WINGED HERALDS OF A TEMPLE.

Which, Although it Cannot Be Built by Spirit Hands, May Go Up.

THE CLEVELAND IDEA TRAVELS FAST

The same influences which aided man in the construction of the pyramids of Egypt are, according to the words of a medium, soon to aid the more modern Spiritualists of this city in the erection of a temple in which they can worship according to the doctrines of their belief. From his statement it is evident that the spirits read THE DIS-PATCH, for on Sunday last it published such a spirit scheme from Cleveland.

When Mr. G. F. Keats, a medium, informed a reporter that when he was in this city a few days ago he had a communication from the inhabitants of the spirit world which informed him that the spirits would aid them in the erection of a temple and that it would soon come to pass that such a temple would be erected in this city. His wife also asked her friends in the spirit world if the temple would be erected, and they answered that it would.

The Spiritualists of this city now worship in a hall on Sixth street. It has but few accommodations, and as the size of the meetings are constantly increasing, a larger hall has become a necessity. The constant aim of the circle in this city is to secure sufficient earthly funds with which to build

NEITHER MANY NOR RICH. The circle in this city is not very large and not too rich so that the building is at present more a matter of faith than reality, but, nevertheless, the communications assured the believers that a temple would assured the believers that a temple would be a certainty.

The building is planned in the spirit world, although an earthly architect will, when the time comes, draw up the visible plans. He, however, according to the medium will, as all men are, be influenced by those in the other world. The temple is to be a plain structure, but still beautiful in its outlines, built of the most available material and to be handsomely decorated. Its interior will be furnished in such a style as will tend to elevate and ennoble the minds of those who attend the worship. A peculiar influence will be felt within its walls, although its interior may not differ in appearance from many other halls which are to be found in this city.

THE SPIRITS' WORD GOOD.

So much for the medium and his visions. A call was made upon a prominent Spiritualist yesterday, and Mr. Keats' communications were told to him, as the medium had informed the reporter. He said that he had heard of the communications, and be-lieved them. The society is now making every effort to build a temple in this city. A fund has been collected for that purpose, and they think they can soon go shead with their

At first he was disinclined to talk upon the subject, but when urged to either deny or affirm the allegation that he was the President of the league, admitted that he was a member of it. country from foreign invasion that we are anxious to colonize it."

"But it is said that you propose to annex the country and that you have 5,600 men ready to answer to the call of arms when the proper moment shall arrive."

"It is true that we should like to see the country annexed to the United States, but it is not our intention to bring it about by force.

"The league was organized in 1868 at the St. Nicholas Hotel, this city, the object heing to prevent the establishment of foreign colonies on any part of the American continent. "The only time," he said, "that we have ever advocated force to resist foreign invasion was in the case of the British in Venezuela. We are not filibusterers; we are not adventurers. Our league is a secret order, and we have branches in all the large citles throughout the Union. I never heard of Captain Charles Edmund Robinson, who is said to be behind this filibustering scheme. It is possible that he is a member of the California branch."

"Is there a syndicate representing $10,000,000 backing the league?" The Colonel smiled, but made no answer.

"Are the fiscal agents of the league a big banking firm in San Francisco?" "I cannot answer that question."

The Colonel admitted that he and the Confederate General N. B. Forrest, who was also a prominent member of the league, were interested in 1888 in an expedition which proposed wresting Cuba from Spanish thraldom.

Result of the Municipal Elections Held Throughout the State of Illinois.

CHICAGO, April 17 .- Municipal elections were held in a large number of towns and villages throughout the State yesterday. In nearly all of them the saloon question was a burning one, and all sorts of queer party divisions were the result. In several cases the Republicans and Democrats were united against the Prohibitionists, and in one case were defeated. In some of the towns women stood at the polls and worked for the Prohibition candidates.

A summary of the results reached shows that the Prohibitionists were successful in the choice of anti-license candidates in 18 towns and secured high libense in two; that the license element carried the day in 17 municipalities; that the straight Republican licket was victorious in six and the Demoticket was victorious in six and the Democrats in eight.

Chicago Convention that if he ever could be of service to me or any of my friends, it would afford him great pleasure to do anything in his power for me."

Accordingly Mr. Egan and Mr. Walsh called upon Senator Hiscock at the Arlington a day after. Well, they got a reception which it would be a mistake to describe as cold. According to Mr. Walsh's description, it was hot. Senator Hiscock, Mr. Walsh says, exclaimed to Mr. Egan: "Well, sir, what is your business with me?" or words to that effect. When Mr. Egan explained what he wanted the Senator got mad and used offensive language. I can't do it," said the Senator. "I won't do it, and I don't see what right you have to make any such request." Hospital, where he died in a few days. such request."

