TOO MUCH MONEY FOR THE SALARY.

Runaway Wedding Match With Colonel Kilgore's Daughter One of the Features.

Harry Flamm, bookkeeper at the Marine National Bank, was placed in jail last evening on a charge of embezzlement. It is claimed that he falsified the books and appropriated to his own use in two years $35,000. He is not yet of age, but had distinguished himself before by running away with Colonel Kilgore's daughter, and marrying her in New Jersey. Bail was fixed at $20,000, but he was unable to get it. What he has done with the money will yet make a good story.

Harry Flamm, bookkeeper of the Marine National Bank, was placed in jail last night on a charge of embezzlement of $35,000 of the funds of the bank. The information was made yesterday afternoon by W. W. O'Neill, one of the Directors of the bank, before Alderman McMasters, A. A. Heiner, of the Heiner Detective Agency, was given the warrant and found Mr. Flamm in the office of J. H. Porte, on Grant street.

Mr. Porte and Mr. J. Scott Ferguson were Mr. Flamm's attorneys, and insisted that he should not be arrested, saying that they could make an arrangement on Monday by which he could go free. Mr. O'Neill, however, was not inclined to look at it in that light. Colonel E. A. Montooth, the attorney for the bank, was also anxious that Flamm be either locked up or give the bail required, which was $20,000. Detective Heiner concluded, in view of the fact that Mr. Flamm could not get the bail, that the best thing to do was to place him in jail,

ONLY A BOY. Harry Flamm is a mere boy. As near as can be ascertained he is not over 19 years of age. Something over a year ago he helped to make a social sensation by running away with the 16-year-old daughter of Colonel Kilgore, ex-County and ex-City Treasurer, and marrying her in New Jersey. His father, who was well known in Pittsburg, but not a wealthy man, died seven years ago. Young Flamm was one of the persons who attracted confidence. He had a good ducation, and was especially quick at figures. On account of his orphanage and his perfonal bearing he was given a position in the Marine Bank, and was quickly advanced to the position of bookkeeper. Every onored and advanced. THE CAUSES OF SUSPICION. The directors of the bank had no reason uspect that anything was wrong with Mr. Flamm's accounts until they learned that he had bought a house in the East End for $6,500. As his salary was only $75 a month, they couldn't understand how he could make so much money in so short a time. They accordingly put detectives on his track, and found that Mr. Flamm was not so attentive to his home as he might be. They learned that he went around the city at nights with $200 to $300 in his pockets and made an exhibition of his wealth. It was learned that he had spent as much as $100 in one night, and more than two-thirds of that sum in one

RESULT OF A CHANGE. The removal of the Marine Bank to it present location gave opportunity for looking over the accounts. The tearing down of the old building at the corner of Third avenue and Smithfield street, cut off business in a large measure. The directors had more time to look into the books. They found that Mr. Flamm had been systematically falsifying accounts, making false records and forcing false balances. It was only yesterday afternoon that these facts were found CANTON, O., June 22 .- After persistently deelining to talk about the Governorship, Major McKinley, the tariff champion and the Sherman disciple whose refusal of support for President at Chicago hearly took away the breath of the Republican National Convention, to-night first allows himself to be quoted by your correspondent. Of course it is known here that for weeks he has been besieged by solicitations to come out a candidate and that he has declined, but as he would never consent to be talking about himself and the Governor's office, no one is ever thought to have received an atom of encouragement that he might become a can-

He talked to-night because of the story from Cadiz of the gathering of Eastern Ohio Republicans to urge his nomination against his declarations and claiming to know what they were about and that he would accept. This report stirred up the hopes of the local McKinley boomers and they wanted to know why Cadiz had the first knowledge on the subject, but McKinley gave them no hope and said to your corre spondent, who called on him:

NOT IN THE FIELD.

"I am not a candidate for Governor, nor will I permit the use of my name before the Columbus convention for that office. I mean this, and every word of it. There are many reasons to influence me to this conclusion which I need not name. Those I shall name are sufficient it there were no others.

