77 and 79 Diamond Street.

Eastern Advertising Office, Room 46, Tribune Building, New York. Average net circulation of the dally edition of 29,492

Average net circulation of the Sunday edition of THE DISPATCH for three months ending June 20, Coples per Issue.

52,660

TERMS OF THE DISPATCH.

POSTAGE FREE IN THE UNITED STATES. WEEKLY DISPATCH, One Year ...... 125

beents per week, or including Sunday edition, at beents per week.

PITTSBURG, FRIDAY, JULY 26, 1888.

ENGLAND'S ROYAL REVENUES. The debate in the English House of Commons last night upon the report of the Royal Grants Commission is remarkable not so much for the opposition that Mr. Labouchere and his Radical allies offered to the enlargement of the royal revenues as for the tone of the Government leader, Mr. W. H. Smith, in asking for the grants. Since early in the seventies, if not from a remoter date, members of Parliament have been found with courage enough to speak plainly about the extravagant endowment of the royal family. No doubt Mr. Labouchere spoke more bitterly and with less regard for the royal feelings than his predecessors in the same cause. Mr. Smith, however, certainly marked a new departure on the part of a Cabinet Minister in pleading almost piteously for the House's approval of the new grants. It is very significant to find a stolid and religiously loyal Tory like Mr. Smith admitting that the provision for the royal grandchildren is open to discussion at all. He was not happy in comparing the English system of government with other systems. Mr. Labouchere promptly and aptly pointed out that while the English royal establishment cost the British nation $3,500,000 per annum, the United States pays its President $50,000. In short, Mr. Smith blundered in his accustomed style through a speech that showed in every line a deeper respect for democratic views and votes than a Tory Cabinet Minister has ever exhibited before. It will not be very long before Mr. Labouchere's suggestion to drop the useless Lord Chamberlain, Lord High Steward, Master of the Horse, Master of the Buckhounds, and all the other lords in waiting, from the royal pay roll will be accepted by royalty itself. For the present larger questions are in the way, and the conservative attitude of Mr. Gladstone may postpone the reduction of the royal revenues till after his death. But the day of reckoning will come in this century, and the English people will take back their own, peacefully and by parliamentary measures in all proba-

PATRIOTIC MR. SLADE.

It seems really sad that Mr. F. L. Slade should be wasting his fragrance on the office of Norfolk Va. He is a natriot from the boots up. The nation has need of uch a man in the highest place in its gift. lade would be at home on the roof, as it ernment of the United States should be run. He is no theorist. His methods are as practical as a starfish's in an oyster bed." A public office is to him a heeler's just reward. The postoffice and the naval vards and the Washington departments were created to provide soft berths for the "boys." George Washington and the revclutionary patriots founded the Republic to satisfy a craving for office that the politicians of that day properly designated patriotism. Now that Mr. Slade has pointed it out, we observe the accuracy of his view that it is the first duty of the patriot to carry his own ward; and how can he do this it the spoils are not to be distributed among the victors?

Mr. Slade at present is striving to make the President understand that this fashion of running the Norfolk Navy Yard in the interest of the navy is deleterious to the Republican party. Places for hustling heelers and hungry bosses, and not ironclads, are what Mr. Slade wants the yard to supply. Commodore Brown and Naval Constructor Bowles have somehow got it into their heads that they are doing their duty in employing men to build ships for the United States navy. Naturally Mr. Slade desires the decapitation of these officers, in order that patriots free from any suspicion of naval knowledge, but capable of carrying the primaries, may be housed in the navy yard. We hope that the President will attend to Mr. Slade. The postoffice at Norfolk is too small a place for him. Give him leave to exhibit his patriotic ideas at his own expense throughout the land, Mr. Wanamaker.

POPULAR MILITARY TRAINING.

A rather novel idea, in which there may be something worthy of consideration, is presented, in the memorial of a hundred military companies of Georgia, to the Legislature of that State, asking for the enactment of a law providing for one year's compulsory military service to all the male population of that State. The idea of compulsory military service is generally regarded as foreign to our institutions, although in the early days of the Republic the entire population were subject to the law requiring attendance at the training days of the militia. The same regulation was revived for a short time throughout all sections of the country during our civil war; but since then it has fallen into desuctude.

It is worth considering, not only for the purpose of national defense, but for the effect upon the population itself, whether a year's military training for the entire population would not be beneficial. To require this to be taken out of the period of life when the citizen has engaged in business of industrial vocations would be expensive and injurious; but if all able-bodied males. say between the ages of 18 and 22, were required to be in military service for a year, it would furnish a steady military force ready to repel all sudden dangers, and changed for British gold are concluded, large reserves composed of those who had Uncle Sam will be found to have the money gone through the year's training. Beyond and Johnny Bull the experience. the benefit of the discipline, both of mind and body, which would be furnished by in- like having to follow pleayune South telligent military training. With the whole | American Ambassadors in to dinner. But population imbued by military discipline Mr. Reid should not forget that he and trained to the use of weapons in the latest and most skillful manner, this country would be twice as dangerous to attack as it is at present, and would possibly make a decided gain in the personnel of its citizenship.

FINE WEATHER POLITICS.

With the sky bright blue and a breeze breathing coolness into the summer sunshine a man may be excused for being sanguine beyond measure. Hopes are born of such weather and misanthropy has not a chance these days. So the utterances of Mr. THE DISPATCH for six months ending June 30, 1889, Price, the well-known attorney and Prohibition leader, may be accepted as the honest opinions of a sanguine enthusiast inspired by the superb weather. We will admit that there is a chance that Mr. Price speaks by the card and has a clearness of vision and a grip upon the political wires that enable him to distinguish clearly the battlefield of the next election. But we suspect the weather is not innocent in Mr Price's case.

If we are to believe Mr. Price, who talks very entertainingly on the subject in another column, the cause of prohibition is not in jured by the gigantic defeat it received in this State six weeks ago. Mr. Price says that the last campaign and its ending particularly taught the Prohibitionists vain it is to make alliance with politicians, whose hearts are set on spoils rather tha moral principles. This lesson is certainly valuable, and this leader of Prohibitionis says that his party will show how well i has learned it by upsetting the ungodly politicians' plans this fall. It is doubtles true that the prohibition question in its moral aspects has never been so clearly presented as it is to-day, and Mr. Price's rea soning on this side of the question is powerful enough. Perhaps the perusal of Mr. Price's pro phetic remarks may not add to the comfort of those politicians to whom he pointedly alludes. Still the sun shines for everybody and the cool wind misses nobody's brow Let us all be happy while we may.

