GENERAL SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

There is some old adage to the effect that it is useless or cruel to flog a dead cow. Doubtless that old adage was a fireside maxim when the Indians were on our borders, and when for revenge some feather-capped piece of humanity would kick or chew a dead poodle just to satisfy himself that he was ruler for once. The ball game yesterday at Recreation Park was one that begets sympathy more than criticism. The glaring fact that Philadelphia ought to be better stands out very prominent. Philadelphia ought to be better, of course, everybody will say, but isn't it a streak that the Pittsburgs have won four straight from Philadelphia.

The fact is there were no more streaks about the Pittsburgs losing in the past than there is about the losing of the Phillies. Depend upon it that old man Harry Wright is

NOT OUT FOR ANY LARK.

He is out for what his nets can catch every hour and every day in the week. It may be true that the good old man whose hair has become gray in the business, has been sadly fooled in his first trip to Pittsburg this year. That is no fault of the citizens of this vicinity of law and order. We are always lying in wait to swallow up those whose mission is to make a mark of us. At best the Philadelphia ball club can only get one game out of five. If we cannot say a word or two about ourselves because of four straight with the Phillies victories don't amount to much.

However, the local team beat the visitors yesterday in a very easy manner. The strangers were shut out, and that certainly ought to take all interest out of the game. Yesterday's shut-out was the third since Friday. Think of that! The shut-out was not because the other people were not interested. They had Buffington in the box, and that broad-shouldered man, Clements, caught him. Be it said that Clements, amid his mistakes, was a very useful man.

HANLON'S GOOD START.

In the first inning Hanlon left all sympathy behind and banged out a double to left. The ball fell just where it was bothersome. Nobody seemed to know who was nearest to it, and Hanlon reached second base before the ball was returned. Sunday reached first on a fumble by the second baseman, but had Schriver gotten the ball perfectly Hanlon would still have scored; therefore Sunday was credited with a sacrifice hit. Carroll's fly to Thompson brought in Hanlon, and Dunlap's single brought in Sunday.

In the third, when Kuehne had made a hit, and had died at second on Smith's short grounder, Fields made a corking two-bagger to the left field, and that sent Smith to third. An error by Clements allowed the run to score. In the eighth inning things were ridiculous. Hanlon led off with a three-bagger, and alternately got home on a wild throw by Clements, Carrol's base on balls, a stolen base, a passed ball and a steal altogether netted three runs.

The visitors never looked like scoring. In the fourth inning they had a man on third, but they were tired out, and Galvin knew it. The life of the next man was short.

McQuaid's umpiring was tolerably fair. Following is the score:

ANSON OUTPLAYED.

The Bostons Get Down to Good Work and Win a Game.

CHICAGO, July 1.—Boston outplayed the White Stockings at every turn this afternoon, Clarkson pitching a steady and winning game, striking out nine of Chicago's hardest hitters. In the first inning two bases on balls by Tener, an error each by Ryan and Farrell and three hits by Boston, and the Bean Eaters had the game won. For Chicago, Tener was very unsteady, giving many bases on balls, and when he did get the ball over the plate it was generally a hit for the sluggers. As Tener went to bat in the second he was the recipient of a large floral ball from his admirers in Section A. He expressed his gratitude by a safe hit to left. Attendance 3,000. Score:

ASSOCIATION GAMES.

The Champions Get Another Good Thing From Louisville.

ST. LOUIS, July 1.—The Browns won their third successive game from Louisville to-day, Chamberlain pitching splendidly. Louisvilles could do but little with him, and they fell an easy victim to his superb work. Milligan backed him up finely. Ramsey pitched well, but was poorly supported. The game was not particularly interesting. The best features were Fuller's batting and Ramsey's pitching and fielding and the Browns' battery work. Score:

FROM M'KEESPORT.

What the Upriver People Say About the Scotts' Challenge.