"I have said to some of the candidates now in the field and to their friends that under no circumstances would I be a candidate, and could not accept the nomination. To what extent, if at all, this may have influenced the candidacy of others I do not know, but whether little or nothing, it is ample reason why I should not be a candi-date, and should demand that my friends myself to be placed, in even apparent opposition to him or the other honorable centle men contesting for the nomination. HE WILL KEEP FAITH. "But, Mr. McKinley, it is said that it is your duty to accept the nomination if ten-dered you, notwithstanding you are not a candidate; in fact that it is a call to duty which you must obey."

"Yes, but, my dear sir, don't you know there is no public duty which demands the sacrifice of good faith to party associates?" The Major would not risk opinion as to who the nominee would be. He said, however, that he expected to attend the Columbus convention.

A movement is now on foot among the citizens of Johnstown to sue the South Fork Fishing Club for damages caused by the late disaster. Horace Rose, attorney, recovers, we will take steps to bring a test suit for $150,000 damages against the South Fork Fishing Club," said W. R. Thomas, one of the firm of John Thomas & Sou, this afternoon. "We were doing a business of $200,000 before the disaster. We lost the profit of 21 tenants in the flood, and a fertilizing mill outside of our store stock, and altogether we place our loss at $150,000. Determined to Fight the Club. Not many days will elapse before som ting is done and the fishing club will find they have a big fight on their hands. Some of the people think the entire town will compromise for $20,000,000. It is difficult to estimate what the actual losses will be. They are placed anywhere between $40,000,- ceedings should be made.

Dr. Wakefield, who is doing such heroic work in Kernville, is very much interested in this subject. The doctor lost his home and library amounting to $6,000. In an interview he said: "The people have talked all along of bringing damage suits against the club, and if they can secure the slightest hold they will do so. The citizens are bewildered, and don't know whom to sue, and it is a question with some whether they can do anything with a limited corporation. The millionaires in the club ought to reimburse the losers to a certain extent, without any suits. If they would do the best they could I think the people will be satisfied."

A Verdict Anxiously Awnited. Everybody is waiting for the Coroner's decision. The people will keep Dr. Evans stirred up until the verdict is rendered. Those who know best claim the South Fork club exceeded its charter rights. This fact will be determined by the best lawyers, and if they have done so in the slightest degree, they will have to pay for it. Colonel John P. Linton, in all probability, will assist in the suit of John Thomas & Son. This firm has opened its store and resumed business. ### EXPERT TESTIMONY.

Report of a Committee of the American Engineering Society on the Breaking of the Dam-Further Surveys Necessary. ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. SEABRIGHT, N. J., June 22 .- This was the second day's session of the thirty-seventh annual meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers, which is being held at the Octagon House. The parlor of the hotel was crowded when Chairman Croes called the convention to order. George W. Rafler, of Rochester, read a paper on "The fresh water algae and their relation to the purity of pub-lic water supplies." Desmond Fitzgerald, of Brookline, Mass., read an essay upon "Some maximum rainfalls in Boston."

A. Fleley, the Chief Engineer of the Aqueduct Board of New York City, who was the Secretary of the Special Committee appointed by the society to investigate the cause of the Johnstown dam failure, made a verbal report. He said the engineering press had shown great enterprise in going to the spot and taking views. Their accounts could be taken as accurate. The committee had visited the dam, and had taken a survey of it and its surroundings, but it found that no final report could be prepared until they had made extensive surveys of the reservoir and its watershed. There was no question that the rainfall at the time of the disaster was very heavy. This is shown by the fact that on the Juniata river, on the main line of the Penusylvania Railroad, not less than 26 high iron bridges, which had stood for many years, had been washed away.

The question which remains to be investigated is whether the flow of the Conemangh river at the dam, although large, could have been foreseen or whether it was of unprecedented magnitude. This question was to be solved by the result of the surveys in which the committee was engaged, and its report would be given to the society as soon as the committee reached its conclusions.

Reubens represented that during Monteith's former term he had forfeited the respect and good will of the tribe by repeated cruelty, and on many occasions he had demonstrated the fact that he had no interest whatever in the welfare of the Indians. He said that he was a man totally unfitted by nature to occupy the position he held, as was demonstrated by the fact that during his former term he had

PARLIAMENT EXCITED

By a Proposal to Have Disputes Between Landlords and Tenants

TURNED OVER TO ARBITRATORS.

