Dame Fortune Frowns on the Home Delegation and

SMILES ON THE HOOSIERS.

Sunday Creates a Sensation by His Remarkable Catches.

IT WAS A FATAL FOURTH INNING.

New York and Boston Clubs Both Defeat Their Opponents.

GENBRAL SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

Dame Fortune was against the home club yesterday and the Hoosiers won. The game was a good one and Sunday made two extraordinary catches. There was a scene at the Boston-Philadelphia game, and Kelly was mobbed. Teemer signed articles to row Gaudaur. President Young, of the National League, makes an important statemert about umpires.

The reappearance of our conquering heroes at Recreation Park yesterday afternoon wasn't greeted with that amount of success that begets enthusiasm. After completely flooring the Giants here and slaughtering such baseball teams as add fame to Cleveland and Chicago, the local players returned yesterday to be once more done up by the Hoosiers. There are many interesting features in baseball and its uncertainty is one of the most prominent of these features. Probably no team contributes more to this feature of uncertainty than the club that has its home in Pittsburg. Few people who are influenced by records and who have noted the late work of the home team would think other yesterday than that the Hoosiers would fall before the than that the Hoosiers would fall before the triumphant Pittsburgers. All the recent victories of fame won by the home players assuredly inspired all of us with the thought that the Hoosiers were doomed in this city. However, the uncertainty of the game was again illustrated. What everybody thought would happen did not happen and the Hoosiers did what neither the New Yorks nor Clevelands could do lately in three tries each.

CANNOT WIN 'EM ALL. Of course we cannot expect to win all the games, but it would be interesting if we could have by supernatural means, explained to us the cause of all these uncertainties. It would seem beyond buman power to give a satisfactory explanation. However, the fact remains that the Hoesiers won yesterday's game and that the Hoosiers won yesterday's game and added force to the statement that they are the Jonahs of this city. It is safe to say that if Dame Fortune cares for them as well in future as she did yesterday, they, will be the Jonah of many teams. It is not unreasonable to say that that quality, or thing, which we call luck was with the visitors yesterday at every stage and angle of the game. Luck was out for a day with the Hoosiers and he freated them royally. The bonne players were banging the ball away almost every time, but it with a remarkable rogularity bounded right into an infielder's hands. If the ball did go out of the diamond it invariably dropped cunningly into an outfielder's hands. Glasscock and Bassett handled 22 of these balls that were knocked to the infield. With few exceptions the ball bounded bang into the fielder's hands.

DIDN'T LIKE THE HOME BOYS. The old lady was not at all lavish with smiles among the home players. The visitors knocked out some of the luckiest hits ever seen on the ball field and in one instance they banged out the ball in this way sufficiently to easily win

Both Boyle and Morris pitched well. The former displayed some of his old-time form. He was hit hard, however, now and again, but the hits were scattered so much that they were not effective. Morris had one fatal inning, and not effective. Morris had one fatal inning, and had he steered clear of that he would have won the game. He pitched his slow ball with great effect, except in the inning named, when it looked as it his measure had been completely taken. To Sunday, however, is the credit due of stepping more runs. He made two of the most extraordinary running catches ever seen on these grounds. The first was a high and long fly from Denny's bat in the second inning. It was right between center and right, and Sunday ran for it. It seemed absolutely beyond the reach of Sunday, and it seemed safe to bet $100 to a $cent piece that he would not get near it. He made a tremendous spuri, however, and seem place that he would not get near it. He maile a tremendous spurt, however, and grabbed the ball with his right hand just as it was passing over his head. His second catch was more remarkable still, because he had lurther to run and the ball was higher. He get hold of it with one hand, however, and it baunded from his hand into the air again. Similar manid deafening yells of delight, and still the team was beaten.

A QUIET APPAIR.