To the Sporting Editor of The Dispatch:

In regard to the challenge issued by the Scotts to our club for three games on July 9, 10 and 11, we cannot accept, as they are surely aware that we have games for the 8th and 9th with the Brockery Citys, as has been published in all the daily papers.

I will state here that the McKeesport club does not play for money, but I will find a person who will take the bet offered by the Scotts, and will also make it as much larger as they like. The Scotts did not ask for two games on the 4th. They wrote and asked for July 4, A. M., and stated what they would come for, which terms were accepted and an answer sent at once, and 20,000 bills were printed for said game, which are now a loss to the club. The Misgoes, of Steubenville, O., will stay and play in this city on the 4th in place of the Scotts.

If the manager can suggest any other dates that we have two games on, we will be glad to make the games with them; or we will make it one game, if they wish.

Yours, respectfully,
FRANK W. TORREYSON,
Manager McKeesport Baseball Club.

The Real Sergeant Walsh.

Sergeant Walsh called at this office last evening and stated that he will meet Duncan Ross at Recreation Park on Thursday in the broadsword combat. The sergeant has an injured hand, but he says it will be all right when Thursday comes. Ross defeated him once, but he unhorsed Ross at Frisco. Walsh complains that no Grand Army man ever attempts to meet him or any of the alleged swordsmen. He thinks he can hold his own against any foreigner or native. He has a good horse here and so has Ross. The others are trying to get horses. They want hurdle jumpers.

CHICAGO RACES.

Some Hot Weather and Good Races on a Bad Track.

CHICAGO, July 1.—The races at Washington Park to-day were well attended, about 6,000 spectators being present. The weather was very hot, and the track deep with dust. A Great Yearling Sale.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The second great sale of yearlings, the property of Mr. J. B. Haggin, took place this afternoon at Hunter's Point, in West Chester county. The lot consisted of 100 colts and fillies. By all odds it was the greatest sale that has occurred in this vicinity. Some very fancy prices were realized.

Sporting Notes.

THE Crescents beat the West Lake team 20 to 8 yesterday.

JIMMY is all right. Two shut outs for Philadelphia. That's not bad.

YOUNGSTOWN—Mitchell did not knock Sullivan down in the fight you refer to.

THE batteries in to-day's game at Recreation Park will likely be Gleason and Clements, Staley and Miller.

Details of the Sullivan-Kilrain proposed battle will be found on the first page.

AMERICANS ABROAD.

The Delegates to the Sunday School Convention Arrive at Queenstown.

LONDON, July 1.—On reaching Queenstown, Rev. Mr. Ward, of Columbus, one of the American delegation to the World's Sunday School Convention, in this city, found a letter from Mr. Spurgeon expressing sympathy and the hope that the English teachers would learn much in the convention from their "Go-ahead American friends, who have outstripped us in this matter in many ways."

The delegates were entertained to-day in the Mansion House. The appearance of the Lord Mayor and his wife, accompanied by Lord Kinnaird, Count Bernadorff, and Rev. R. H. Dickson, of Baltimore, and others, was the signal for loud applause.

Five hundred delegates were present. The Lord Mayor, in his address of welcome, dwelt upon the progress of Sunday school work in America since the happy epoch of the Declaration of Independence. He pointed out the necessity for Sunday school teachers paying particular attention to religious education, now that secular teaching has been relegated to others.

CAMPING UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

Notwithstanding the Rain the College Boys are Enjoying Life.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

MT. GRETNA, July 1.—Last Friday evening Camp Trinity College opened in a deluge of rain, with an accompaniment of thunder and lightning, and every day since there has been more or less precipitation. Notwithstanding all this the college boys have been enjoying themselves. Between showers they play tennis, base ball, bathe in Conewago lake, and listen to the music of a band. This morning the Trinity Baseball Club went to Cornwall and defeated Robert H. Coleman's nine by a score that would not look well in print.