Thousands of Rifles Stored Away for Future Use by Boulangists. THE LAW NO RESPECTER OF PERSONS.

In the House of Commons a motion to settle disputes between landlords and tenants by arbitration greatly excited the members, and was of course voted down. Pretty Princess Stephanie is kept in Vienna, against her desire, by a peculiar law. The war rumors of a week ago have all died down into a peaceful quiet.

Inevitable Cost.

[BY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.] LONDON, June 22 .- The House of Commons came out of its usual languor last night and got much excited over the big debate on Ireland. James Ellis, just back from Ireland, where he had witnessed numbers of evictions, proposed that the House should make a law of his proposition to refer disputes between landlords and tenants to arbitrators. This suggestion, eminently fair to every right-minded person, was vigorously opposed, of course, by the Tories, and a big word fight was the result. The one thing missing was a speech from the Grand Old Man, but Sextou's eloquence almost atoned for Mr. Gladstone's silence. Arbitration, of course, would not suit

Balfour, who likes to play at being A RULER BY BLOOD AND IRON, fancying himself somewhat Bismarckian, and he opposed the arbitration proposal in true Balfourian style. The trouble was all due to the Irish agitators, said he, and to the natural stupidity of the Irish tenants, who did not know what was good for them. The Government, of course, obtained a majority on a vote, thanks to the Liberal Unionists, but the debate has produced a good effect, thanks to the facts brought out. That arbitration would, in nearly every case, prevent evictions is undeniable. It has already restored peace on more than one estate where it has been tried. The Ponsonby tenants have offered to pay £104,000, and the landlord's agent demands £110,000. The difference of £6,000 COULD BE EASILY ADJUSTED

if arbitration had been in fact agreed on both sides, when Smith Barry, the Tory

County Cork landlord, who, unable to obtain an election in his own country, sits for an English constituency, interfered, at Balfour's suggestion. Consequently evictions are being carried on with energy. Twenty families have been put out of their homes this week, and that number will be doubled next week. Detailed reports of evictions, even as toned down in the Tory papers, have so damaging an effect in the minds of Englishmen that the Government has adopted the plan of putting a ordon of soldiers around each cabin that is to be operated on by the evictors, and so

War Costs Far More Than Frequent Rumor of Approaching War. (BY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH. 1 LONDON, June 22.-The promising war scare which required writing up last week has gone the usual way of war scares. It's dead. The markets are strengthening. Russia, for the time being, has pulled in her claws and disclaims the acts of her paid agitators in the Eastern States. The war talk has calmed down in Berlin, and the in dustrious correspondents are pooh-poohing in chorus, the happenings which made then bysterical a week ago. The signs and pre dictions very apparently amount to nothing at present, and it is well to resign one's self to the fact that we shall not know when trouble is coming until it is actuall here. This wonderful calming down of th big scare is generally attributed to Bis marck's influence over the young Emperor. ## A PRETTY PRISONER

Allowed to Leave Vienna for Awhile-A Law That Prevents Her From Flying From a Place She Detests.

LONDON, June 22 .- The unfortunate Crown Princess Stephanie, whose husband, Rudelph, was such a bad lot during his life, which ended in a disgraceful murder or suicide, will soon be able to leave Vienna and the Austrian Court, which she detests. According to the law of the country, she is obliged to remain in the capital as long as there is the slightest possibility of a posthumous heir being born to Prince Rudolph, for this baby, if it should come along, would actually be the Emperor of Austria. The doctors have certified already that no heir is possible, but that is not sufficient, and the young woman must remain for ten months of her widowhood, to make sure. At the end of that time she will take up her residence on the little island of Lac-rima, and it is supposed that she will not live in Austria any more, but spend her time on the Riviera and in Switzerland, where a villa on Lake Lucerne is being built for her. This young woman, so unfortunately mar-ried and so tragically widowed, is only 25 years old and good looking, so that she may still make up for early hardships. In fact, Vienna gossips are already arranging the matter for her in advance and have discovered one or two successors to Prince Ru-dolph who would do admirably. The house in which the dissipated young