PROTECT OUR HEIRESSES. . Something in the shape of a tax is needed to curtail the exportation of American girls and their dowries, to Europe. The suggestion has been made that a prohibitive tax be put upon foreign noblemen and other glittering creatures who invade these shores bent upon wedding American heiresses But it is not clear how this tax could b collected. Indeed, the mischief would not be stopped even if the immigration of titled paupers were. American heiresses go abroad. Each year sees more of them lending sunshine and financial support to the European capitals. The foreign fortunehunter has not to seek his prey. The prey too often seeks him. Here is this case of Miss Caldwell and the Prince Murat. Not only a great beauty and a lovely woman are thus to be taken from America, but a fortune of more than a million dollars. Gallantry might induce us to pooh pooh the financial side of the ease if it were not for the fact that by hedging in the fortune very often the fair American might be saved to her native land. Our proposition is, therefore, that a heavy tax should be levied on the fortune of the American girl who insists on throwing herself away upon a foreign princeling. This would make the guardians of our heiresses more careful of their charges. It is too often the fault of the guardian that the heiress mates with a foreign bird of doubtful antecedents.

A PRIZE PRIG.

If we were asked to give a young man starting out to college the finest chunk of advice we have in our cabinet we would say to him: Don't be a prig!

Priggishness is a blight that falls upon some of the most promising young trees in our orchards of learning. It is a blight that kills, if measures to counteract its mortal effects are not taken in good season. Though you can recognize it at a glance or in the utterance of a dozen words, priggishness is not easy to define. It may show itself in an assumption of moral superiority, or mental exclusiveness, or in some simple social way. But everybody knows a prig when he sees one. Everybody keeps out of the prig's

In a college paper a very exemplary prig writes that he believes he cannot afford to read Roe, Haggard, etc., while Hawthorne and Eliot are unmastered. He adds that he cannot afford to read Swinburne, Harte. Morris and Rossetti, while Homer, Virgil, Dante, Goethe, Hugo, and Shakespeare are unmastered. He also proposes in philosophy to confine himself to Plato, Kant, Bacon and Spencer. This is prime priggishness. If he had said merely that he could not afford to wade through the diluted drivel of Roe or the African yarns of Haggard he might have passed for a young man of sense, though the declaration of his personal preferences would still have savored of bumptiousness. It is not necessary to say that Swinburne and Rossetti or Harte would contribute as beneficially to his mental equipment as Dante or Goethe, or indeed to seriously take him in hand at all. He will not read what he can afford to read; nor will he touch what he says truly enough he cannot afford to read. He is a prig. That's all. If he could afford or would afford to pay a man, a strong man, to kick him for a ew weeks, there might be some hope of his redemption. But the rule is, once a

THERE is a premium on twins in Omaha The Republican of that city offers to every child born between January 15, 1889, and April 15, 1890, whose parents subscribe to the Republican, one chance in a drawing for a building lot, worth now $1,500, and guaranteed to be worth $10,000 before the shild becomes of age. Twins, of course, get two chances, and unscrupulous parents will try to ring in triplets.

THE Signal Service bulletins are working splendidly just now. The weather this year ans been nothing if not contrary, and it eems that so long as the bureau continues to forecast rain we shall enjoy the beautiful weather we have had for the past week or so.

WE are glad to hear that Minneapolis is continuing to grow, although we cannot trothfully say that the announcement that its growth far exceeds that of St. Paul fills us full of delirious joy. Pittsburg, by the way, is setting a splendid example to all American cities in the line of healthy growth. Not growth by wholesale annexation, either. IT is highly probable that before all those gigantic transactions in which American mills, breweries and factories are being ex-

MINISTER WHITELAW REID doesn't

the superb privilege of leaving the table first if he pleases. He would, perhaps, best preserve his dignity and his digestion at the same time by doing so.

CONSUL JOHN JARRETT, of Birmingham, England, denies the sloppy sentiments ascribed to him in an interview which appeared in the Times of that city. English nterviewers seem to have powerful imaginations, too.

OUTSPOKEN Sam Jones, in a recent sermon, said that a man could not get lower down in the world than the druggist who hid himself behind half a dozen old patent medicine bottles to deal out whisky by the quart. It is a fact that Mr. Jones may have overlooked that the whisky is usually as bad as the druggist.

An educated rooster is to travel with Kate Claxton next season. It ought to make a good advance agent, but it will probably find that its education is against it.

A PHOTOGRAPHER named Bower seing sued for heavy damages by the widow of Frederick Fisher, for causing the latter's death. Bower is said to have claimed to be a physician and treated Fisher for lung disease when he had typhoid fever. Photographers generally stop at killing likenesses.

THE Pittsburg club won a game yester day. The fates were kindly, though a Cleveland product named Fastz tried to make himself a stumbling block.

STILL another echo from the crash of ruin in Johnstown. The failure of Lewis Bros. & Co., the great drygoods merchants of New York, is attributed in a measure, not a very great one probably, to the destruction of the Woodvale Woolen Mills in the Johnstown

PEOPLE OF PROMINENCE.

SECRETARY WINDOW and Secretary Tracy eturned to Washington yesterday from New THE will of the late Millionaire Blythe of San Francisco, which is being contested by his heirs, gives $110,000 to churches and aneficial

Louis S. Hartwan, a prominent Republican leader in Lancaster, Pa., bears a most remarkable resemblance to Colonel Robert G. SENATOR HISCOCK, of New York, fluct between Saratoga and the metropolis. His colleague, Senator Evarts, is at his summer ome in New York. AUGUST is going to be a red letter month in the birthday calendar. Tennyson celebrates his 80th birthday on the 6th and Dr. Folmes his 80th on the 29th.

Ms. Losing, the new American Minister to Portugal, yesterday proceeded to Cintra, where the King is sojourning, and presented his cre-dentials to His Majesty.

There are in the Treasury vanits at Wash-ington acceleration.

ington nearly a pint of diamonds and other psecious stones that were presented to various Presidents by admiring friends. WARNER MILLER is devoting this summer to miscellaneous reading. He was always fond of literary pursuits and recently said to a friend: "If I had devoted more time to letters and less to politics I would have been better off SENATOR HISCOCK, who is really a very handsome man, is not looking well this sum-mer. His face is pale, his cheeks are a trifle sunken, and beneath his gloomy eyes are tiark circles. There is nothing the matter with him, nowever, excepting lassitude caused by the

THE departure of Miss Bessie Hains of Lawrenceville, for her new home in Seattle. Washington, which occurs next week, will be the cause of genuine sorrow. Miss Hainsworth E. Sabbath school, and a prime favorite many different Western towns. In 1871 he located at Sloux Falls, where he is now a mer-chant and bank President, besides being identi-fied with many important business enterprises elsewhere. THE Rome correspondent of the Catholic News cables that Bishop Walsh, of London Ontario, has been elected Archbishop of Toronto. The new Archbishop was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Archbishop Lynch, which occurred on May 12 1888. Kingston, which was one of the suffragar sees of Toronto, has been made an arch-

The Need of the Hour. From the Detroit Journal.

