Democrats and Republicans Unite in Offering Tributes of Respect

TO GENERAL SIMON CAMERON.

The Veteran, in a Most Happy Frame of Mind, Pleasantly Greets

THE THRONG OF PRIENDLY VISITORS.

Many Distinguished Men Congratulate the Aged Statesman on His Ninetieth Birthday,

Democrats and Republicans vied with each other yesterday in offering congratulations and expressions of hearty goodwill to General Simon Cameron on the ninetieth anniversary of his birth. The Pennsylvania Legislature, the Governor and many other distinguished guests were among the aged statesman's callers, while letters, telegrams and tributes of respect poured in from every quarter. The General entertained his guests most pleasantly, and seemed in a very happy and contented mood.

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] HARRISBURG, March 8.-The feeble hand that in its days of strength swayed a Commonwealth by its beck and helped to guide the destinies of a nation, reached tremblingly out to-day, responsive to the field, the Hon. Simon Cameron. Young men with elastic trend came in and gazed with interest on the bent form and the fine head, crowned with its luxuriant growth of frosted hair. Old men came with slower steps to look on their former chieftain. None who had stood close to him in the advance guard of the old political battles were there. To this one as he passed he said: "I knew your father." To another: "Your grandfather and I were friends." As Senator Ross was introduced he said: "You are the grandson of old Ross, of Bucks." His mind was clear on the things of the past.

OLD MEMORIES REVIVED. . The familiar names of the young men revived the memories of the days of his prime, and though the burden of his years compelled him to seat himself before the line of Senators had filed past, his aged form dilated with pleasure, his voice became firmer and fuller toned, and pleasant words flowed from his tongue in response to the polite, kindly or earnest phrases of his visitors. A touching incident was the grasping of Gen-eral Cameron's hand by the venerable Rep-resentative Moore, of Montgomery, who re-cited a graceful sentiment, ending with the e, "Touch us gently, Father Time."
"That's a beautiful sentiment," said Gen-

That's a beautiful sentiment, said General Cameron. "Time has been very kind to me and touched me very gently."

When Representative Johnson, of Cameron, shook hands, the General remarked: "You ought to be a cousin of mine." Representative Dearden said as he shook hands, "Congratulations, General, and I wish you ten years more."

"Thank you, sir," said the General, "you Philadelphians are always generous." As young Representative Missimer, of Berks, clasped the General's hand and was modestly passing quickly away, the veteran clung to him a moment and jocularly re-marked: "Wie geht's?" Of Representative Hays, of Venango, he affectionately in-quired for "my old friend, your father." "Yours is an old Montgomery county name," he said to Representative Base. he said to Representative Bean.

A HAPPY LITTLE SPEECH.

When the long procession of legislators had passed General Cameron said to the many remaining in the room: "Gentlemen, I am very glad to see you all, and yery much obliged for the honor you have done me. I don't know what more I can say, except that I'll try to behave myself as long as I am here, and will always be glad to see you when you do my the honor to call."

me the honor to call." Speaker Boyer made a graceful reply. He wished the veteran many years of happiness, "and," he said, quoting from Tennyson on the Duke of Wellington, "We are all proud of the good gray head which all men

At precisely 11 o'clock the procession of Senators and Representatives left the Capi-tol led by Lieutenant Governor Davies and President Pro Tem Grady for the residence of the General. As the head of the procession reached the house the doors swung back and the Legislature of Pennsylvania entered. President Pro Tem Grady introduced the Senators as they passed. Speaker Boyer introduced the legislators. When it was all over General Cameron donned his overcoat and hat and stood in the front yard while two photographers, whose cameras were trained on the house, caught his likeness before a background of lawmakers of

WARM GREETINGS FOR ALL.

The Legislature was well represented. Many who usually leave on Thursday night or on early trains on Friday had this time remained. Party lines were entirely wiped away for the occasion. Democrate marched side by side with Republicans to honor the aged chieftain of the clan Cameron. Some of them were among those most warmly greeted. When the rest had gone away a number of close friends remained at the mansion by invitation and partook of inneheon with General Cameron. Among these were Major L. S. Bent, Senator George Handy Smith, President Pro Tem. Grady, Colonel T. T. Worth, of Lebanon; George Dawson, Coleman Jr. Hagus & Co., and the purchaser of the purchaser, desire to call the attention of the people. This afternoon Governor Beaver and his Cabinet, Secretary Stone, Auditor General McCamant, Colonel William Livsey, Attorney General Kirkpatrick. Secretary Stewart and other heads of departments, with the numerous employes, paid their respects. The State organization of Catholic Knights of America, in session here, also called on General Cameron and were warmly welcomed.

NUMEROUS CONGRATULATIONS.

This evening General Cameron, at an informal lunch, entertained Adjutant General Hastings, Senator Delamater, State Chairman Andrews, ex-State Printer Lane S. Hart, Insurance Commissioner Features. Hart, Insurance Commissioner Foster, Colonel W. W. Jennings and County Republican Chairman John H. Weiss. The day was cold, raw and blustery—typical March weather—but it kept no one away. General Cameron's breakfast table was General Cameron's breaktast table was covered with telegrams, and they poured in on him all day long, from all narts of the Union; from as far west as California, as far east as Maine; from New Orleans and St. Paul, Philadelphia, Portland, Oregon, New York, Washington, Pittsburg; from the oil regions and the coal and lumber regions; from old friends of long years' standing; from men of recent acquaintance; from people, who, in years gone by, were encouraged by the General and nided up the the ladder and never forget the day of his

In addition to these many letters reached him from friends who had studied Uncle him from friends who had studied Uncle Sam's mails so well that their messages ar-rived on the auspicious day. From letters of love it was but a step to flowers of friend-ship, and soon came elegant floral remem-brances from friends iar and near. The Cameron Club, of Philadelphia, sent a magnificent basket of roses of mammoth size, with white ribbons, and two beautiful badges of the club. The committee accompanying it were William J. Pollock, J. W. Dubree and W. J. Milligan.