The nine from the University of Pennsylvania arrived about noon, and was prevented from playing with the Trinity boys this afternoon by the rain. They will cross bats to-morrow. There will also be boat and tub races on the lake to-morrow, an excursion to the Pennsylvania Steel Works and a band concert in the evening.

LEGITIME LAID OUT.

How a Valiant Yankee Captain Made Him Release the Ozama.

ARROGANCE OF THE HAYTIANS

When No Relief for the Captured Vessel Was in Sight.

A VERY SUDDEN CHANGE IN AFFAIRS.

One American Naval Officer Who Would Not Stand Any Foolishness.

Captain Rockwell, of the ship Ozama, has arrived at New York. He tells the story of the capture of his vessel and its subsequent release upon the arrival of Captain Kellogg. The latter was very brief and emphatic in his demands.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Captain Rockwell, the commander of the steamer Ozama, was interviewed this evening concerning the seizure of his ship by the Haytian authorities. His story is as follows:

The Ozama left this city on June 2, bound for Gonaives, Hayti. She carried a cargo of provisions, but no arms or ammunition of any kind. On the morning of June 9, when the Ozama was about 32 miles from Gonaives, three Haytian gun-boats were discovered rapidly approaching. Captain Rockwell, not wishing to be delayed by any of the whims to which the Haytian war vessels are constantly subjecting American vessels, piled on steam and forged ahead as fast as he could. The gun-boats he soon made out to be some of Legitime's ships. They were the Defense, the Marseilles and the Toussaint l'Onverture.

The Ozama had not gone far when suddenly from the long gun on the bow of the Defense came a flash, and a cannon ball whizzed across the bow of the Ozama. That settled matters, and Captain Rockwell hove to. The Defense was now alongside and a boat was lowered. It was pulled alongside of the Ozama and the first officer clambered up the side and said: "The Captain of the Defense wants you to come aboard his vessel."

ROCKWELL'S TART ANSWER.

"Tell you Captain," answered Captain Rockwell, "That if he wants to see me he can find me on board my ship." The officer saluted, returned to the Defense with Captain Rockwell's answer, and soon returned with an official known as the Secretary of the Defense. This individual asked to see the Ozama's papers. They were shown him.

"Gonaives is blockaded," he told Captain Rockwell, "and you cannot go there. You will have to go with us either to Port-au-Prince, Jacmel, Jeremie or Auxcayes. You can go nowhere else."

As rain Captain Rockwell protested against his being detained, but he finally had to give in and said he would go to Port-au-Prince. He knew he would be more likely to meet an American man-of-war there than anywhere else. Under the escort of three gunboats, the Ozama arrived in the outer harbor of Port-au-Prince at midnight that night.

Early next morning the Ozama was taken into the inner harbor and anchored under the guns of the fort. Captain Rockwell immediately went ashore and sought out Minister Thompson, who represents this country in Hayti. The American Minister asked the Haytian Government why the Ozama was detained, and demanded her release. Not the slightest attention was paid to the letter, and no answer was received that day.

A CHANGE IN AFFAIRS.

Next morning the American man-of-war Ossipee steamed into the harbor with Captain Kellogg on board. As soon as she anchored Captain Rockwell pulled out to her and met Captain Kellogg coming in. Both gigs stopped and Captain Rockwell told how he had been captured, and that the Haytian Government would not let him go out. Captain Kellogg said he could take her out.

Both commanders then went ashore and proceeded to the American Minister's house. The entrance of the Ossipee into the harbor had evidently stirred up the Haytian dignitaries, for they were at the American Minister's house in full force. There were three or four officials, Captain Rockwell says, but he didn't remember who they were. After being introduced the Haytians were ready to argue the matter.

"We are very sorry that this happened," they said, all smiles and very polite, "but, of course, it couldn't be prevented. The ports of Gonaives is blockaded and the vessel cannot proceed in."

"There is no use of all this palavering," said the Captain of the United States man-of-war. "The ship has got to be released at once. You have no right to detain her, and I want you to distinctly understand that as long as I am here you cannot interfere with American
