f John Daly, aged 63 years, died at the Homeopathic Hospital yesterday morning just as he was about to undergo an operation by the hospital physicians.

Daly was injured in a fight with John McNally, who keeps a boarding house at 5633 Mignonette street, East End, on the night of May 11. The police report of the difficulty is that Daly went home drunk. and was met at the door by McNally, who threw bim off the sidewalk. In his fall Daly sustained a compound fracture of the right leg. He was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital, his drunkenness develop-

INTO DELIRIUM TREMENS. An amputation of the injured leg was necessary. Daly, notwithstanding his prostrated condition, stood the operation well, and his physical condition improved con-

The amputated leg did not heal, in spite of all the efforts of the hospital physicians, and a few days ago Dr. C. P. Seip, in whose charge the patient was, decided that another amputation would be necessary. Yesterday morning was the time set for the opera-

Dr. Seip went into the operating room, and shortly afterward Daly was carried in, under the influence of an anæsthetic. He was laid upon the table. Before the surgeon's knife was put to use, however,

DALY STOPPED BREATHING, and efforts were made to resuscitate him. These efforts were kept up for quite a while, but to no effect. About 1 o'clock in the afternoon he was pronounced dead.

The Coroner was notified, and after investigating the case ordered the arrest of John McNally on a charge of murder. This was done, and McNally was placed in the Nineteenth ward station house. Dr. Seip was seen at his office last night. He said that Daly's physical condition was such yesterday morning that he considered it perfectly safe to perform the operation. Daly had been taken to the ante-room before he was taken into the operating room, and an anasthetic, composed of alcohol, chloroform and ether, administered to him by Dr. Blair, resident physician at the hospital. Dr. Seip says Daly was given the usual amount of the anæsthetic for an operation of this kind. He died before anything was done to his leg.

HE HAD BUT ONE FRIEND. Nothing could be learned about Daly's history. He refused to tell the hospital physicians anything about himself further than that he was a laborer, single, lived in world except God Almighty."

Dr. Seip was asked if he thought that death was caused by the medicine administered to him. He said no one could tell that. Daly was in pretty good condition yesterday morning, and he was willing to risk having the amputation performed in order to get his leg to heal up. The doctor thought that death might possibly have resulted had no angesthetic been administered. However, the doctor said he had nothing to do with the administration of the medicine, as it had been given, as was done in all large hospitals, by the surgeon's as-

The body was turned over to the Coroner and taken to the morgue. A post mortem will be held on the remains this morning.

That Pottery Pool Very Undesirable to East

Liverpool, and Why. Mr. Harker, of the Harker Pottery Company, East Liverpool, O., was at the Monongahela House yesterday. In a chat about the pottery trust, he said the combine would not be made, and that the East Liverpool firms would not go into it as the arrangements are at present, and there is no other tangible one. The trouble is with the Trenton firms, many of whom are in debt and mortgaged, and their plants only valuable on account of sites. They wish to go in with stock accord-ing to their capital, while their output is small in comparison to other firms with a good deal less capital. To this the smaller, but more prosperous firms object. No trust could be formed without the Trenton firms or the East Liver pool firms, so it does not look much as though it will be possible to reach any tan-

A Poor Italian Fearfully Assaulted by a Big

Fellow, Without Reason. Yesterday afternoon an old Italian, who was selling fruit from a basket on Thirteenth street, was attacked by a large man, a mill hand, and severely beaten. The origin of the trouble is not known, but many who witnessed the affair said no provocation had been given for the assault. The Italian suffered greatly from the effects of the beating he had received, and it is said that he is internally injured. The name of neither party is known, but police investigation will likely clear the matter.

Plaintiffs had E. F. Euffy, Esq., to represent them. The testimony is, in part appended.

in part, appended:

Brune Brenzil broke the ice. He testified that he was hired by Sheriff McCandless as a deputy sheriff on the 12th inst., and the compensation agreed upon was 55 as day and rations. He worked three days and got nothing, and wanted $15.

J. L. Mercer testified that he had worked three days and had gotten $7 50 in money and a bloure and hat valued at $2 50, $10 in all, and he wanted $5 more. He said he accepted what he had received under protest.

Al. Henderson's claim was the same as Mercer's, and so were those of William Brown, H. J. Wylie, Samuel Dalzell, William Harris, G. T. Brady, Henry Behrers, J. S. Alexander and William Dierst.

James P. O'Neill claimed $14 50, stating that he was to get $5 a day and board, and at 50 cents a meal the latter amounted to $1 50 per day, and for three days' wages and board amounting to $19 50 he had received but $5, $250 in money and a blouse and hat valued at $2 50.