AN EXQUISITE PLORAL TRIBUTE. The Legislature sent a shield of white roses, with a keystone border of pink, red and cream roses, and the inscription of pinks "S. C. 1799-1889." Other friends sent floral tokens of regard and other presents showing their extern.

Many Harrisburg people called during the day. Neither Senator Don Cameron, nor his family were present, but they will make the house joyous again on the 28th day of this month, when Miss Margueretta Cameron will be there wedded to young Mr. Clark, of the great thread cencern. Among the congratulatory telegrams received by General Cameron were the following:

From A. J. Drexel and George W. Childs: "Hearty congratulations and best wishes from your old friends."

From Assistant Astorney General Mc-Cammont, Washington, D. C.: "Three generations of my family have loved and honored you. May heaven long continue its blessings on you."

May heaven long continue its blessings on you."

From Charles A. Dana: "Affectionate congratulations on your birthday. My wife joins in wishing you health and happiness."

From George Brigham, Pittsburg: "May you round out your centennial with the love and affection of the citizens of Pennsylvania as you have them today."

Senator and Mrs. Don Cameron sent their love and congratulations.

Hamilton Disston, Philadelphia, said: "May you be as vigorous when you reach 100."

Ardrew Carnegie telegraphed from New York: "Many happy returns of this day. Your thousands of friends have you in training for a centenarian. Be very careful of yourself and don't disappoint us. Mrs. Carnegie sends kindest greetings, and hopes that promised visit will be soon made."

W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill): "Many pleasant returns of the day. Join me at a rib roast breakfast in Paris next summer."

A SHAMMING SCHEME.

That is Senator Greer's Report on the Mc-Allister Orphans-One Boy Conceived and Worked Up the Matter-The School Vindiented.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 BUTLER, March 8,-The voluminous report of Senator Greer, Inspector of the Soldiers' Orphan Schools, regarding the crazy boys at the McAllister School, will be one of the most singular and interesting ever filed in that department at Harrisburg. The boys were shamming. They have all confessed, much to the confusion of wise and snowy-haired doctors, who diagnosed the cases. Inspector Greer has the written the cases. Inspector Greer has the written confession of 24 boys who had played crazy. A youth named Gus Spitler was the originator of the famous disease. In the dormitory one evening after the boys had retired he was hurling pillows, when some boy cried, "Put him out, he's crazy." Suiting the action to the suggestion, he played crazy so well the alarmed boys called the principal and doctors. His confession reprincipal and doctors. His confession recites his antics and how he often laughed at off. Like Spitler, the other boys tell all that transpired during their seeming crary spells. In their confessions the boys say spells. In their confessions the boys say the motives inspiring them were to have fun, and have their meals carried to them. Their ages range from 10 to 16 years, and their testimony is clear and convincing. Each one says that they have abundance to eat, have good clothing and kind treatment. The testimony of 36 boys and girls who The testimony of 36 boys and girls who did not play crazy is given in the report. They speak of the kind treatment of the principal, the teachers and of the good food and clothing furnished them. Their testimony is given in the interest of truth re-gardless of any person. Miss Nora Close, the young lady named in the newspapers as having declared that she left the institution because of insufficient food, gives her testimony. She says the statement is false. She taught in the school two months, but was compelled on account of ill health to go home. She says there is an abundance of first-class food furnished the school. To make his investigation as thorough as possible, the Inspector received lengthy statements from Rev. Lowcy, of the Presby-terian Church; Rev. Lusher, of the Lutherterian Church; Rev. Lusher, of the Luther-an McAllister Church; Judge Smith, Judge Watts, now postmaster, and a number of other reliable citizens, including Grand Army men. They express words of praise both for the school and the appearance of the children. The painstaking report of Senator Greer proves that the school has been unjustly abused.

and what is more you'll look in vain elsewhere for elegant garments at such LOW PRICES as you'll find in this the most popular store in the city.

OVERCOATS FOR MEN!

We never did show such Overcoats as can be seen right now on our counters. They carry their own letters of credit for shapeliness, luxury, style, quality and fine workmanship. They recommend themselves to all by their remarkably low prices. Every garment we offer bears the stamp of PERFECTION, yes, PERFECT PERFECTION and the make and fit will compare favorably with the work of the most artistic of tailors, while the materials will please the most exacting of purchasers. The finest products of foreign and domestic looms are represented in our mammoth assortment and the keynote of our entire stock is unquestionable reliability.

demand for Overcoats for boys the coming spring and you surely would like to have your boys dressed tastefully, especially when it is to be done with very little money indeed. Nowhere else in this wide world will be found more elegant Overcoats for Youths and Boys, for it is indeed very doubtful whether any clothier in this country has made the preparations for a spring trade we have.
