TO HIS EVIL HIGHNESS

A Sharp Lenten Lecture by Rector Mackay, on a Lying Devil,

AND HIS PARADOXICAL POINTERS.

Always Telling the Truth, but Only Half of the Truth, Which Is a Lie.

THE HOOF-AND-HORNS FELLOW IS GONE

From what was entertainingly and impressively said by Rev. W. R. Mackay, in his Lenten lecture at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, last evening, there are evidently two or more kinds of Devils, with the big D, denoting personality. His topic was, "A Lying Devil," and the manner of his treatment thereof in the lecture is well told in the following synopsis:

"It is an old saying that even the devil is not so black as he is painted; and, though he has always been held up as a liar, from the days of the Garden of Eden until now, I have to begin to-night by saying that, from all I have ever known or read of him, he will always tell the truth. You can always depend on his word.

"The difficulty is that he is always so much better than his word—a generous, full-handed devil, who, in the excess of his generosity, always insists on giving something more. A contract, with a clause in invisible ink, comes out afterward, and when a man curses his folly, he is answered by the laughter of all the devils in hell. The devil tells the truth, but only half the truth, and that is 'ever the blackest of lies.'

THE ONLY MARVEL.

"The wonder is that men don't see that it's a lie; that, with examples all around them, they sign the contract for themselves and join the great army of dupes.

"The devil blinds a man—fills his eyes with the thing he wants most. You can see it in the famous picture of 'The Ride to Hell'—a man in full gallop to the devil! The Crown Prince of Austria, with all his bright hopes for a fair future, died a suicide at the age of 30 years! The devil had told him that he should have his pleasure; every desire of his heart was to be gratified; but he didn't tell him that at the end of it he would put a bullet through his brain, and trample his honor in the dust, and break the heart of his wife and leave a heritage of shame to his children. The devil never lets a man find that out till it's too late. It's like Merlin chained in the wood, and Vivian crying, 'Fool!' 'And the thicket closed behind her, and the forest echoed, Fool!' "

"He tells a man that it's a short road to wealth, and the man who takes it lays down his honor, his truth, his manliness, his conscience and his God. He pays a full price for it, and then the devil hasn't quite got through with him—he has a mortgage on that man's soul, and the man pays the interest on it every day he lives, and settles the final account in hell.

AN ADEPT IN SURPRISES.

"Even in this life the devil takes pleasure in surprises. He gets General Farag to sell Gordon at Khartoum for $10,000, pays him every dollar in hard gold and then there is the flash of a scimitar, and the head of the traitor is tossed over the walls of Khartoum. Pigott, the forger and suicide, furnishes another example. Haman, building the gallows for Mordecai, and surprised to find his own neck in the noose.

"Young men for the sake of pleasure (?) will fling away name and fame and honor and the love of all true men. It is like catching sharks with a white rag; the devil throws it into the stream of life, and when a young man casts an eye on it, he wiggles it, and wiggles it more, and then has his hook in the jaws, and lands him in ruin."

The three temptations of Christ in the wilderness were briefly dwelt on, and the triumph of manhood was contrasted with the devil's auction of a soul—"Going, going, gone—for a white rag!" "The ancient, roaring, hoof and horns devil is not common now, the modern devil is a sly and well-appearing devil; but he is the same old devil, and everywhere and always a liar."

STRUGGLING FOR A MILLION.

Fourteen Jersey Lawyers Are Striving to Break One Will.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 29.—To-day in the Orphans' Court of Middlesex county the contest against the will of the late millionaire rubber manufacturer, Christopher Meyer, came up. The contestants, who appeal from the decision of the Surrogate in admitting the will to probate, are Mrs. Effie Meyer, of New York, widow of the deceased; Mrs. Mollie Regensberger, of San Francisco, granddaughter of deceased by his son William, deceased, whose legitimacy is questioned, and the guardians of Howard Meyer, an insane son of the testator, residing in Newark.

