

THE GOOD TEMPLARS

Now Gathered in Chicago From All Quarters of the Earth.

A POWERFUL TEMPERANCE ORDER

Aid to be Extended to Prohibition's Cause in Pennsylvania.

UNVEILING OF THE HAYMARKET STATUE

(CORRESPONDENCE OF THE DISPATCH.)

CHICAGO, June 1.—The Grand Lodge of the World of the Order of Good Templars, the largest temperance society in existence, is now convened in this city. They have, it is claimed, 830,000 members, of which over 200,000 are in this country. The map of the order is a round pin with outline map of the globe and the letters L. O. G. T.

It teaches, said one of their members, that "their field is the world." Since 1851, when the order was established, they have organized lodges in all parts of the world to which civilization has spread. There are delegates here who have come all the way from India and South Africa to attend this convention.

These delegates from distant lands, however, are not such a curiosity or drawing card for their meetings as might at first be imagined. They are mostly "carpet-baggers" of the Anglo-Saxon race, who have settled in those countries—not natives. It is said that the belief in one Supreme Ruler of the universe prevents the order from embracing many members outside of the Christian lands.

A COSMOPOLITAN ORGANIZATION. There are some colored members and one Indian, Oronhyateka, M. D., a physician, of London, Canada. He is a large, portly man of distinguished bearing, and his color at once proclaims his race, but probably attracts more attention than all the other delegates combined.

The lodge met Tuesday at the First M. E. Church, and the session will continue for about two weeks. One of the first actions taken was that of expressing their sympathy and wishing success to the Pennsylvania brethren in their conflict with the liquor traffic. The chief subject of their deliberations so far has been the establishment and regulation of "Juvenile Temples" for the children.

Besides the usual exercises incident to Memorial Day, it was celebrated in this city by the unveiling of the great bronze policeman who stands guard over the spot where so many of Chicago's police were killed by the Anarchist bomb May 4, 1888. The statue is about nine feet high and stands upon a pedestal 12 feet high, making the total height of the monument about 21 feet.

A COMMEMORATIVE STATUE. It was put in position on the 4th of the month just three years after the riot. As commemorating the triumph of order over anarchy, it has long been the object of the bitter hatred of the Anarchists, and from some obscure bludgeon they have succeeded in holding that doctrine in this city, it was feared by some that a dynamite bomb would demolish it before ever it was unveiled to the public. It was safely dedicated, however, and, despite the day being one of the worst of the year, cold with a rain drizzling down that every now and then turned to snow, a large crowd stood shivering under their umbrellas to watch the ceremony.

The inscription on the pedestal is doubtless intended as an admonition to Anarchists and others of that class: "In the name of the people of Illinois I command peace."

ordinary farmer. He traded improved Chicago property, worth $85,000, for a Texas ranch, "said to be worth $84,000," and when he went to see it found it a barren tract of land worth about $15,000, but covered and overlapped by a mortgage for $10,000.

As the trade was made absolutely, and not subject to approval, the victim in the transaction has taken the matter into his courts as the only way to recover his lost fortune.

Do You Know Old Brown Windsor Soap? The only imported one is J. & E. Atkinson's. Outlived them all. The oldest and best of soaps.

Henry Terheyden, the Jeweler, of 530 Smithfield Street. Has just received a fresh invoice of those beautiful onyx clocks. There are also a few of those diamonds advertised last week which remain over that he will close out at a positive bargain. Those who contemplate making purchases in the jewelry line would do well to call and see his large and varied stock of goods and extremely low prices.

What the Public Likes. Whitmyre & Co. are meeting with an amount of success that daily increases in their efforts to legitimately introduce and advertise the "Iron City Brand" of flour. The large amount now sold shows, beyond a doubt, that the best-selling brands carry their advertisement with their use. "Iron City Brand" has come to stay and the public takes kindly to that class of goods which shows for itself what it is made of and how a trial brings out its excellencies.

THE BEST DINNER GIVER.

For years George W. Childs has had the enviable reputation of giving the best dinners of any man in this country. He has begun with a magnificent dining room. His table is well kept, his service is perfect, and well might be, for Mr. Childs pays him $100 per year for his services. The servants are models. The table is always in spotless taste. The snowiest of linen covers the solid mahogany. The silver is the finest that can be purchased. The floral decorations are usually simple but effective. The china and old glassware are the best that money can purchase. The food is the best that the market affords. Every dish is served properly. The servants do not make a word from the time dinner is served until the guests depart. The butler keeps his hawk-like eyes on everything. One's place is not cluttered up with wine glasses, salt cellars, flowers, knives, forks and spoons. The rosiest and best of wine is served. Everything moves like clockwork. A dinner with George W. Childs is an event of a lifetime.

There are a score of families in New York and Newport that give large dinners. The Vanderbilts entertain on a princely scale. The Astors give numerous dinners during the season. Unlike the Vanderbilts, there is less display of silverware, but the Astor dinners are famous for elegance and good taste. One of the handsomest full dinner sets in this country is owned by the Astor family. It was purchased a good many years ago by John Jacob Astor. It is of French china and consists of 200 pieces. The decoration is simple but extremely handsome, consisting of a border of blue, edged with gold. The blue is a turquoise shade which is very difficult to produce, from its tendency to crack. The set cost $5,000, and would sell for five times that sum now. Mrs. Hicks Lord owns very valuable china and silverware. She has a tea set of solid gold. The famous and still beautiful window glass elaborate dinners, but she is more famous for her tea. She is worth several million dollars, and divides her time between this country and Europe.
