

THE SECRET IS SAFE.

There Will be No Investigation as to Chandler's Nomination.

PAYNE'S CASE IS A PRECEDENT.

Senator Sawyer Very Busy Looking After His Friends' Interest.

THE PUBLIC PRINTER'S PATRONAGE

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Whether or not William E. Chandler used money to secure his nomination for United States Senator in the caucus of the Republicans of the New Hampshire Legislature, it is very certain that any charges that may be made as to the action of the caucus will not be investigated by the Senate. The precedent has already been established, and there is no prospect that the Senate will override it until the completion of that body shall be radically changed. It will be remembered that Mr. Chandler was recently rejected by the Senate to which he had been nominated Minister to Germany, chiefly for the reason that he had criticized the methods by which a United States Senator was alleged to have been chosen by the Ohio Legislature.

It is remembered also that the reason assigned why the Senate did not investigate the charges of bribery in the election of Senator Payne, although strongly urged to do so by prominent Republicans, was that the allegations as made affected only the Democratic caucus held by the 80 members of that party in the Legislature prior to Payne's election on joint ballot. The theory of the Senate seems to have been that if the caucus was purchased the votes secured were in the caucus and not in the Legislature, and that the Senate has no power to go behind the returns to inquire about the action of a caucus.

CAUCUS BRIBERY ALL RIGHT. It was decided to be beyond the power, if it was not beneath the dignity, of the Senate to inquire into the proceedings of a caucus. This is not the principle upon which the Louisiana resolution, so called, or Mr. Chandler himself is based. The resolution assumes that the Senate has almost unrestricted right to inquire into the action of a caucus in connection with the election of Senators. The Senate, however, has established a very different theory as to the Senate's rights, and is likely to change it.

THE SUPPORTERS OF MR. GALLINGER were very confident that their favorite would be successful. One of the points upon which they seemed to rely was that Gallinger was the assumed favorite of the administration. He was an original Harrison man; was successful in holding his delegation to Harrison in the Chicago Convention; and was one of the few members of the Lower House who received a personal invitation to visit the President-elect at Indianapolis. His name was even mentioned as a possible member of Harrison's Cabinet.

AN ACTIVE SENATOR. Senator Sawyer's global presence has been seen in the departments almost daily of late. Old politicians from the Badger State, who have been kept busy by the fact that the man has got more places for Wisconsin men than all the other Senators and members of the State ever have secured. A story he told the other night in the Senate friends shows what he thinks of his occupation.

"When I was a boy 17 years old I bought my time. For $1000 my father let me off from working for him four years longer, and I set out for a place in York State where I knew I could get work. You may know there were no roads in that State, and I was glad to get a ride part of the way on a steamboat on Lake Champlain. One night I got into Ticonderoga and had to wait until 2 o'clock in the morning for the depot for White Hall. I decided to go to bed, and asked the landlady to call me for the boat. To call the boat he had to get up and dress and hang a lantern out on the pier, otherwise it would go on by without stopping.

"Wall, young man," he replied to my question, "I wouldn't get up and hustle on my clothes and go out on the pier at 2 o'clock in the night for $10."

"I began to quake in my boots, and think of walking 20 miles on my own account. WHAT HE WOULD DO. "No, sir," he went on, "I wouldn't do it for $50 for nobody, but I'll give you ten for a shilling, and I give 'em 'em to see."

"That is the way I feel about life in Congress. I would not do one-tenth part of what I go through for love or money. A big, round $100,000 a year would be no object at all for me at my age to go trudging around getting Tom, Dick and Harry their jobs, but after I get it for $5,000 a year, which a little more than pays my house rent."

Public Printer Palmer has 300 places at his disposal, but is making haste slowly in the matter of appointments. Few of the old hands have resigned, and no more than the average number have been discharged. There are 2000 vacancies from office every year by reason of death, voluntary resignations or discharges for cause. When Mr. Rounds, the last Republican incumbent, retired, he said in an official communication that he was carrying over 500 employees more than the actual force of the office demanded. Mr. Benedict reduced the total force from 2,220 to 1,700. This was done by refusing to appoint new men when vacancies occurred in the regular way by death or resignation.

Ex-Public Printer Benedict is enjoying a well-earned rest. He spent a pleasant residence on Capital Hill, close under the sunset shadow of the big dome, and he will return in Washington until hot weather comes. He told Mr. Benedict of his return to New York and engage in his old occupation of printing, this time, it is said, to put in operation several new and valuable inventions in rapid line presswork.

NEARING COMPLETION. The Marble Terrace of the Capitol Will Soon be in Shape. WASHINGTON, June 15.—The last touches are being put on the grand marble terrace along the west front of the Capitol. The keystone of the last arch was set this week, and the work of putting up the marble balustrades and walls is now going on. Ground was broken for the terrace in 1854, and when the Fifty-first Congress adjourns up to take its oath the work will be completed.

It affords standing-room for statues of American worthies in niches, and as many more on the various eaves of vantage. The view from the floor of the entrance is one that Humboldt declared was the finest in the world.

LEGITIMATE ALL RIGHT. At Least He Has Sent an Emphatic Message to That Effect. WASHINGTON, June 15.—The Haytian Legion here has received this noon the following cable from the Secretary of War at Port-au-Prince: PORT-AU-PRINCE, VIA MOBILE, ST. MICHAEL, June 14. Haytian Consul, New York. Situation good. Reports of Nordal (Hypocrite) success are false. Perfect tranquility reigns in West and South; all over lines efficiently guarded.

After the Missing Paymaster. WASHINGTON, June 15.—A naval court martial has been ordered to assemble at the New York Navy Yard Wednesday, June 19, to try Paymaster Henry R. Smith, late of the Essex, on the charge of absconding himself without leave on the return of his vessel from a long cruise.

ANTI-MAHONE MEN

Have Served a Warning Notice Upon the President in Regard to Patronage—They Are in a Very Bad Humor—A Little Inside History.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.)

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Every one is able to see the effects of President Harrison's patronage policy in the North, but few persons there have any idea of the feeling it is arousing among some of the Southern Republicans. Virginia is the State in which the discontent is most outspoken. Delegations from there have haunted the White House for weeks in a vain endeavor to induce the President to cut loose from Mahone. They represent the best element of the Republican party in the State and their declaration to everyone they have met here has been that the only thing which keeps them underneath the partisan tag is the fact that the political slave driver to whom they are tied.

The recent call of ex-Governor Cameron, Mr. Brady and their associates on the President has been the occasion of the invention of some very plain talk, in which the visitors served notice in so many words that they would not lift a hand to help the party out if the President should be re-elected. Mahone was recognized as its only legitimate dispenser of patronage. Relieved of that incubus they are willing to guarantee success at the polls. The intention of the President for Mahone is not understood by the people best acquainted with Virginia affairs, including even the leading Democrats.

THE ONLY way it can be accounted for, the wisest heads think, is that when Mr. Harrison was a party to the bargain whereby the readjusters in the Senate were bought over in 1861, he was respectively invited to attend. Relieved by its use.

Penicils.

R. F. Brown, Esq., the well-known pension attorney, of 96 Fourth avenue, this city, has recently returned from a visit to Washington City. As a result he advises all pensioners to take advantage of the present liberal administration of the pension laws by applying for increase and re-rating. It appears that high-rate pensioners, as well as those drawing low rates, should be alive to their own interests, and if not already properly rated take advantage of present liberal rulings, decisions, etc., favorably affecting so many Pensioners should at least post themselves as to their status by consulting him at once.