There were about 1,500 people to see the game and it was a very quiet affair. In the first inning hopes were high, as three singles were made, placing three men on bases. Not a run was made, however. In the second inning, after Dunlap and Sunday had been retired, Morris went to first on balls and got &o second in an amusing way. Carroll was at bat and Morris was playing well off the base. The ball was suddenly thrown to first to nab him, and he started for second. Hines got the ball and thought Morris was still behind him, and made a swing to touch Morris out. Edward was then at second base. Carroll banged a double right over Andrews' head and Morris scored. In the fifth inning, after Rowe was out. Beckley knocked a grounder to Denny. The latter fumbled it and flig Jake went to first. A passed ball sont him to second. Fleids made a single to center and Hanlon followed suit, sending Beckley bome.

The visitors made all their runs in the fourth inning after two men were out. Seery led off with a single, but was doubled up by Andrews' grounder to Dunlap. The latter displayed rare judgment in making the double play. Giassock then loomed up and commenced a cannonade. He made a single to left and Denny followed with a two-bagger in the same direction. Hines kept matters lively by thumping out a single to left, sending Glassock and Denny home and reaching second on the throw in. Buckley sent out a high fly to Fields. It was difficult to catch and Jocko failed to hold it. Hines scored on the error and Euckley got to second. The latter reached third on a mufied throw by Kuehne and scored on a single by McGeachy. CLEVELAND, August 28.—In the ninth inning, with two men out for Chicago, and the score standing 7 to 6 in favor of the home team, Tebeau stopped a hot grounder from Auson's bat and threw wildly to Zimmer, who was playing first. This let in the tieing run, and a wild throw by Zimmer to the plate permitted Duffy to score the winning run. Attendance, 1.500.

Two Games To-Day.

There will be two games on the local grounds this afternoon between the Indianapolis and home clubs. Getzein and Russie will probably be the two pitchers for the visitors, and Staley and Galvin will likely represent the home players. It is also probable that White and Miller will get into harness again to-day.

MOVING CAUSE OF THE DISTURBANCE.

Talk With President Young About the Salaries the League Umpires.

Michael Kelly was mobbed at Philadelphia yesterday for holding the ball to pregame. He was with difficulty rescued from the crowd. President Young gives his view as to the salaries of the League umpires.

SEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. PHILADELPHIA, August 26. - Dick Johnston, the clever center fielder of the Boston club, did not play pennant ball today, for he made an error in the twelfth inning which nearly cost his club the loss of the game, and incited an attempt at riot which was only prevented by a rush of the players to the exit under the pavilion, near which an excited mob was assisting Cap-tain Farrar and Delehanty in making an attempt to take a ball away from Captain

It was a disgraceful scene, but under the circumstances one which is liable to happen on any ground. Nobody but the mob is responsible, as they had no business on the field, and had the excited hoodlums re-mained in the stands the play which Captain Farrar was trying to make would have been perfected and probably allowed, but the mob surrounded the two captains, and made dire threats which the Boston captain defled, and was thus incited to make an attempt to secure the ball.

A BITTER CONTEST. The contest was a bitter one from the start,

The contest was a bitter one from the start, every inch of ground being fought by both sides as if the championship depended on the result. The crowd numbered 6,400 people, who applauded the good blays and cheered their favorites on in their magnificent work. At the close of the ninth inning the score stood 4 to 4, and remained so during the two next succeeding innings. Philadelphia was retired without a run in the twelfth, and with one man out Kelly reached second on his scratch hit and Hallman's wild throw.

Nash fouled out and Brouthers was sent to first on balls. With two men out and two men on the bases Johnson drove the ball into center. Fogarty rushed up to meet it, but fix truck a rut and bounded past to the fence. Kelly of course scored, and the spectators in the loft field seats, as is their usual custom, jumped the three-foot fence into the enclosure, not for the purpose of engaging in any ungentemanly conduct, but because it is the quickest way to get out of the grounds. But 200 or 200 got as far as the diamond when Captain Farrar yelled to Fogarty to throw the ball to him, as he wished to make a claim that Johnston had not run to first base on his hit, a claim that was just and should have been recognized by Umpire Curry, who was rendering base decisions.

