GENERAL SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

IBY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.] LONDON, March 20 .- [Copyright, ]-The players had an uncomfortable day at Bradford. A drizzling rain set in the early morning, and in the afternoon there was a veritable downpour. The visit had excited the greatest interest among Yorkshire sportsmen, whose name is legion, and, had the weather been decent, there would have been an enormous crowds gathered. As it was there were not more than a couple of thousand people on the Park avenue grounds. The players waited a half hour beyond 8 o'clock in the vain hope that the rain would clear off and then walked moodily onto the ground, some in their over-

Chicago went in first and Ryan was thrown out at first base. Then Pettit treated the spec tators to an interesting exhibition of base stealing and reached home, scoring the first run. Anson made a two-base hit, and then Pfeffer raised much enthusiasm by hitting a all over the fence, enabling Apson to reach home and himself running all the bases. Chicago closed the inning for three runs.

All-America followed and were soon put out some fine hitting and scored two runs. Chicago in the third scored one. All-America again failing to score. The game was here brought to a close, having lasted only 20 minutes. As a matter of fact the play was simply to prevent the complete disappointment of the

THE PRIZE CATTLE MEN.

Important Meeting Held in New York and Officers Elected.

NEW YORK, March 20.-The parlors of the Fifth Avenue Hotel were crowded today with cattle men from all parts of the country. It was the fourth ananal meeting of the Holstein-Friesian Association, and the delegation in attendance was a large one. Among them were N. H. Al-haugh, of Tadmore, O.: J. Dan Bleyker, of Kalamanoo, Mich.; N. S. Carlisle, St. Charles, Ill.; O. P. Chapman, Wellington, O.; C. W. Horr, Wellington, O.; Edgar Huidekoper, Meadville, Pa.; Wm. M. Ligrett, Benson, Minn.; L. H. He states that the players will live high this year, as the following list of hotels will show: Quincy Hotel, Boston: Westminster, New York, Girard, Philadelphia; Arlington, Wash-York, Girard, Philadelphia; Arlington, Washington; Hollenden, Cleveland; Bates, Indianapolis; Leland, Chicago.

During a conversation last evening Mr. Phillips stated that tale-bearing by players to newspaper men will be prohibited this season. He said: "Nothing militates against the interests of the club as this custom of players carrying tales to newspapers. The rules of the club forbid anything that will in any way interfere with its interests, and most assuredly we mean to enforce that rule. Any player who has grievance can state his case to the officials of the club. A violation of the rule, means a fine or suspension and a report to means a fine or suspension and a report to President Young."

The latter states that Hogan ought rather to be in bed than anywhere near a prize ring. Hogan's backers, however, state that as soon as his neck is better he will fight Shay for $400 or $500. It may, however, be a long time before he recovers.

Comiskey's Confidence. St. Louis, March 20.—Charley Comiskey, the captain and manager of the Browns, arrived from Chicago this morning, and is looking the very picture of health. He thinks the Browns will win the pennant again, but that they will have to work for it more than they did last season, having most to fear from the Brooklyns, Cincinnatis and Athletics, in the order named.

A BEER TRUST PETERS OUT.

The Scheme to Consolidate Syracuse Breweries Falls Through.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCHA SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 20 .- If there is to be a Beer Trust in Syracuse it will be without scoring. Chicago made two in the second inning, and All-America following, did much talked of during the last three months. The millions of money from outside of Syracuse that were to furnish the Syracuse Brewing and Malting Company with big capital have failed to materialize. Outsiders who looked upon the new corporspectators. The score stood: Chicago, 8; All-America, 3. surprised a month ago to see the New York newspapers printing advertisements offering for sale $1,800,000 of the company's $3,000 .-000 of securities. It was said that the books in the New York brokers' offices would remain open only ten days for subscriptions. The public, however, did not rush into the scheme so eagerly as might have been ex-pected from the favorable showing made in the company's prospectus. To-day the time allotted for the consummation of the scheme expires, and the scheme itself expires.