"Now we've got a Sugar Trust," said Old "what we need most is a Beat

DEATHS OF A DAY. Charlemagne Tower.

Charlemagne Tower.

Philadriphia, July 25.—A private dispatch from Waterville, N. Y., announces the death at his summer residences there of Charlemagne Tower, of this city. Mr. Tower was in his eighty-first year, and his death was due to paralysis. He leaves four daughters and a son and an enormous fortune. Mr. Tower was norn in Oneida county, N. Y. He graduated from Harward University in 1820. He studied law in New York City, where he practiced his profession for some time. Some legal questions that arose in connection with his practice took him to Pennsylvania in 1826 for the examination of the title to large bodies of mineral land lying chiedly in the county of Schnylkill.

Mr. Tower was the leading counsel in the famous trials that arose out of questions relating to the Munson and Williams estate. In Schnylkill county, comprising a large body of coal lands, the litination in regard to which he carried along for more than 25 years. He mastered and perfected the title to these lands, which are now the property of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and from Company, and his footsteps may be traced through many other great legal battles in different counties of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and from Company, and his rootsteps may be traced through many other great legal battles in different counties of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and from Company, and his rootsteps may be traced in or Company, and his rootsteps may be traced in or Company, and his rootsteps may be traced in or Company, and his rootsteps may be traced in or Company, and his rootsteps may be traced in or Company, and his rootsteps may be traced in or Coal lands are greatly interested in the construction and management of the Morters Pacific Road, and a member of its Board of Directors for several years. The greatest and most successful undertaking, perhaps, of Mr. Tower's long business career, was his development of the iron resources of Minnesota, now well known to the world as the Vermillion range. It was about 15 years ago that Mr. To posed of his property was composed of Genera H. H. Porter, of the Pullman Palace Car Com-play; J. O. Morae, of the Union Steel Company, of Chicago; Marshall Field, of Chicago; D. O. Mills, of New York; J. D. Rockefeller, of, the Standard Oil Company, and a number of others. Mrs. Mary Luptou, of 507 Wylle avenue, for over 30 years a member of the M. E. Church, died at 13 o'clock last night, after a year's lliness. She leaves c family of six girls: Mrs. Joseph Phillips, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Hav. Mrs. L. B. Taylor, Cal-ifornis, Pa.; Mrs. W. A. Easton, Oakland; Mrs. C. B. Catlahan, Mrs. Thomas Griffishs and Miss Myrs Lupton, of Pittsburg, all of whom were at her bedstide when she died.

if the Dutum and 120,000 acres of land and re-ime deeds to some 20,000 acres of land and re-ceived in return certified checks on banks and financial institutions to the amount of over $5,000,000. The syndicate to which Mr. Tower dis-$5,000,000. The syndicate to which Mr. Tower dis-section of his property was composed of General

THE TOPICAL TALKER.

Palaces of England. Though Pittsburg contains a wonderful variety of men, you would hardly expect to find anyone possessing an intimate knowledge of the ways of English royalty. Strange as it may appear, however, I chanced to meet a man yesterday who was just check full of such peculiar information.

At the particular time, when the papers are

At this particular time, when the papers are full of the grand doings of Prince Russell Har-rison, as all good Democrats love to call him, rison, as an good Democrate tove to cair him, at Windsor and Sandringham, when the notite ness of Queen Victoria to the President's son and the well-aired condition of the beds at Windsor are a leading topic of conversation in this land of the free, it may not be amiss to repeat some of the points about palace life in England as they were given to me by a British

How the persons to be honored with an invitation to the royal presence are selected de-pends upon circumstances. It may be taken as a general rule that a suggestion is made to Queen Victoria by some Minister of hers or by one of the Princes of the royal family. The selected individual receives an intimation that the Queen is graciously pleased to invite him to dine, or scay, as the case may be. This "inti-mation" is almost equivalent to a command, and very few can afford to disregard it. A and very few can afford to disregard it. A story is told of an English peer, recently deceased, who one night while starting out to a jovial party with some boon companious, received a message from King George IV, requesting his presence at one of the stupid royal feasts, which in those days were little better than orgies. The daring peer, determined not to lose his night's amusement and knowing that an ordinary polite apology would only irritate the King, hit on a happy expedient. He scribbled on a piece of paper: "Lord &—, would feel happy to accept His Majesty's kind invitation, but he happens to be going to a much joilier place."

The very audacity of the message quite disarmed George's wrath; and the end of the matter was that the King gave up his own party and carried off his guests en masse to the "much joilier place" in question.

the "much jollier place" in question.
But, of course, no one would think of writing such a note to the prim puritanical Queen who now sways the scepter. All engagements must give way before the mandate of majesty. If the invitation be to Windsor, a carriage meets the visitor at the railway station, and he is whirled into the castle courtyard. If he be a visitor of great importance, he is immediately brought before the Queen; but with visitors of a lesser degree, the hour of arrival determines the time of introduction. Should he come in the morning he will meet the Queen before lunch-een; should his advent be in the afternoon, he must perforce put off that pleasure until 6 o'clock tea, or even until dinner hour.

In all cases, however, the tyro is first closete In all cases, however, the tyro is first closeted with the equerry in waiting—the indispensable Sir Henry Knollys, who gives him full and complete instructions regarding his behavior in the presence of "the little great lady," as the English Radicals call Her Majesty.

When the ordeal at last arrives he is letter perfect, and makes his bow and pretty speech quite as well as anyone could have expected.

perfect, and makes his bow and pretty speech quite as well as anyone could have expected. The Queen asks a few questions, and just as the newcomer fondly imagines he has begun to interest her with his replies, he finds himself interrupted and his place usurped by some other notability, who has also got to be intro-duced. Unless he be a very big man, indeed like the Shah, for instance—he will not sit near the Queen at dinner. When dinner is over the gentlemen do not remain over the wine, but all follow the Queen to the drawing rooms.

Dinner begins at 8:30 P. M., and the Queen has barely time for a short desultory conversa-ion with her guests in the drawing rooms afterward, before it is her time to retire, Everyone ostensibly follows her example; but Sir H. Knollys knows how to take care of the men, and very few of them get to bed early.

THERE is often a good deal of secret in triguing among the great folk to get placed on the Queen's right or left hand during dinner. Not many years since an Oriental Ambassador, in England for the first time, was placed during his first Windsor dinner on the Queen's left. Next day, however, M. Waddington, the French WILLIAM VAN EPS, the wealthiest citizen of South Dakota, was always a rolling stone. He learned the printer's trade when a boy, and ought to have his turn in the seat of honor. fused point blank to cede his place to anybody.

