

A MODEL GRAND JURY

In Only Five Weeks It Disposes of Just 542 Cases and Quits.

IRWIN'S DOUBLE MURDER TROUBLE

Major Slagle's Case Ignored and a Number of Other Notable Ones.

THAT WIDE OHIO CONNECTING BRIDGE

The grand jury adjourned yesterday, after having been in session five weeks. Five hundred and forty-two bills were disposed of, true bills having been returned in 334 cases. When the jurors made their presentation in court Judge Magee made a short speech complimenting them on their work, which, he said, had been very well done. Assistant District Attorney James Irwin also complimented the jurors, stating that this jury had disposed of more cases than any preceding grand jury for a long time.

The foreman, Graham Scott, was presented with a handsome gold-headed ebony cane, and the clerk, Charles Erb, with a gold pen and holder. The presentations were made by ex-Senator Lee, of Hamilton, a member of the jury.

Among the true bills returned yesterday was one against James Irwin for murder. Irwin was inspector of a gas line and ordered the gas turned on in the main at Harrison City, Conn., but no explosion followed, and two men who were at work in the ditch were killed. One of them, William Hogan, died in this city, and Irwin was held for his death. He is also charged with murdering a woman in Adams county, where the other man died.

A true bill was returned against John Sauer for arson. Sauer lives at Ross street, and on the day it is alleged, set his own house on fire. He afterward turned in and helped extinguish the fire. He had formerly been in Detroit, and his attorney, Mary Schmidt, will take steps to have him acquitted on the ground of insanity if recommended by a jury.

The other true bills were Duke Clara, John Sullivan, Edward Kilrain, Robert Richardson, Edgar Campbell, residing in building with a view to commit a felony; William Faust, Edward Campbell, Mary Edwards, James J. Edwards, Albert Frigo, George Joseph, Joseph Walsh, Joseph J. Lacey, and receiving stolen goods; Mary Edwards, James J. Edwards, assault and battery; James Fallon, A. Williams, Fiedler, James J. Lacey, assault and battery; and John S. Slagle, of Allegheny, for assault and battery on Elmer Irwin.

The bill against Mrs. Annie Simon for bigamy was also ignored. The DISPATCH ignored this indictive proceeding because the information grew out of the fact that Major Slagle, who is an officer in the army, had been discharged, compelled Bryan to stop distributing the information in connection with the case of Slagle. It is stated, having passed Bryan into the gutter. Bryan, who was fined $50 and costs for disorderly conduct in connection with the case, yesterday appealed to court from Major Slagle's conviction. The case is now before the court, and will be argued by W. D. Moore, Bryan's attorney, Judge Slagle fixed it at noon this morning for trial.

HOW MUCH OF A GOBBLE?

That is the Question of Law Argued Teaching the Width of a Bridge.

An argument was had before Judge Slagle yesterday afternoon on the question of the width of a bridge. The case is that of the McFadden against the Ohio Connecting Railway Company. The argument was on the right for a preliminary injunction to restrain the railway company from taking possession of a strip of more than 80 feet wide of the plaintiff's property on Brown's island. The railroad has built a bridge across the river, and the company took a right-of-way on the island 100 feet wide.

S. Erickson, Esq., appeared for the plaintiff and argued that the bridge was built on the right of way of the plaintiff, and that the company had no right of way on the island, unless extra ground was taken on either side. The case is now before the court, and will be argued by W. D. Moore, Bryan's attorney, Judge Slagle fixed it at noon this morning for trial.