A gentleman connected with the brewing interests said to-day that the proposed com-pany was a failure. He said that the subscriptions to the company's securities in New York had been disappointing, small, and indeed, compared with the large amount it was proposed to raise, they were merely nominal. The local brewers, he said, are out nothing, as the New York brokers who undertook to engineer the matter stand the expense incurred. There is talk among the brewers, now that the matter of operating all the breweries in this city under one management has been discussed, of forming a com-pany among themselves. Those in favor of the plan assert that the agitation of the scheme that has just fallen through has A Morrow, Dean of the College and Agreement of the University of Hilmons; Benjamin C. scheme that has just failen through the college and the A meeting will probably soon be held to take action in the matter.

ENGLAND AND SAMOA.

The Government is in Entire Accord With the United States. LONDON, March 20 .- A Blue Book on Samoan affairs was issued to-day. It contains 356 dispatches, the dates ranging from April 29, 1885, to February 28, 1889. The dispatches show that England has been throughout in cordial accord with America, and that she declines to accede to Germany's request for assistance and co-operation in the restoring of order in Samoa until she had learned the American Government's views on the subject.

On January 29 last Lord Salisbury complained to Count von Hatzfeldt, German Ambassador at London, concerning Prince Bismarck's statement in the Reichstag that in Samoa Germany and England were "ad-vancing hand in hand." The British Prime Minister said that the views of the two countries were identical as far as the future government of Samoa was conbut not otherwise.

A DIAMOND THIEF PARDONED.

Fanny Davenport and Another Wome Have a Little Spat.

NASHVILLE, TEN., March 20 .- Governor Taylor to-day pardoned Charles Talbott, who, as clerk of the Gavoso Hotel in Memphis stole $125,000 worth of diamonds from Fannie Dayenport. Quite a lively scene occurred in the Governor's office in counection with the pardon to-day. A Mrs. Fetter, who had taken an interest in getting Talbott pardoned, claimed that she could be given the credit of getting the pardon, and to-day Representative Odlum, of Memphis, secured the document from Governoz Taylor with the intention of giving it to Miss Davenport to carry to Talbott. Mrs. Fetter got very angry at this, and informed Mr. Odlum that as she had done all the work in securing the pardon, she did not propose to have any actress use it as an

SHE POISONS HER THREE BABES. Two of Them Dying and the Third a Terrible Sufferer for Awhile.

THE MOTHER ON TRIAL FOR HER LIFE

Tells Her Pitiful Story, and Declares She Was Insane

A most pitiful tale is that told by Mrs. Wilhelmina Lebkuechner, who, when erazed by despair, caused by sickness and destitution, bought poison and gave it to her three children, two of whom died. A number of doctors testify to the fact that the poor woman was unaccountable for her awful act when it was committed. [SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] NEW YORK, March 20 .- Withelmins Lebkuechner, who poisoned her three children and killed two of them, who is on trial for her life in the General Sessions, has a plain, hard-featurid face, disfigured by a rash, and looks weary, poverty-stricken and common-place. She told her story to the court to-day with surprising power and ex-cellent choice of words. Apologizing first for speaking only "German English," she "I was born on May 26, 1852, in Worms. On October 26, 1871, I was married. On November 28, 1877, I was again married to Mr. Lebkuechner, my second husband, and went to live with him at 324 Ninth avenue. He was a saloon keeper. One of my children was born on December 13, 1878, and another on March 4, 1881. My husband Frank and I had to attend to all the business. When one of my children was 13 he fell and hurt himself." "Leave out these details and come down to later events," Judge Gildersleeve inter-

THE BEGINNING OF THE TROUBLES. "Judge," she said, "all my troubles began with the sickness of that child. An operation was performed, and when I had paid the doctors I could not pay the rent. My husband—well, I won't say anything My husband—well, I won't say anything about him—he was my husband. After that I just let things go. We owed for excise and rent, and the Sheriff put us out on the street. My husband and I separated, but made up and lived together until March, 1883. Then one of the children was sick nearly two months, and I had more trouble with my husband.