Questioned as to his reasons for such a rude course, he replied that when he entered the place he was given a place in accorda the rank of his sovereign master, and that yielding up of that place to any other ambassador would imply the superiority of the other ambassador's nation. The affair was settled through the civility of M. Waddington, who declared that the honor of his country

THE Queen very seldom appears at a Windsor breakfast; but in her Scottish home—Baldooral—she is always one of the first at the material meal. This is a nal meal. This is accounted for by the Highland air, and by the fact that an early necessary for those mountain excurhe loves so much. It is well known that ng, dreary drives, with Her Majesty as from B moral. Prince of Wales' houses no cere At th ed, beyond the ordinary rules of lociety. Sandringham Hall—the erfolk seat—is just like any other Prince's Nerfolk seat—as just like any other wealthy nobleman's residence. In the Irish Viceregal Hodge, or in Dublin Castle, very little of the sourt is kept up. The levees and drawing rooms, which are held in the castle, are about the last shreds of the old vice-royalty. Evm the ancient—and extremely enviable—pri lege formerly enjoyed by the Lord Lieutenant, of kissing every young lady presented to him, upon the right cheek, has been allowed to full into disuse within the last few years. It is only in the Queen's household that the old forms and regulations survive in all their polipous entirety.

No Came for Alurm. the rush of English capi Don't get scared a tal to this country of find investments here.

Money is a good bing, no matter where it comes from. All the capital in the United States is under the control of our own laws. It will be our fault if it burts us.

Not Their Way. A dispatch from London says that the police of that city have recovered their equanimity. We doubtit. The London police never recover anything after it is once thoroughly lost.

Burke's Counsel Tisiks To-Day. WINNIPEO, July 25.—The appeal case Martin Burke was adjourned, at the conclusi of Mr. Howell's argument until to-morrow

SOME SUMMER THOUGHTS.

ONCE in a while the weather THESE be the days when two gallons of jec cream knocks out a whole picnic. Fort Worth Or course the gay and festive mosquito whets is little whistle at mosquito bars. + Baltimore

THIS is the time of year when two dig enem ers are sold for I penny—and yet people live.— EXTREMES of heat or cold are equally fatal o mental activity, whether of writer or -Milwaukee Journal.

FLIES are so scarce at the Vineyard that the boarding house butter looks lone Murtha's Vineyard Herald. THE average girl is not afraid of dans the reports of exploding soda water fount and poisonous ice cream do not interrupe delightful placidity of her appetite.—Baltim

THE way to keep cool is to be temperate all things. To eat little or no meat or strostarchy foods and to drink as little ice water starchy foods and to drink as little ice water of iced drinks of any kind as possible. To fill the stomach with fluids far below the temporature of the body and then to correct results by swal lowing Jamaica ginger and alcoholic remedies cought to disqualify a man from making a will. But, then, there is no use in talking—people will read this, say it is all true, but do it all the same. **Kanear Chi. Journal.** THEY WANT THE PAIR.

How Visitors Are Entertained in the Royal New York Appoints Committees to See That Columbus' Discovery is Celebrated. New York, July 25.—At the meeting of business men in City Hall to-day Mayor Grant presided and said if New York expected to have the exposition to commemorate the discovery of the New World she would have to move fast.

as other cities were eager for the honor. Im-mediately, on motion of Roswell P. Flower, the Mayor was made Chairman and W.o. M. Spear Permanent Secretary of a committee to move in the matter. Then Edward Simmons, Presi-dent of the Board of Education, moved that a world's fair be held in New York in 1882, and dent of the Board of Education, moved that a world's fair be held in New York in 1892, and it was carried enthusiastically. President Charles S. Smith. of the Chamber of Commerce, offered as a substitute the appointment of four committees of 25 each—one of permanent organization, one on finance, one on legislation and another on site and buildings. The President of the committee and the Secretary were, on motion, made members ex-officio of the four committees, and the meeting was adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

The Chamber of Commerce this afternoon appointed a Committee of Sixty to co-operate with national, State and city authorities in promoting the project and making a success of the Exposition, Among the names on that committee are these: Grover Cleveland, Levi P. Morton, John Bigelow, Wm. M. Evarts, Carl Schurz, Chauncey M. Depew, Wm. Steinway, Hamilton Fish, J. Pierpont Morgan, John P. Agnew, Frederick P. Olcott, Henry B. Hyde, Samuel Sloan, Chas. B. Flint, Jesse Seligman, John D. Rockefeller, Alex E. Orr, John Claffin, J. Edward Simmons, Francis B. Thurber, Eugene Kelly, John F. Plummer, John D. Crimmona, John B. Insman, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Abram S. Hewitt, Francis Leggett, Brayton Ives, Vernon H. Brown, Erastus Wiman, Wm. P. Clyde, A. A. Low, Chas. L. Tiffany, A. D. Juilliard, Jackson S. Schultz, Isaac Ickelheims, Roswell P. Flower, Andrew Carnerie, Cyrus W. Field and Charles M. Fry.

WAR ON THE MOSOUITO.

New York Doctor Has a Plan for Exter

New York, July 25.—Dr. Robert H. Lan New York, July 25.—Dr. Robert H. Lamborn, of No. 32 Nassau street, has been much bothered by mosquitoes this summer. A low estimate of their robbery of him places his loss of blood at 97.136 milligrammes. These figures may seem large, but they are not exaggarated in the least and must be believed. It is not wonderful, then, to find the doctor a deadly enemy to the little vampire.

Recently the doctor sat himself down and uminated. "Mosquitoes and houseflies," be aid to himself, "are the most numerous, widely distributed and persistent of the creatures tha attack the health and comfort of human beings attack the health and comfort of human beings. Who knows whether or not the mosquito can be exterminated by breeding swarms of strong enemies to destroy him? Gadzooks! "Tis worth the effort. I have seen dragon flies gathering in scores around my camp in Minnesota to feed on mosquitoes. Why may not the active, voracious, harmless, 'mosquito hawk' pounce on, seize, carve, rend, demolish, destroy and forever exterminate the mosquito?"

Dr. Lamborn is a great man, but he is not an entomologist. To answer his simple problem was too great a task for him. Whereupon he wrote out a check for $200, sent it to President Morris K. Jesup, of the American Museum of Natural History in this town, and decreed that it should be divided and paid by him in three prizes of $150, $50 and $20 for the three best essays based on original observations and experiments or the destruction of mosquitoes and flies by other insects.

DROP A NICKEL FOR A DRINK.

Novel Scheme Worked by a Saloon Keepe in a Prohibition Town.

