HIS OLD-TIME FORM.

The game opened poorly for Pittsburg. Kuchne could not hold Radford's grounder in the first, and then threw the ball over Beck-ley's head. On the misplay Radford took seeond, and a passed ball gave him third. Stricker sacrificed, but Radford was held to third by Rowe's close playing. McKean, however, sent out a base hit, and lucky Paul scored. McKean stole second, and went to third on a passed hall. While he was doing this Twitchell was given his base on balls. He was caught off t, but despite the efforts of Beckley, Dunlap and Rowe, reached second safely and allowed McKean to reach home. It was in the second that Pittsburg began business. Fields rapped a stiff grounder to center field, and he went to second and third on to outs of Hanlon and Sunday. Kuehne singled to center, and Fields ran in with Pittsburg's first run. Dunlap's base on balls advanced Koehne a base, and Galvin hit a double to right, scoring both men.

PORTLAND, ORE., August 21-The thrilling experience of three ladies who were lost on Mount Hood, and could neither reach the top nor the bottom, is reported by a party who have just returned from there. Mount Hood is quite a summer resort, and this year, more than ever before, tents dotted the various streams along the different trails up the mountain, and every house and settler's cabin along the route was filled to overflowing by mountain climbers and summer tourists.

Among the many families who went into the mountains to spend the heated term was that of Mr. C. W. Waberg, of Mt. Tabor, who had with him several friends. The past two weeks were spent in the shadow of Mt Hood, at Summit Prairie. Last Friday the younger members of the party started out to gain the summit. The party consisted of three men and six ladies. Crater Rock was reached by five of the party, the others suc-cumbing at different points along the mountain side

THREE WERE MISSING.

THREE WERE MISSING. The party reaching the summit of Crater Rock did not get back to the teams at the foot of the mountain until 7 o'clock at night, although the ascent was begun at 10 o'clock in the morning. When noses were counted on arrival at the bottom of the mountain three were missing-Miss Sallie Waberg. Mrs. George Bonan and Mrs. Frank Morgan, of East Portland. They were lost somewhere along the mountain. Without delay the remaining ones were driven back to the camp, leaving behind on the mountain two young men, Carey and Ketchum, to build bonfires and fire signal guns.

Ketchum, to build bonfires and fire signal guns. Volunteer help soon arrived from camps, and by 10 o'clock 20 men, with lanterns, dogs and guns and horses were scouring every nook and crevice of Mt. Hood for the three lost ones. Large signal fires were built at intervals of every quarter of a mile about the south, east and west hase of the mountain, and squads of searchers had already encompassed the vast lava fields above the timber line without response to either a halloo or gunshot. ng. LOST FOB A DAT. For 24 hours no trace of the lost ones ould be found. At midnight, Saturday, near White river canyon, the three lost wo-men were found, perched upon a large stone, huddled together, with one long pole with an iron pike at the end, which they used as an alpinestock and as a weapon of defense against the panthers and wolves that infest the side of the mountain. They wept with joy when they were found, and gladly recited their adventure of the night. They had taken the wrong ravine ridge heading from off the mountain, and had wandered off. At various times they heard the screams of the panther and wolf, but visely kept quiet. They were returned to camp by the searching party. They had been on the barren rock, 10,000 feet above blowing against them, until they were aimost frozen to death. PADUCAH, KY., August 21 .- Mrs. Susan Sabbath. Whether on account of striking a mud vein or for some other reason best known to himself, the drilling of the well on the farm of James Moore lately considered it advisable to push the drill on Sunday, a gentleman named Phillips couldn't see the necessity and had the driller taken before a local Solemon, who fined him $25 and costs. Loeb, a pretty milliner of this town, armed herself with a rawhide this afternoon and driving to the store of Abraham Levitch, one of the leading merchants, gave him a terrific thrashing. Levitch's cries attracted terrific thrashing. Levitch's cries attracted a big crowd and with every blow of the whip the little milliner, affame with indig-nation, cried, "You will tell lies about me, will you? I'll teach you to attend to your own business." Levitch finally escaped and the milliner drove off in triumph.