The Prisoner-I want to tell how independent he was. He tried to drive me away from him. Then I went to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and gave the children up and got out a warrant against my husband for desertion. Then I was sent to the Charity Hospital on Blackwell's Island. After I came out of the hospital I went to a lodging house at 115 Chatham street, and lodging house at 110 Channametreet, and did heavy washing. Shortly after I went to Guttenberg. My husband came after me and wanted me to go home. "Give me a home and I will go home," I said to him. I Judge Gildersleeve—We can't stop to hear all these details.

The Prisoner—Well, my husband died and I wanted to get my children back. You know you never get your children back after the society gets them. They are sent out West. I heard they were going to send Tony out West. I told the detective of the society, in 1888, that I was dead sick, and that I would get crasy if they should send him away. Two weeks before the blizzard I got Tony back. There was a poor family I got Tony back. There was a poor family in the same house where I lived, and I got Mrs. Vermilye, of Greenwich street, where I worked, to give them a stove, and I injured my back carrying the stove to the family. I had a sewing machine, on which I owed $8. I had only 26 working days in a mouth, and I couldn't get along. I had to get some one to take charge of the little boy Christopher, in Forty-second street, and that costs money. On days when it stormed I couldn't work because I went out to wash.

THE DEPTHS OF DESPAIR. One night, between the blizzard and the children's death, I took the children to the Twenty-first street police station and asked tor lodgings. The police sergeant told me to get out, because, he said, I had the smallpox. It was my face. Then I went down to the foot of East Twenty-third street and sat on the pier, thinking whether I should jump into the water. The children played around and thought it was a picnic.

I remember on what day I first made up my mind. On March 21 I worked all day, and I couldn't eat supper. I gave supper to the children, and all the time I was crying. I

A MOST TOUCHING SCENE. I went and sat down on the side of the bed and cried: "My God! What will become of me? What will become of the children if I die!" Little Christopher—he was the one that got well—came to me and said: "Don't ery, mamma, don't ery; the Savior will help you." Then I thought, "He is right. The Savior is in heaven, and we would all be better off in heaven." My head ached so that I went into the yard and let the cold water from the hydrant run on it for a long time. After that I don't re-Mr. MacDona-You don't remember that

The prisoner—No, I remember nothing. I suppose I did all those things they, say I did. I said so myself to Police Sergeant Albertson, at the time, and I suppose I told the truth. I'm sure I was crazy then, but I'm happy now. I like to live. I am happy because Judge Martine says I am not insane now. Now I want to live because I am likely to get help. Then all was dark to me was dark to me. Mr. MacDons-You think it's wrong to

The prisoner—Oh, yes. Dr. Allen McLane Hamilton, Dr. Emmet C. Dent, Dr. Frank H. Ingram, Dr. Matthew D. Field and Dr. A. Donglass testified that they believe Mrs. Lebkuechner was irresponsible when she killed her children. The case will be given to the jury today.

RESPITED UNTIL 1904.

The Long Reprieve Secured by a Delawarian Under a Death Sentence. DOVER, DEL., March 20 .- William J. Calboun, who was to have been hanged Friday next, was yesterday respited until 1904. He is a rather attractive person, of 23 years of age, but the capital crime for which he was convicted was most revolting. He was arrested only after a desperate struggle and was ably defended at the trial, but was convicted and sentenced to death Shortly after he was sentenced a revulsion of feeling took place in his favor and strenuous efforts were put forth to suve his life.

A petition in his favor was signed by one of the judges, several members of the jury that convicted him and hundreds of citizens of Wilmington. Delegation after delegation visited the Governor, and, yielding to this pressure, the Governor yesterday re-splted Calhoun 25 years. This change in oublic feeling was brought about by the fact hat Caltroun had been on a continued debauch and medical experts who examined him after the sentence testified that he was really at the time not of sound mind. Calhoun, when visited in his cell to-day, was almost insane with joy. He had given up all hopes of respite, and felt himself under the shadow of the gallows. The Governor's action is generally commended.