He told them this so that when he did no man need say it came upon him as a sur prise, and that no notice had been given. Curiously enough this announcement fol-lowed a facetious allusion to the discovery by the reverened gentleman in the collection box of two gold pieces, a thing which he said had happened only half a dozen times in 20 years. It is to be hoped that this lack of gold has had no influence in making Dr.
Parker look upon the City Temple as not

Promises-Foreign Ship Builders Said to be Preferred

NEW YORK, June 22.-The Internationa Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders was in session in Chicago He Has Pledged His Support in the Contest when the Republican National Convention nominated Benjamin Harrison President. The delegates from Cali-fornia asked the Republicans to insert a plank in their platform favoring the employment only of citizens of the United States upon Government work. They came loaded with facts and figures to show that the Union Iron Works, of San Francisco, which was building three steel cruisers for the Government, employed immigrants, while competent workmen, citizens of the United States, were idling about the streets unable to find employment. The desired plank was promptly put into the Republican platform.

At the convention of the brotherhood in this city to-day some of the speakers ac-cused the Republican party of bad faith, al-leging that immigrants had been hauled up by scores from Castle Garden and set to work at boiler making and iron shipbuild-ing in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, while citi-zens of the United States were willing and able to do all the work on the new cruiser Maine, in course of construc-tion there. Thomas J. Curran, Chairman of the convention, said that Acting Naval Constructor Hoover had reduced the pay of the workmen from $3 26 to $2 80 a day. No member of a boilermakers' union, he said. could afford to work for such wages. It was decided by the convention to ask Secretary Tracy to carry out the avowed policy of his party by employing boilermakers and iron shipbuilders who are citizens. The convention discussed the eight-hour question, and agreed to support whatever action the American Federation of Labor might take on the subject. The delegates attended a picnic of the local union in Lyon Park last night. Their labors here are practically over, but there will be a session to consider a proposed revision of the con-stitution of the brotherhood.

THE ENGLISH CONTENTION. An International Conference Proposed Decide the Behring Sen Dispute.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 OTTAWA, ONT., June 22.-Imperative orders have been received from England that no steps be taken for the present to protect Canadian vessels sealing in Behring Sea. The British Government suggested a joint commission of all the maritime powers of the world to decide on the validity of the claim of the United States to exclusive jurisdiction in these waters. It is pointed out that it is a question affecting or likely to affect the interests of every maritime nation, and that a joint conference or convention is the only practical way of de-ciding the question, to whom the claim for damages of the owners of the vessels already seized would also be referred.

There will, therefore, be no interference on the part of British or Dominion cruisers with the United States vessels carrying out on the part of British or Dominion cruisers with the United States vessels carrying out their instructions in excluding British sealers from Behriug Sea. Sued for Bigamy. CINCINNATI. June 22 .- On the 8th of last October Mrs. Alice E. Ladd, organist of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, this city, married Edward M. Reynolds. Mrs. Ladd knew little of Reynolds. She had met him in Chattanooga and he had led her to believe that he was rich. After the marriage Mrs. Reynolds gave her husband a check for $4,000, and taking this, he left her. After weeks of search the deserted wife found her husband in an inebriate asylum at San Francisco. She gave him more money, and in a few days learned that her husband had married again while in California. She at once had him arrested on a charge of bigamy, and she applied to the Probate Court here to-day, through Attorney William Tugman, for a certified copy of her marriage license.

IT HAS NOT BEEN WRECKED. Anchor Line Agents Believe That the Victoria is All Right. IMPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, June 22 .- The report of the inding off Nantucket, on Thursday, of wreckage, consisting principally of doors and door casings, old bills of lading, and a writing desk, apparently from the steamship Victoria, of the Anchor line, does not, in the opinion of the Anchor line agents here, necessarily signify that the Victoria has been wrecked. She sailed from this port on Wednesday last with a cargo of cattle for Avonmouth, England. Her agents think that the purser of the vessel probably threw the old desk and the worthless papers it contained overboard be cause they were in the way. If the Victo ria had been wrecked the agents say that some of the cattle probably would have come ashore with the other wreckage.
