WEST INDIAN BELLES.

At first, to the inexperienced traveler, the tropical belle appears very attractive. When her plaster-of-paris complexion is too thick to be removed by the use of a transparent purifier of her olive skin to be seen, she is very certain of leaving a very pleasant impression on the mind of a susceptible male...

A THIRTIETH PEOPLE.

The most of the houses are built of stone, which is cooler than wood for the climate, and are arranged upon a plan as those of Havana and other tropical cities, surrounding a court yard or "patio," in which palms and other beautiful trees flourish...

REID OF A FEATHER.

I saw a curious business combination in Tacoma the other day on Pacific avenue. It was a drugstore next door to an undertaker's establishment.

BEST FOR THE WEARY.

That's just like you men! Well, let me tell you, Mr. H., that while I'm mistreat of this house things have got to be best for the weary. When I want them, even if I have all the work to do myself.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD.

The early worm struggles through the earth that he may reach the surface and find a crumb of comfort. The early bird swallows the worm and his leg to the limb of a neighboring tree, carrying forth glad recognition of the bounteous Providence which death all things well.

JUST AFTER THE HONEYMOON.

Is a very critical period in married life. A devoted wife cannot afford to wreck her future happiness by wearing herself out like a mule.

WOMAN'S METHODS.

We need not go to France, or to the pages of post or listless, to discover the truth underlying Houshany's glowing lines.

ONE DISCOVERY.

A sleepy little soul at bedtime found it hard work to keep awake. Half-way through, she stopped and sighed: "Well, I've got free the worst of it, mamma."

ON THE SWEET CHARITY'S SAKS.

On the floor, strolling from one box to another, flirting with the girls, and talking frequent glances at the images they cast in the mirrors with which the sides of the theater are lined, were a lot of swell young men.