Alderman Nolan was disposed to withhold his decision, but Attorney Duffy, insisted that, as the Sheriff's chief clerk and other county officials were present, and had not offered a defense, judgment should be pronunced at once and the 'Squire yielded, giving it for plaintiffs.

B. F. Schwab, of Schwab & Co., of Lima, O., owners of the patent on the Doubleday automatic cigar machine, or the drop-anickel-in - the - slot - and - get - a - genuine Havana-eigar arrangement, called at THE Havana-cigar arrangement, called at THE DISPATCH office last night to make a statement in regard to the Sunday-beating machine. He states that J. C. Askins' Pittsburg machine is an infringement on his patents, and he came here to warn him against using it. If he persists, a suit for infringement will be entered. The infringement, he says, consists both in the traveler that carries the cigars back and forth in the machine and the wicket that raises the latch. The traveler is corrugated, and Mr. Schwab claims there is no difference between it and the one in his machine. his machine.

He claims that Mr. Askins is a former resident of Lims, and was the founder of the firm of Thomas R. Kerr & Co.; that Askins offered him $10,000 for an interest in his machine, or $50,000 for the sole right to make and sell it. Schwab says he has 20 patents on the machine, and will resist all those who infringe upon him.

JUDGE EWING TALKS,

And Criticises What He Calls Needles Delay in Flemon's Case. Judge Ewing's opinion on the probable action of Governor Beaver in connection with the Flemon extradition was the only matter of interest in the case yesterday. The Judge said: "I do not see how the Governor can refuse to deliver the prisoner to the South Carolina authorities. Certainly he cannot reverse his decision if he is an he cannot reverse his decision if he is an honorable man. There has been much un-necessary delay in the matter. The South Carolina people have evidently complied with all the requirements."

Sheriff McCandless has not received an order from the Governor to hold the pris-oner. If he does he will probably obey it.

John Antilio and Joe Viggiano claim they were not arrested for fighting, but for playing music in a private yard by request.

Wash Your Bedclothes. Wash Your Bedclothes.

To have this properly done has always been a source of anxiety to the busy housewife. It affords us great pleasure to be able to announce that Demmler Bros., 526 and 528 Smithfield st., have added to their immense variety of useful house-furnishing goods a wonderful little contrivance called the New Era Washer, which will not only wash bedclothes, but lace curtains and any article of wearing apparel in one-quarter of the time ordinarily required, and do it, too, without the least risk of wear and tear.

Don't fail to see it before next washday.

Many Superstitious People Stay Awa

Yesterday was celebrated at Braddock as "Merchants' Day." A boat excursion was taken to Shingiss Park, when the boat owners, it is claimed, tried to hold the crowd. They demanded that they be taken up the

There was not a large crowd present, owing to the fact that some persons had started the story that ill luck would befall the boat. Several women of the town claimed to have similar dreams about the excursion. In their dreams they saw the boat sink in the river, and only one person was rescued. This of course proved to be a man. The ladies told about their dreams and in less than a few hours every person around the borough heard them. As a result many people who were superstitious did not go along with the party.

ONE OF DARWIN'S MISSING LINKS.

The Pitcher Plant That Lives on the Insects it Captures.

THE SOCIETY'S LAUDABLE AMBITION

The regular meeting of the Botanical Sc ciety of Western Pennsylvania occurred last evening in the parlor of the Pitt Library. Many of the members, who are professors and teachers in the various schools, are away on their summer vacation; consequently the attendance was not as large as sual; but the absent ones are doing good work in collecting plants for the herbarium of the society, which, before spring, it is hoped, will contain a specimen of every spe-cies of plant growing in Western Pennsylvania, besides many from other localities.

A number of unusually interesting plants were exhibited. The greatest curiosity was a flower of cycas circinalis, sent by William Hamilton, of the Allegheny Parks. It is about 18 inches high and 6 in diameter, and somewhat resembles a gigantic pine cone. The leaves are about 12 feet long, disposed in a circle around the top of the stalk, in the center of which rises the flower. It is very rare to see this flower, and the society will take especial pains to preserve it as perfectly as possible for future observers. A number of beautiful orchids and other plants were shown by Mr. Hamilton.

Mr. Andrew Vance, of Shady lane, exhibited a beautiful collection of specimens—among others a pitcher plant, in flower.

This is, as is well known, one of the insectivorous plants, a class concerning which Mr. Darwin wrote one of his most nteresting books.
Dr. Fiegler and Dr. Koenig presented

Dr. Fiegler and Dr. Koenig presented specimens of plants of their own collecting this year, and Mr. John A. Shafer turned in over 100 specimens mounted, for the society's herbarium. An invitation was received from Mr. W. L. Darlington for the society to visit his conservatory at Guyasuta station, W. P. R. R., to see his splendid specimen of the century plant in bloom; which invitation was most cordially accented. dially accepted.
