted. This comes to the public, too, at a time when everyone was hoping that the street bill passed a couple of years ago would work. That measure provided for assessing the benefits by benefits in place of by the foot front rule; several streets were graded and paved under it; the property abutting was for the most part charged with the expense; nobody appealed. Now it is intimated that a struggle going on over a couple of drafts of new bills, as to whose meaning and provisions there is neither unanimity of opinion nor in many quarters now, even, is likely, a clear understanding.

Pittsburg needs to get out of the mud. It is not only public and private owners which calls for this, but property owners in the outer wards fully understand the business fact that good pavements add far more than their cost to the value of the adjacent property. Where before there was opposition to grading and paving there is now a very general appreciation of their benefits. It would be a good idea if in the future all assessments in regard to the city, before being presented at Harrisburg, were carefully canvassed and approved in Council. The testimony of the other fellows about the various man talked of for Secretary of the Treasury can be taken as worth anything, the distinguishing characteristic of the whole lot must be their extreme intelligibility.

LAND GRABBERS should be kept out of their not legally opened for settlement, but the news that the cowboys are evicting settlers in No Man's Land inspires the wish that some one would display energy enough to evict a few of the cattle companies from that section and Oklahoma, so that they will stay evicted.

SPRINGFIELD'S HIGH AMBITION. Mr. Springer's attempt to create new States has met with such brilliant success in the way he did not want it, that he is disposed to try it once more. He would be glad to slip in Idaho, Wyoming, Arizona and New Mexico before the end of the Fifth Congress if he could do so. Mr. Springer is too modest. He might try to get in a few States from Alaska, No Man's Land and the Indian Territory. If Mr. Springer or any other statesman had broad enough views to propose a bill admitting States when they reach a prescribed standard of population and development, all these Territories could come in as soon as they are able to meet the requirements. As it is, considering the very backward development and imperfect assimilation of these Territories, the 43 States are likely to remain as the sum total of admissions for the national flag during a good many years to come.

THE APPROPRIATION ORDINANCE. The appropriation ordinance passed Common Council last night after some skirmishes, one of which was a temporary victory for the critics of the measure. The short interval between the publication of the ordinance and its passage by the lower branch has not allowed time for the necessary rather difficult. Assuming for the present that the ordinance itself is all right the manner of its passage calls for two comments.

The first is the rather singular theory propounded with regard to the duties of Councilmen, in connection with the motion which was passed and afterward reconsidered calling for a list of the salaries of officials of the city to be advanced to the next meeting of Council at once, it ought to save time; and yet it was stated by the same member who wishes each man to do it for himself, that it would take the committee, with the power to command the aid of the departments, so much time as to render it impossible to pass the ordinance during the present month.

This is less grave than the repetition of the practice of shoving the most important ordinance of the year through one branch of Council in a single session. Here is a measure taking $5,000,000 of the earnings of the people for the next year. It is recognized by charter enactments and the rules of parliamentary practice, that such a measure cannot receive the careful examination and thorough discussion that it requires, if the three readings and final vote are crowded into a single session. The growth of this practice is certainly incompatible with the careful guardianship of the public interests.

THE GERMAN GAME. The Berlin correspondent of the London Standard and the Cologne Gazette agree in asserting that the ordering of the German fleet to Samoa is for the purpose of inflicting "signal chastisement" on the Samoans who have dared to oppose the gobbling of the islands by Germany.

It is not to be the stereotyped German policy to make some decided act of aggression while the other Powers with a pretense of joint conference on the subject. It was this policy of annexing the United States with a conference and at the same time taking Malietoa a prisoner which commenced the Samoan difficulty; and if the official organs of Bismarck are to be trusted, it is to be repeated if the United States joins in the Berlin conference while the German fleet is completing the conquest of Samoa.

It may not be policy to fight on that issue; but it is certainly worth remembering that the Government which allows itself to be twice fooled with a conference of this sort, can blame itself only.

CONGRESS' MODEST NEEDS. Poor Mr. Perkins of Kansas! His benevolent scheme to give himself and every other member of Congress a $1,200 private secretary at the public expense has again been rejected. The present Congress is doomed to worry along without private secretaries, and a little matter of three-quarters of a million of dollars will consequently stay in the Treasury.

Probably there is no more earnest foe of the surplus than the philanthropic Perkins, and statesmen of his class. Their aims are high, and if attained they would come high to the nation. But who could doubt that Congressmen would be greatly improved as for such luxuries as private secretaries and the like, provided at the public expense? What we do not understand is the moderation of the persevering Perkins. Why does he stop at private secretaries? There are lots of other things that Congressmen need in the discharge of their arduous duties; cigars for instance. (The nation provides cuspidors for the halls of Congress, why not the things which make a Congressman a necessity, to wit, tobacco for chewing and smoking.) If Plans for Congressmen might be superfluous in a general way, but their wives deserve compensation for the loss of the delectable society of their lords, and what a graceful thing it would be to provide each married Congressman with a piano—no grand piano, but a cottage upright from a first-class maker. Indeed when we come to think upon that matter the conclusion is forced upon us that to save such luxuries for such virtuous Perkins from frittering away their energies in banging annually against the Treasury doors it might be well for the nation to provide for all our Congressmen need here below. Board, lodge, wash, titivate and generally provide for Congress at the public cost. The surplus would soon cease to worry the nation.

The verdict in the Penney suit yesterday is likely to shine off the private detective business to a very considerable degree.

The New York Superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company, when asked if he would comply with the order to remove his wires within thirty days, replied, "I can't." As the order only applies to streets on which the wires are standing ready for the wires, this reply is correctly interpreted to mean, "I won't." To that is opposed the rejoinder made by the Mayor that if the electric officials will not do as they are required by the law, some one will be found who will do it for them.