VAN WERT, O., July 25,-At Shane's Cross ing this county, the citizens recently passed a prohibitory ordinance, and as a result the saloons were all closed and the thirsty had to drink what they could get and where they could get it. Now it happens that Shane's Crossing is situated on the banks of the St. Crossing is situated on the banks of the St. Mary's river and that the bank nearest the village is the corporation line. A small island is located in the center of the stream underneath the wagon bridge, and on this island there is now a flourishing saioon called "Oklahoma," which is reached by a small footbridge, The ingenious proprietor has also arranged a "dummy" elevator from his saloon to the wagon bridge above, on which the farmers and other dusty mortals deposit their nickels and in return have their beer elevated to them, where they drink it in the wagon. It is not an unfrequent occurrence for the bridge to be completely blockaded by teams while their drivers are awaiting their turn to work the "dummy."

ANOTHER CELESPIAL WANDERER,

to-day from the European Union of Astronomers, announces the discovery of a bright comet in the southern heavens by Prof. Davidcomet in the southern heavens by Prof. Davidson, of Queensland, on July 2l. A position secured there the following night is as follows: July 22, 96l, Greenwich mean time, right ascension 12 hours, 16 minutes 9 seconds; declination south 32° 24°. It has a motion northward of nearly 8° a day. This cannot be the comet which was reported yesterday as being Barnard's comet, as seen from Sidney, N. S. W. The comet discovered by Prof. W. B. Brooks, of Geneva, N. Y., has been observed at Lick and at Cambridge. A rough orbit, computed by Prof. S. C. Chandler, indicates that it is probably a comet of short period, passing perinelion in August. It will not become at all bright.

THE AMERICAN NAVY.

Our Efforts Seem Insignificant Compare With Those of Engiand.

From the Lancaster New Era.] One would think from the fuss which is mad in the newspapers that this country was build-ing the most powerful navy in the world. We pelieve about half a dozen ships are either trials and their slow progress we have become wildly enthusiastic. These little efforts sink out of sight compared with what Great Britain is doing in the same direction at the present time. The keels of 52 war ships of all kinds have been laid during the present year and still more are to come. That makes our efforts look insignificant in comparison.

Fresh Facts From Mexico. CITY OF MEXICO, July 25.—The first train of the Monterey and Gulf Railroad reaches Montemorelos yesterday. Ex-Speaker Carlisle was given a reception the American Legation yesterday.

On Saturday President Diaz will give a banquet to the new American Minister and the new Minister of the Argentine Republic.

English capitalists are buying mines in the State of Hidalgo.

Rich coal discoveries have been made in the State of Guerrero.

$20 for a Wife. NEW YORK, July 25.—Commissioner Stephenson to-day got a letter from a German farmer of North Bradley, Mich., named August C. Gabist, asking him to get the latter a wife from the old country. He will give the Commissioner $20 if he can get one for him.

Not So Bad as it Might Be From the Troy Times. 1 Rheumatism of the lungs, it is said, has a taked the Prince of Baden. This, of course, is serious, but not so serious as the rheumatism of the pocketbook, which so often assail European princes. American Whisky Abroad. From the Chicago Heraid.

Her physicians have ordered the Queen to drink whisky instead of champague. The great American drink is rapidly extending its power and gaining in popularity. It may yet swell all the crowned heads of Europe, Chienge Grocers Fail.

CHICAGO, July 25.—The Q. W. Loverin Com-pany, wholesale grocers, doing business at 57 and 59 Wabash avenue, made an assignment this morning to John Roper. The liabilities are estimated at between $40,600 and $60,600, with assets about the same amount. Clawed by a Bengal Tiger. PORTSMOUTH, O., July 25.—Willie Wamser aged 8 years, while standing near the tiger cage of the John Robinson show, which exhibited here to-day, was frightfully clawed about the arm by the Bengal. Blood poissning is feared Striking the Lyre. From the Boston Herald.] Poet Laureate Tennyson, on the verge of 80 must find his lyre a little squeaky as be tuned it up for the wedding of the Queen's grand-child. However, what Tennyson says goes.

The Knights Have Gone. ICAGO, July 25.—The members of the K. of recutive Board have all left the city.

BITS OF GOTHAM GOSSIP.

Caused a Check in His Career.

NEW YORK BUREAU SPECIALS.: NEW YORK, July 25.—Last April Free William Stokes Palmer, an Englishman, intro-duced himself to Mark Jacobs, a Canal street merchant, as the agent of a London syndicate merchant, as the agent of a London syndicate of millionaires, who wished to buy up a lot of profitable enterprises in America. He showed Mr. Jacobs letters of introduction over the names of the Lord Mayor of London and other English big wigs. Pretty soon he succeeded in having the Canal street merchant cash his checks for $450. Before Mr. Jacobs presented these checks at the bank Mr. Palmer took them up by giving him a check for $700 on Kountz & Co. Mr. Jacobs gave him the $250 change in bank bills. The $700 check was dishonored. Palmer was arrested in his young wife's pres-Dank bills. The $700 check was dishonered. Palmer was arrested in his young wife's presence at the Astor House this morning. In court Palmer claimed that he had brought an action against the United States Commercial Company for $4,000 salary due him, and that Mr. Jacobs would be paid when he got the money. He could give no explanation about the bogus check. He was remanded.

Termination of a Curious Case. The decree of divorce granted to-day to Mrs. Herbert Nutt, of Brooklyn, terminates a curi-cus case. Herbert Nutt married Miss Carrie A. Bassett, a young woman of high social standing, four years ago. Before the honeystanding, four years ago. Before the honeymoon was over he began to remain away from home evenings. Oftener than not he was at his club after midnight. Young Mrs. Nutt remonstrated in vain. Then she began to entertain the friends of her girlhood days, notably young Edward Bushnell. The frequency of Mr. Bushnell's calls caused comment. At midnight last December 20, Mr. Nutt went home and started into his wife's room. Just what happened then has never been explained. Mr. happened then has never been explained. Mr. Nutt fell or was thrown down. He received dangerous injuries. For weeks he lay between life and death, at his father's house. When he recovered, he went West without a word to his wife. After he had been absent some time she sued for the divorce she has just obtained on the ground of infidelity. He did not oppose her petition.

Careless Drivers in Jail. Last night Josephine Overhuly, 4 years old, was run over and killed by a Third avenue horse car. This afternoon Joseph Israel, 4 years old, was run over and hilled by a wagon.

Prefers Something Easy, Near Home. Brigadier General Emmons Clark, late com-mander of the Seventh Regiment, has declined the Havre consulship. His principal reason was that learning French and being Consul at was that learning French and being Consul at the same time would have been too hard work for him. He also thinks he would be lonely and homesick so far away. As Secretary of the Board of Health General Clark does not have to bother his head about foreign lan-guages, or, indeed, much of anything.