THEY WERE NOT GUILTY.

So the Jury Decided After Taking Just Three Ballots. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. ! WHEELING, March 20 .- In the United States District Court this afternoon the jury in the case of the United States vs. M. L. Etzler and Hugh Hawkins returned a verdict of not guilty. The defendants were Republicans, well-known citizens and contractors of this city, and were jointly indicted at Parkersburg for "knowingly and feloniously" inducing William Merzum, colored, to cast an illegal vote.

The case was put on trial yesterday morning, and was fought bitterly on each side as regards evidence, and argued by counsel for five hours. The jury, composed of nine Republicans and three Democrats, returned a verdict of not guilty after three ballots. So far the court has disposed of but three out of 75 election cases on the docket.

Miss Anderson will probably go abroad this summer, though her plans for the future are as yet indefinite. PERCUAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

PHILADELPHIA, March 20 .- Miss Mary Anderson was somewhat better to-day. She is not by any means well as yet, however, though she has been given the cheering intelligence by her physician, that it is alto-gether reasonable to hope that she will be about again within ten days or a fortnight. Even in that event, however, it is settled that she will not attempt to resume her professional duties until next autumn. Where she will go when she shall have grown well enough to travel has not been determined upon as yet, though it is altogether likely that she will go abroad in the summer She talks of spending some time at Atlantic

Despite her illness she has within a few days performed some business that required mature thought and involved a great deal of money. Except for the slight tax upon her physical condition she was none the worse for the effort. She showed the possession of her usual acumen in handling the ousiness, and discussed it in her clearminded way with those who had to be con-

THE DANGER PAST. Her mother, Mrs. Griffin, who came here at the beginning of her illness, found her so well that she has returned home. Her brother, Joseph Anderson, and his bride, who have been with her, felt so much ease respecting her condition, that they were to have gone to New York yesterday, but changed their minds by reason of the rain and will leave to-day. Miss Anderson will remain, accompanied only by her maid, to receive medical treatment. Her relatives were assured by her physician that there was no danger at all, and no requirement for their remaining here.

The private flat at the Stratford, which the party have had, will be retained, so that Miss Anderson may be undisturbed by noise. The flat is on the third floor, is extremely bright and pleasaut, and Miss Anderson is quite confident that her enforced sojourn there will not be without its own She has always taken the freedom of the

She has a couch in her boudoir upon which she reclines when fatigued. She has been suffering quite severely at times with head-ache, which usually accompanies severe nervous prostration. She has suffered a good deal, too, with a rheumatic pain, and is receiving treatment by massage, but her mind, it is said, has always been absolutely out of peril.

She has read the newspapers a little but not much. She learned, however, of some of the rumors concerning her mind, and she was cheerful enough to smile as if they amused her. Yet it was only natural that under her apparent amusement there should be a feeling not so pleasant. She talks a good deal of the attention that some of the papers have given to her personality, and was deeply offended by a St. Louis paper which she saw that had one of its writers followed by a st. Inoffensive Character. (SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.)

WASHINGTON, March 20 .- On the sumption that the action of the Postoffice Department with reference to the postmaster of Pontiac, Ill., was to be considered a precedent, a large number of applications were made to-day by member of Congress for the removal of offensive partisans in other districts, with a variety of results. For example, Representative Wade, of Missouri, asked the removal of the postmaster at Kansas city for the reason that he has been an offensive partisan without extenuating cir-

It was shown that the Democratic Post-It was shown that the Democratic Post-master who had been in office dur-ing the most of the administra-tion of President Cleveland was removed last December at the instance of Senator Vest, and another Democrat was appointed, whose term will not expire until 1892. Mr. Wade appealed to the Postmaster General to remove him and appoint a Re-publican in his place.

The Postmaster General consented to do so, and said it would not be fair to the Reso, and said it would not be fair to the Republicans of that district to let him remain. Another Congressman who appealed to the Postmaster General to remove an offensive partisan came away disappointed.