These parties are making a joint effort to break the will and appeared in court to-day with a battery of 14 lawyers, with ex-Governor Leon Abbett, for the widow, at the head of the list. The will is defended by the executors and the struggle promises to be a bitter one.

MURDER WILL OUT.

But This Time It Was Discovered After the Murderer Died.

OTTAWA, Ill., March 29.—While excavating for the foundation of a new building on an unused lot in the central part of the city this morning, the skeletons of two men buried in one grave were unearthed by laborers. The skull of one had been crushed, apparently by some heavy instrument, and there was a large hole in the temple of the other, such as might have been made by a slungshot. Investigation developed that N. Brunk, a gunsmith, who kept a shop just below where the skeletons were found, and who died several years ago, confessed on his deathbed that he murdered a man or men, but would not say where they were buried. He bore a shadowed name as a firebug, having burned three buildings for insurance.

ANOTHER RAILROAD WRECK.

The Train Went Through a Bridge, Killing Two Men.

MOBERLY, Mo., March 29.—Two Moberly men were killed and two others injured in a wreck on the Ottumwa division of the Wabash and Western Railway last night. The killed are John Arthur, engineer, and Luther Chamberlin, fireman. Charles Hisle, mail agent, had his back injured, and W. L. Skinner, United States messenger, had a leg badly bruised. No passengers were hurt.

The wrecked train was No. 8, the St. Paul and St. Louis express, which went through a bridge near Queen City. The piling had been burned out during the night, and the engine and three coaches were piled up in the ditch, which was 8 feet deep and 30 feet wide.

Just for Saturday.

On Saturday we will sell men's $2 50 pants for $1 75 and $3 50 pants for $3; $22 spring overcoats for $18, and $8, $7, $8, $10 and $12 spring overcoats that can't be equaled by any house in the city. Special bargains in suits for man and boy at the Hub, and every boy gets a fine ball and bat. You find nothing but the best at the Hub. Clothing for men and boys at the Boston Clothing House, 439 Smithfield street.

B. & B.

Thursday, March 28.

We would like every lady of the two cities to see our latest importation of Paris Robes. We believe there is such a selection (several hundreds in number) that even the varied tastes purchasers may have will be satisfied. No one has yet gone away disappointed and we have sold thousands of these patterns.

We offer to-day an entirely new line of evening dress fabrics. Until you see them you will have but an incomplete idea of what beautiful things have come out. The first is the Cream Nuance Suiting, with the rich combination colored border. Some of the prettiest effects we have seen are shown in these deep borders, and they all harmonize in shade with the goods. The other new thing is the Cream Mouslin. Too much cannot be said in praise of these elegant new fabrics.

In connection with our thorough lines of Robes and Novelty Dress Patterns we have what everybody this season is demanding, Buttons and Buckles for Trimming, in appropriate shadings and designs. The directoire costumes are being trimmed in large buttons, and some of the most novel and handsome goods, in large and small designs, have come out to meet the new requirement. One is the Eiffel button, showing the great tower of the Paris Exposition, with a Yankee at the base looking up. There are others just as unique. All imported goods. Prices for the large buttons, 25c to $6 per dozen, and for the small, 25c to $1 75. The Buckles and Clasps, especially for Blouse Waists, come in oxidized silver, antique and other novel effects.

Speaking of buttons reminds us that this is the season for making up wash-goods dresses, and that we have an immense stock of pearl buttons. Among them, and perhaps the most popular, are the lines of self shank ball pearl 25c, 30c, 35c and 40c. Others, including the 22 line, come from 12½c up.

Some elegant offerings in the Black Goods Department that should have a brief mention.

24-inch Mexican Grenadine, 75c and $1.

24-inch Iron Frame Grenadine, 75c and $1.

24-inch Silk Grenadine, 85c to $1 25.

27-inch Crepe deChene, $1 25 and $1 50.

48-inch Crepe deChene, $3 75 and $4 75.