The Senator hinted very broadly that he gan, George Austin, John Jones and Tom regarded Mr. Egan's call as an intrusion, and his request a piece of confounded impertinence. Mr. Walsh, who is a big, warm-blooded fellow, got a little wild when he saw the treatment accorded to his friend, and it required all the diplomacy of Mr. Jones, drove from Mansfield to the picnic in a large two-horse wagon. They had with them three bottles of whisky and a keg of Egan to save the Senator from being thrashed on the spot. The managers of the picnic refused to allow them to have beer on the grounds, so bishop Ryan to His Diocese. PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—Archbishop Rvan issued a circular to all the priests of Shortly afterward a shot was fired, and Whalen came back to the wagon and said he had been shot. A man was seen going over the hill, and someone said: "There he goes!" and pursued him.

Several shots were fired at the man who was running on the hill, and these shots were returned. All this happened about 10:30 o'clock at night. this diocese, requesting them, in view of the fact that the President has expressed a desire that the centennial anniversary of the inauguration of President Washington shall be commemorated by the churches, to have religious services in their respective were returned. All this happened about 10:30 o'clock at night.

Dr. G. M. Waller, of Mansfield, testified that on Saturday night, June 24, 1888, Whalen was brought to his office by a number of men. Whalen was shot in the left side, the ball taking a downward course and lodging in the right side. Dr. Waller probed for the bullet, but the wound was so deep that he considered the man's condition critical, and had him removed to the West Penn Hospital.

religious services in their respective churches on April 30.

The Archbishop also directs the priests to close the religious services with a prayer—which he quotes—composed by the first Catholic Bishop of the United States, the friend and admirer of Washington.

The circular eulogizes Washington's civic virtues, and suggests that the priests improve the occasion to speak to their people.

All the persons who were on board escaped, but it is understood that some horses and trucks were burned. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

Out of respect for the memory of Hon John P. Usher, Secretary of the Interior from January 18, 1863, to May 15, 1863, who died on the 13th inst., Secretary Noble has issued an order directing that the Interior Department and all its bureaus be closed on Thurday, April 18, the day of the funeral at Lawrence, Kan., and that the Department building be draped in mourning.

—Later reports from the forest fires in Patrick county, Virginia, show that the first reports were slightly exaggerated as to the number of dwellings burned. Fifty odd farmers were burned out, and not 100, as reported. The destruction of cattle and hogs was very great, and not exaggerated in the first reports. Dr. Abe Robertson, a prominent citizen, while fighting the fire, was surrounded by smoke and fiames, and burned to death.

The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Emma L. Hartt, Robert W. Hartt, her 15-year-old son, and Alice Winslow, Mrs. Hartt's niece, victims of the railroad accident at Lorenzo, Ill.. were held on Tuesday at Brookline, Mass. Among those present were many prominently connected with the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe. as well as other friends, the assemblage being one of the largest that has ever gathered at a private residence in Boston to attend a funeral service. The services were of a simple character, and were conducted by the Rev. Charles F. Dole, pastor of the First Congregational Church, Jamaica Plain.

Congregational Church, Jamaica Plain.

George McCraven and John Harrison went to the little town of Kershaw. S. C., on Sunday morning and then proceeded to paint the town red after the traditional Western style. Drawing their pistois, they ran through the streets yelling like Indians, shooting holes through the windows of the closed stores and threatening to "clean out the whole town." Policeman Hilton determined to arrest them, but as he approached them they opened fire on him, one shot taking effect in his neck, producing a fatal wound. The policeman then returned the fire, killing McCraven at the first shot and breaking Harrison's right arm at the second and compelling him to drop his pistol. Policeman fillton died from the effect of his wound yesterday. Harrison is in jail.

NOTHING BUT LEAVES.

The Novel Enterprise of a Farmer Among Southside Saloons.

An enterprising countryman from up the Monongahela river made his appearance on the Southside yesterday. He was engaged among saloons and butcher shops, making contracts to furnish them every day during the summer with—"nothing but leaves."

The beer sellers and butchers all like to have plenty of fresh, green, leafy boughs on hand for hot days. The foliage gives a resort a cool, pleasant appearance, and may be used as fly brushes. It adds greatly to the neat, fresh look brushes. It adds greatly to the neat, fresh look about the interior of butchers' stores. The Monongahela farmer is making contracts to supply fresh-cut boughs, either maple, chestaut or oak, every two days. His success in such a novel field has teen marvelous.

Heretofore it has been rather difficult for these city merchants to procure leaves. They had to send to the city outskirts, and even then their messengers had hard work to escape a shotgun policy adopted to protect trees from mutiliation.