When he cited the Pontiac case the Postmaster General told him that the cases were not parallel, that there could be no castiron rules in deciding such matters, and each case must stand on its own merits.

each case must stand on its own merits. Representative Thomas, of Wisconsin, asked for the removal of an offensive partisan in his district and the appointment of a Republican to his place. He was told that he must file written charges to secure the removal of the incumbent, and a petition from the patrons of the office to secure the appointment of

PUNISHMENT FOR DRUNKENNESS. it was Much More Severe in Olden Time

Than it is Now. From the Newcastle (England) Chronicie.] Drunkards, a metropolitan periodical has ust been pointing out, are more mercifully dealt with in the present than in past days. In classic Greece, such offenders were subjected to the severest penalties. In Athens Solon punished them with death; Lycurgus, in Sparta, destroyed the vineyards in his territory, and took every precaution to pre-vent the transmission of a habit of inebriety from father to child. In Locris wine was permitted only to invalids; and at Mitylene, Pittacus, doubled the punishment of any crime if it had been committed under the influence of wine. In Republican Rome the citizens, both men and women, were for-bidden to partake of wine before they had attained the age of 30. In medieval times the same severity obtained; and Francis I., though himself no model King, published in 1536 an edict to the effect that everyone found drunk should be imprisoned with bread and water diet for the first offense beaten with rods for the second, for the third publicly whipped, and, if he then proved incorrigible, punished by having an ear cut off, marked as infamous, and

It might be added that in much more recent times, topers had anything but pleas-ant treatment in our own district. About the middle of the seventeenth century, the common drunkard was led through the streets of this town as a spectacle of con-tempt, covered with a large barrel called the "Newcastle Cloak," one end of which being removed, served to envelop the body of the unlucky Bacchanal, while the other end, a circular aperture being formed, ad-mitted the head of the offender, by which means the vessel rested worn his shoulders means the vessel rested upon his shoulders. Much as the suppression of drunkenness is to be wished, recourse to the methods of the

IFROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT. 1 HARRISBURG, March 20 .- The County Commissioners bill for equalization of taxation ran the gauntlet of the stormy session of the House this afternoon, ably championed by Mr. Flickinger, of Erie, and Mr. Burdick, of McKean. The bill passed second reading, in spite of the persistent efforts of Captain Billingsley to have it postponed, and in spite of the assaults of Mr. Wherry and other able gentlemen. Mr. Stocking, of Washington, succeeded in having the bill amended to exempt from taxation cattle, sheep and swine under two vears old, and farmers and mechanics' tools of less value than $100. Other amendments were adopted, and many that were offered were voted down. Mr. Stocking pleaded for the exemption he secured on the ground that the agricultural interests are already overtaxed, and that real estate has greatly decreased in value. He opposed the bill, also, on the general principle that it is the settled policy of the State and nation to discriminate in taxation and not to tax everything as the bill proposes.

The friends of the measure defended it on the ground that to tax everything would en the burdens of the present subjects of taxation. This, they thought, should be good news to the farmers, inasmuch as the real estate of the Commonwealth now bears 94 per cent of the burden of local taxation. The bill on one test mustered 109 votes, six more than enough to pass it finally, it all who voted for it were sincere.

The Big New York Boas Makes a Short Stay at Washington. PECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. WASHINGTON, March 20 .- Mr. Thomas C. Platt and family arrived from the South this evening about 8 o'clock in their private car. They were obliged to await connection with the New York trains, leaving at 11:20 P.M., and Mr. Platt filled in the time by calling upon Vice President Morton and Senator Hiscock. The three gentlemen dined together and later had a long talk over the New York situation. Mr. Platt did not go to the White House, but made his views known to Senator Hiscock. Mr. Platt would say nothing in regard to his visit except that there was no significance in it.

He was simply in the city because couldn't get out before 11 o'clock, and his call upon Senator Hiscock and Mr. Morton was simply a social one. Senator Hiscock corroborated the statement that there was no significance to Mr. Platt's visit, and added that politics were not mentioned except in a year general way.