Canabt a Half-Wild Man. A crary and half-wild vagabond, barefooted, olad in rags and with matted hair and beard a ciad in rags and with matter hair and beard a foot long, was captured after a desperate struggle in the mountains near Plainfield this morning. He had assaulted a man and a woman in a farm house. His pockets were loaded with stones. Four men overpowered him and carried him to the North Plainfield lockup in a wagon. He talks only in a strange

A New Archbishop for Toronto. The Rome correspondent of the Catholic News cables that Bishop Walsh, of London, Ontario, was to-day elected Archbishop of Toronto. The new Archbishop was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Archbishop Lynch, which occurred on May 12, 1858. Kingston, which was one of the suffragan sees of Toronto, has been made an arch-diocesse.

Killed an Old Woman With a Cat. Mrs. Eidel Beck, 70 years old, scolded Jesse Abraham, 13 years old, for tormenting a cat in the corridor before her door last Saturday. Young Abraham, it is said, exught up the cat Young Abraham, it is said, caught up the cat by the tail swung her around his head, and struck Mrs. Beck full on the side of the head with it. The woman fell to the floor and the boy ran away. Saturday evening Mrs. Beck fell ill of inflammation of the brain. Two doctors were called, but they gould not help her. Last night her case became hopeless. The Coroner was summoned this afternoon to take her antewas summoned this afternoon to take her antewastatament.

Filled Out the Bill Minutely The Hon. Frank Duffy wants a job. The other day he went up to the Civil Service Commission and filed his application. This is a copy of the filled out blank:

opp of the filled out blank:

Q. What was your business or avocation? A. Machinist, volunteer fireman, grocery clerk, letter carrier, policeman, messenger in the Mayor's office, newspaper carrier, soda water and root beer peddier, shouter for Tammany Hall, candidate for the Assembly and Alderman, Special Deputy Sherift, bouncer in theater, chair warmer, hanger-on, and utility man generally.

Q. What place do you seek? A. Messenger, or some other soft, easy tob.

ome other soft, easy job.

Q. Were you ever before in the public service:

Q. Cause of your dismissal? A. Republican job Dery.

Q. Were you ever arrested? Yes; because I returned a watch which I stole, and because I talked loudly on the streets, and because I shot a man who told lies about me to everyone. Q. Do you drink? If so, how much? A. Moder-stely; as often as I am invited. Q. Are you healthy? A. I am, thanks to God;

Q. How old are you? A. Only 56. Duffy says that Richard Croker, Mayor Grant, Sheriff Flack and Commissioner Gilroy know him well.

Gossips Getting in Their Work. A writer in a weekly paper to-day says:
"There is a most natural desire on the part of Mary Anderson's friends to disguise the senous nature of her mental trouble, and the contradictory reports that have been flying about for several months have only fomented the the dark as to the actual truth of the case I am, nevertheless, reliably informed that the handsome Kentucky girl is at this moment in a private mad house across the sea, and that there is little reason to hope that she will ever be seen again on the stage, her trouble being, after all, paresis of the most malignant type."

Preparations for a Quintuple Hanging. The fixing by the courts of the same day for the hanging of five murderers, Ferdinand Car-olin, Charles Giblin, John Lewis, James Nolan and Park Packenham, in the Tombs prison, is unprecedented. Under-Sheriff Sexton is alunprecedented. Under-Sheriff Sexton is al-ready making arrangements for the quintuple execution, and has decided to use the same gallows upon which three colored men explated their crime. In case the Governor does not interfere and change the date, the men will be hung on August 23, in two batches, three men in the first batch and two in the last. In such case the first three will probably be Lewis, Packenham and Nolan. Hangman Joe Atkinson will do the hanging. All five men were in a cheerful mood to-day. Lewis, the colored murderer, danced a plantation break-down on the atone corridor. Packenham, who looks like a harmless old fellow, says he is ready to Failed Betere it Began. London, July 25.—The project of forming a syndicate of paper manufacturers here has been abandoned.

THE SILENT DEAD. "Their candles are all out."-MACRETH.

What hap dismays the dead? Their couch is low, And over it the summer grasses creep, Or winter snows anshroud it, white and deep, Or long-prevailing winds of autumn blow.

They hear no rumor of our joy or woe— The ways we tread are perilous and steep; They climb no touger—free, at last, to steep Our weariful, waxt life no more to know. Do they forget their loves of long ago,
And the glad hopes that made their glad hearts leap?
Or the spent joys for which they used to weep,
When Love and Sorrow buffeted them so?

On us, by winds of Fate swept to and fro, Do they have pity, whom no rude winds swe How can I tell? Their mystery they keep.

And yet, I think, from that deep rest below.

They would be glad to rise, and love, and weepOnce more the thankless harvest field to reap
Of human loy and pain—Life' Whole to know.

Louise Chamder Moutton, in Youth's Comptin

A LAWRENCEVILLE WEDDING. The Home of E. W. Bates Tru an Arbor for His Sister. ome of Mr. E. W. Bates, on Fo fourth street, was transformed into a floral arbor last evening. The occasion was the mar-ringe of his sister, Miss Anna M. Bates, to Mr. James E. Adams, of Bolivar, Pa. Dr. Pearce, pastor of the Butler Street M. E. Church, united the happy couple, and Miss Mashenheim brilliantly executed Wagner's Bridal March brilliantly executed Wagner's Bridal March prior to the ceremony.

There were 39 guests present to witness the nuptials, including Mrs. L. D. Bates, mother of the bride, and Mrs. L. F. Matson, a sister, from Vermont, Mr.James Erskine, Mr.John Erskine, Mr. John Erskine, Mr. David Davies, Lowellville, O., Mr. and Miss Bole. Mr. and Miss Le France, Mr. Jesse Ferley, Miss Cora Tate and Miss Essic Fradenick, of Pittsburg. Mr. L. Erskine and Miss M. Pettigrew acted respectively groomsman and bridesmaid.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams received many presents. They left the city for their new home in Lowellville amid the congratulations of their friends. Hagan did the catering.

Shayle-Cutler. Mr. Charles Cutler was married last evening to Miss Magrie S. M. Shayle, daughter of Mr. J. B. Shayle, at her home, 80 Forty-fourth street. The Rev. M. D. Lichlighter, pastor of Liberty Street M. E. Church, officiated at the Liberty Street M. E. Church, officiated at the marriage. Numerous and costly presents were received by the bride. The guests included Mr. J. B. Shayle, Jr., and wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. O'Donnell, Mrs. Thomas, and Mr. Will Thomas. Miss Jordan acted as bridesmaid and J. T. O'Donnell groomsman. The bride and groom baye furnished an elegant house on Forty-fourth street and immediately go to housekeeping.