Rainbows, Bluebirds, Blossoms and Maple Sugar in Connection. NEW HAVEN, March 1.—A rainbow in winter, said to be a rare and sure harbinger of spring, was seen by a party of pilgrims from the summit of East Rock yesterday. It was brilliant and conspicuous.

Two bluebirds were discovered laying the foundations of a nest in Hemlock Grove at the Rock.

Fullman Conductors on Florida Trains Have to be Lingolates. On the Pullman drawing room, sleeping car line, which is in service between New York and Tampa, Fla., by the Pennsylvania Railroad Atlantic Coast Line, and the Plant system of railroads connecting at Port Tampa with the Plant Steamship Line for Havana, the conductors are not only required to speak English, but to be able to converse in Spanish. These conductors are a necessity and are of great convenience to the foreign element, which is naturally drawn to this line.

THE TOPICAL TALKER. She Elected the Fugate—Idleness Defeated. The Fugate—Idleness Defeated. The Fugate—Idleness Defeated.

GENERAL GREENLEY is doubtful, but he thinks there will be a storm at Washington next Monday. This gives the paraders ground for hope that they will have nice, bright weather.

THE report that Plumb, of Kansas, has been snubbed by General Harrison is good reason for expressing the hope that Plumb will not find it out. If anyone should tell him of it there is danger that he might smash the new administration before it gets fairly underway.

THE intimation that little Vermont may have a Cabinet place and New York be left out in the cold creates the belief in the New York political mind that civilization is an utter failure.

THE New York report that Mr. Platt is to be the Secretary of the Navy is happily contradicted. The spectacle of Mr. Platt expanding the new navy by the methods prevalent in the New York quarantine bureau is too stunning for the American people to contemplate.

THE Thunderer has finally demonstrated that its shafts are fatal. It presents the case of its own ruin from being struck by its own lightning.

As only two days more are left in which the journalistic Cabinet constructors may exert their talents, they will make the most of their opportunity. There is a day has been the late copy to the next two days half a dozen Cabinets daily are expected.

THE more that street bill is discussed, the deeper becomes the doubt whether the trouble is with the present law, or the city officials.

COMMON people can console themselves with long standing authority, that it is almost as difficult for a rich man to get into the Kingdom of Heaven as for a poor man to get to a good seat in the fashionable churches of New York.

PROMINENT PEOPLE. THE Prince of Wales goes to Germany in the spring as a formal visit to the German Emperor, before whom he will appear in his capacity of Colonel of the Blicher Hussars.

MR. PIOTRY, being in Paris, says the Philadelphia Ledger, the British Government notify him that it is desirous of taking measures to have him arrested and extradited. If he will kindly remain in view long enough this may be his fate, but if he should take the hint and depart for his native land, he would be a modern Dogberry. "You are to bid my man stand, in the Prince's name."

"How is the world?" "Why, then, take no note of him, but let him go, and presently call the rest of the watch together and thank God you are rid of a knave."

THE Crown Prince Rudolf, shortly before his death, was sitting to Julius Benner for two portraits. One was a whole-length figure in uniform, destined as a present to the Budapest, in whose great hall it was to be hung. The other was a smaller portrait of the Prince of Wales, the other was a half-length, in hunting costume, intended as a present to the Prince's companion in arms, the Duke of Cambridge.

ONE was a portrait of himself, which he intended to be hung in his study. The Emperor, for other was for a representation upon a large scale of the Galician maneuvers.

ARKANSAS GETTING THERE. LITTLE ROCK, March 1.—There was a spirited debate in the State Senate this morning when the bill to amend the act relating to the modification of the libel law of the State came up for final action. Following is the measure:

Section 1.—In actions for libel, if the Court or jury shall find that there is no malice, exemplary or punitive damages shall be awarded.

Section 2.—In all actions for libel if the defendant has published a retraction of the alleged libel as early as practicable after the hearing of his alleged falsity such fact shall be admitted in evidence in mitigation of damages and rebuff of the presumption of malice.

AN EVENING OF MUSIC. The Second Musical of the Philharmonic Society a Success.

The Philharmonic Society, of the East End, gave their second musical of this season at Liberty Hall last evening. A large audience was present. Mr. Thomas F. Kirk was director, and Mr. Carl Hetter pianist. The programme was attractive. The singing of Miss Agnes Vogel and Mr. W. H. Stephens deserves especial mention. The lady has already an enviable reputation in this city and elsewhere.

The entertainment was opened with a vocal solo by Miss Miller, who sang a soprano solo, and was liberally applauded. The piano solo was played by Miss Miller during the evening, and was well received by the audience.

THE large dining and reception rooms of the hotel had been prepared for dancing. Gernert and his party were the first to enter. This popular amusement was indulged in until 2 o'clock this morning. Progressive euchre was played by the ladies, and the prizes awarded were not small. The prizes awarded were not small. The prizes awarded were not small.

Mrs. Reuben Miller Receives Her Guests at the Hotel. Mrs. Reuben Miller, of Fifth avenue, Shady-side, gave a delightful reception yesterday afternoon, from 3 to 6 o'clock. The attendance was very large. Gernert and Guenther's Orchestra were the musical feature of the evening.

STATE POLITICS. Boyer's Candidacy for State Treasurer—Reynolds' Chances for the Governorship.

It is not surprising that the name of George Boyer is being mentioned as a candidate for the Governorship. He is a gentlemanly, well-to-do man, and has a good record in the State politics.