HALF HIS LIFE SPENT IN JAIL. Hoosier Convict Who is Serving His Ninth

Term in Prison. LAPORTE, IND., July 25.—Henry Brown has been received at the Michigan City Peniten-tiary from Fort Wayne to serve a term of three tiary from Fort Wayne to serve a term of three years. Brown is the banner Indiana convict, and is now serving his ninth term. He is about 40 years of age, and has been serving in the prison in Michigan City for the past 20 years. He has never received any long sentences, three years being the longest. From the time he was first sentenced he has not been outside at any one time for longer than two or three months. One thing strange in the career of the criminal is that he never committed a crime in any other than his own county. When he is released from prison he makes a bee line for Fort Wayne, his home, and, after renewing old acquaintances, commits some theft, and comes back for a year or two. He follows no occupation outside, and on the prison record, where the prisoners were registered, the word "thief" follows the name as his occupation.

BEGINNING TO GET HUNGEY. The Indiana Faster's Appetite Coming Back

After Porty-One Days.
INDIANAPOLIS, July 25.—Robert Marvel, the INDIANAPOLIS, July 25.—Robert Marvel, the octogenarian faster, finished the forty-first day of his abstention from food yesterday. He looked better than for some days. Sunday he partially broke his fast by eating two pieces of pie, which he seemed to relish, and which seemed in no way to disagree with him. Tuesday morning Mr. Marvel arose from his bed without any warning to the family and marched out on the porch, where he stood for a few seconda, apparently greatly enjoying the prospect. Then he returned to his bed. This performance was repeated without variation yesterday morning.

Although very weak and scarcely able to walk Mr. Marvei appeared to experience no evil effects from the exercise. Though still unable to converse the sufferer seems brighter and more cheerful than heretofore, and some hopes are entertained for his recovery. DIED OF NOSEBLEED.

An Accidental Blow From a Sleeping Boy Kills a Williamsport Man.
WILLIAMSPORT, July 25.—Warren Fausey, aged 24 years, living in Du Boistown, opposite Williamsport, died in the hospital here to-day, the result of bleeding at the nose, which began on Monday morning and continued ever since.

His little son, who was occupying the bed with him, accidentally threw his hand over in his sleep, striking the father on the nose and Fleetwood Park, took place to-day, Mayor Grant, Mr. Bonner and others whose confidential trainer of horses Mr. Murphy was, were present at the funeral, as were also a large number of the deceased's professional friends.

His Southe Cut His Thront ALLENTOWN, July 25.—Prof. E. S. Dieter, of Muhlenburg College, met with a severe acci-dent at his farm near Kresgeville, Carbon ounty. Mr. Dieter had been mowing, and, ecoming tired, hung the scythe on the limb of the scythe fell, the blade cutting a long and Habens Corpus for Henry Ives. NEW YORK, July 25 .- Judge O'Brien to-day ranted a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Henry S. Ives, now in Ludlow Street Jail, in the suit for the recovery of $2,553,328 brought against him and George H. Staynor for alleged misappropriation of the funds of the Cincin-nati, Hamilton and Dayton Hailroad Company.

Guaranteed Work for ThreeWears. NEW HAVEN, July 25.—Forty ex-employes of he Branford Lock Works, left here this morning for Florence, Ala., whither they have been induced to go by Charles Foster, agent of a manufacturing concern in Treaton, N. J. The men are guaranteed work for three years at wages ranging from $1.75 to $3 per day.

Restored to Their Places. WASHINGTON, July 25.-D. S. McIntyre, o. Illinois formerly a special examiner in the Pension Office, and George W. Carr, Jr., of Kanssa, formerly a principal examiner in the same office, have been reinstated under modified civil service rule 10.

Hay Sets a Barn on Fire WEST CHESTER, PA., July 25.—Spontaneo ombustion in hay started a fire this morni that totally destroyed the fine barn of Nathanlel Ring, at Chadd's Ford, with the crops of John Glates, a tenant, causing a loss of $10,000.

TRI-STATE TRIPLES.

A CITIZEN of New Brighton recently re-ceived from Gettysburg a bottle of applejack over 25 years old. It seems that while in that place during the war, he had a four-gallon keg of the beverage, and when the rebels got too close he was in such a hurry to get away that the didn't want to take it or give it up, so he dropped it in a posthole. It became covered up, and while excavating there a few days ago, it was dug up and his name discovered on the keg. A portion was taken out and sent to him the finder keeping the balance.

TAXIDERMIST W. W. STORY, of Harrisburg. is mounting a white egret, a bird seldom seen in this locality. It was shot in the vicinity of McCormick's Island. Though only a young specimen it is 34 inches in height. A fullgrown bird of this species attains a height of JORDAN BLAIR, of Montrose, Pa., is a col-ored man possessed of remarkable courage. He was afflicted with gangrene in his leg and foot, and the doctors said he would die if they performed amputation. Blair thereupon cut off his leg with a jackknife and is now lumping along the road to recovery on a crutch.

Miss Simpson, of Ayr township, Fulton county, Pa., placed eight eggs under a turkey hen that was setting in a field of grass on the farm, and a few days age she found mother turkey demurely sheltering eight plump young turkeys and two frisky young rabbits.

DR. A. C. MOYER, of Bethlehem, Pa., ha 100,000 heads of cabbage under cultivation, and among minor crops two acres of horse-radish. In Ohio county, W. Va., a man and his wife, both past 50 years of age, are sick of the

A CADIZ (O.) cat tried to kill a 3-foot black nake. She didn't succeed, but was choked to

An East Liverpool man who states that he has told an average of 500 lies per year for the last 20 years, announces that he will never speak anything but the truth hereafter.

CURIOUS CONDENSATIONS.

-David A. Thompson, of Columbus swallowed his false teeth, and it is feared h -A novelty at Narragansett Pier is a lady who teaches whist professionally, and advertises for pupils. -A Danbury (Conn.) photographer has a greenhouse the glass roof of which is composed of old negatives from his gallery. -The doll appears to have seen the plaything of prehistoric times. A large wooden of has just been uncarthed in a Roman sar —A San Francisco jeweler has just re-ceived $700 for diamonds which he sold 25 years ago. The purchaser was honest, but he had bad luck.

-An Elizabeth, N. J., man being pur sued by the police leaped from the third story of his home to the ground, and ran off. He wasn't injured in the slightest. -The most original swindler of the day is the one who has been telling the colored peo-ple of Georgia that the world will come to an end August 16, and has sold 150 pairs of "angel wings" at $10 a pair.

—The unusual sight of a rat up a tree and several birds after it was seen in an Xenia door yard recently. The birds chased the rat up a high limb, from where it sprang upon the roof of the house and was lost from the sight of those watching.

-Two former Vassar students are the editors and publishers of a weekly paper at Atlan-tic Highlands. They are said to be practical, enterprising girls who are running their jour-nal on strictly business-like principles, and are making it a success. -A cow belonging to Mr. Clinton Martz, near Boonsboro, Md., while on the mountain was bitten in the tongue by a snake. The tongue swelled so that for several days the cow was unable to eat. By applying proper reme-dies the swelling has been reduced, and the cow is hable to recover. -A plumbago mine has been discovered in Somerville, 12 miles west of Augusta, Me. Specimens have been analyzed and are pro-nounced almost pure black lead. The mine was discovered accidentally. The road ran over a portion of the deposit and the dirt would not remain in place,. Digging down the min-eral was found. A mile square of land has been leased, and the mine is to be opened at once. -A novel method of raising funds has been tried by a Sunday school in Burlington, N. J. Some time ago 250 new 5-cent pieces, called "talents," were distributed among scholars and teachers, with instructions to whatever in reason they could to increase sum. Last Thursday the talents were called, and, notwithstanding all the scholars not make returns, the sum received was $557 -During a heavy thunder storm the other night, Mrs. J. K. Biattenberger, of Liverpool, a town in Perry county, Pennsylvania, saw a flery ball drop from the clouds and land on the street in front of the Commercial Hotel. There it lay like a piece of red-hot metal or a live coal, but gradually its brightness died. At daylight she went to the place and found it to be a meteoric stone, or an aerolite, 9 inches in current presence.

-The largest number of wild beasts which have ever been shipped on board one vessel from Hamburg has recently left that port for the new zoological gardens at Buenos Ayres. The caravan consists of two male and two female lions, two tigers, eight panthers five bears, two Indian elephants and came is seven kangaroos and antelepes, a couple of ostriches and a large number of birds of prey. The value of this live stock is $27,500.

-Bar Harbor society women have made home run in fads, and the very latest and most home run in fads, and the very latest and most novel fad is to become a student of Christian science. Mrs. Cushman, wife of Charlotte Cushman's nephew, is the leader of the craze, and a Miss Barker, of Hoston, is closely identi-fied with it. The modest fee is $50 for 12 lessons, and the ability and willingness to pay that sum are all that is necessary to gain ad-mittance to the class, which is oddly mixed. -A Chinese gambler arrested in San Transics had a clever arrangement for cheating on his person. It consisted of a steel "clip," which was fastened inside of one sleeve. Two cords reached up the sleeve, across the breast and down the other sleeve to the hand, wherone was fastened to the thumb and the othe to one of the fingers. By a pull of one cord the clip reached out and took in a card, which was at once drawn up the sleeve. Pulling the other at once drawn up the sleeve. Pulling the other cord caused the card to be shot out into the hand of the player with lightning rapidity, and without exposing any part of the mechanism. -The will of Edward O'Connor has been admitted to probate at Lawrenceburg, Ind. The instrument attracts attention on account first in his will that his body shall be taken to the grave in a spring wagon, and that a Catholic prisebaccompany the remains; for so doing he to receive the sum of $5. After the funeral he desires that all who attend the interment shall stop at he late residence on their return from the gravelard and partake of a good dinner. He bequasths to his son Edward the old family Bible, but binds him to provide each one of his three sisters with a Bible. Edward is also to have his gold-headed come, and the three daughters are each to receive a quilt, the work of his first wife.

-Nature has enabled some animals to see objects behind them as well as in front with-out turning around. The hare has this power out turning around. The hare has this power in a marked degree. Its eyes are large, prominent and placed laterally. Its power of seeing things in the rear is very noticeable in grey-hound coursing, for though this dog is mute while rouning, the hare is able to judge to a nicety the exact moment at which it will be best for it to double. Horses are another instance. It is only necessary to watch a horse driven invariable without blinkers to notice this. Let the driver even attempt to take the whip in hand, and if the horse is used to the work he will at once increase his pace. The giraffe, which is a very timid snimal, is approached with the utmost difficulty, on account of its eyes being so placed that it can see as well behind as in front. When approached this same faculty enables it to direct with great precision the rapid storms of kicks with which it defends itself.

FUNNY MEN'S FANCIES. "Will you marry me, Bridget?" a widower of a year asked his cook. "How many afternoons a week out kin I have, sorr?" she asked in blind?

It Would Seem So .- Ted-Is love really

Ned-I suppose so. You know a fellow seldom goes to see his girl until it's dark.—New York Evening Sun. Ground for Doubt.—Prospective Tourist—Pm going West because I have reason to believe that it's a great place to settle in.
Returned Tourist—I'm not so sure of that. I lived there ten years myself, and never paid a bill while I was there.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Of Little Consequence.—I'll sue you for $20,000, you scoundrel! cried old Brown. "You've drawn the wrong tooth."
"Don't grow so excited about a little thing of that kind," returned the dentist, "it will cost you only $5 to have it put back,"—Judge. A Foolish Question.—Brown—It is a very strange thing about that suicide last night. No apparent motive can be found.

Mrs. Brown-Was the poor man married?

Brown-Didn't I just tell you there was no apparent motive. - New York Beening Sun. Not Like Other Girls .- Miss Gushinggirl Oh, dear, no. Mr. Curious, I never read any-thing. The fact is, I'm not a bit like other girls. Young Gushinggirl, across the hall-That's a fact, Mr. Curious. Other girls have a little comnon sense occasionally. - Philadelphia Inquirer, Mrs. Gilhooley-I understand that your aughter Kate said I am a gadabout and other uncomplimentary things.

Mrs. McGinnis—You should pay no attention to what the simple child says. She is always repeating everything the neighbors tell her.—Omaka Simpson—Well, my boy is through col-lege now, and I guess I will start him in one of the professions. Sampson—I think lie will make a good physician. Simpson—Why? Sampson—in the next two years that boy is going to have as fine a set of side whiskers as you eve Haute Express. Woman's Rites.-Mr. Newhusbande (of California).-Have you bought that pretty house you wanted so much? Mrs. Newhusbande.-No: I've got to wait till day after to-morrow, then I get the monthly alimony from my first three husbands, and it will

Mr. Plaintalk-Have you traveled much Miss Elderly?
Miss Elderly—Indeed, I have. Every summer since my 16th year dear pape, has taken me off for a trip abroad.

"Is that so? Well, I don't suppose there is any country that you have not visited."—Tend

He came with lace upon his cost, With fancy fee and banners; He said his purpose was to note Our customs and our manners.

The customs were not hard to find—
The tariff furnished many—
But as for manners, to his mind,
We simply hadn't any.
— Washington Post.