At the time Fogarty did throw the ball in the base decisions.

At the time Fogarty did throw the ball in the diamond but Kelly picked it up and was making for the player's exit when both Farrar and Delehanty run up to Kelly and attempted to take the ball away from the latter for the purpose of making the play, but Kelly refused to release his grip on the ball and the crowd which was now thoroughly excited, but unaware of what the three men were doing, rushed to the assistance of the home players and then there was a scene of the wildest excitement,

AN EXCITING SCENE. Kelly attempted to grab a bat from the hands of Nash, the Boston third basemen, and as soon as the crowd saw this they closed in on the Boston men, and would have done consid-erable injury had not the Philadelphia players carriage and driven through the Broad street gate unknown to the people waiting for him at the Huntingdon street gate.

At the conclusion of the uproar, a reporter interviewed Kelly, Farrar and Manager Wright and umpires Curry and McQuaid. Manager Wright said he would protest the game and so notified the umpires. Captain Farrar said Johnston did not run as far as first base and that was the reason he wanted the hall, to which Kelly replied that he didn't know what Farrar wanted the ball for unless it was to give him an old one in place of the new, which was in play at the time the winning run was scored. He said had Farrar told him what he wanted to do with the ball he would have given it up.

Farrar did not admit that he did tell him this, but said that Kelly should have known what he wanted the ball for. Both umpires said they did not see the play, Curry claiming that he was watching Kelly, who is very fond of cutting third base when any advantage can be gained by the trick.

SALARIES OF UMPIRES.

President Young Makes a Plain Statement on the Matter-He Says They Are Well Paid and Praises His Stuff-An CENTER OF A FURIOUS RIOT. Interesting Comparison.

WASHINGTON, August 26.—"There is a disposition," remarked President Young of the League, this afternoon, "to cavil at the salaries paid our staff of umpires, and to impute miserly motives to those who are conducting the affairs of the National League. As a matter of fact I don't know any class of men who are paid more don't know any class of men who are paid more for the services than our umpires, and I have just finished making a calculation from which it just finished making a calculation from which it appears that each member of the quartet selected to decide points on the ball field receives a salary of $63 58 each week of the season. These figures do not include traveling expenses, the allowance for which is about $4 per diem, and the hotels throughout the country do not hesitate to give umpires the same rates that players receive. Some time ago I made as inquiry as to what was paid a certain sporting writer who was continually chiding the League for parsimony in the matter of umpires' salaries, and I discovered that the young gentleman who was foremest in advocating the cause of the down-trodden umpire received the munificent reward of $15 per week for services which required him to put in daily 14 hours out of each 24.

reward of $i5 per week for services which required him to put in daily 14 hours out of each 24.

"League umpires must be pretty well satisfied with their; lot for they do not appear to be in any great hurry to relinquish their positions which pay $i500 for the season of six months, and we are all well pleased with the composition of our present staff. It would be difficult to find four better men than McQuaid, Lynch, Curry and Powers, and the substitutes that we have chosen are not to be outdone for imparitality by any other men in the baseball world. Someone has started a story on the rounds that I am too partial to the New Yorks, and in fact it has been publicly stated that I am decidedly friendly to the Giants. This morning I wrote a letter to the management of the Boston club in which I alluded to the latter statement, and concerning it, said: 'My baseball family consists of eight members, and so far as friendship is concerned I take as much interest in one club as the other. My sole aim is to have these organizations creditable not only to themselves but to the association which they represent as well. Sometimes too much is expected of a home umpire by the crowds who are in the stand and on the bleaching boards. An illustration of which I can quote the case of Knight, the substitute umpire at Boston, he was frank enough to write to me on the subject stating that he did not think he could fulfil the duties of umpire satisfactorily to the people of the Hub and requested to be relieved from service in two of the games recently played in that city. It is very seldom that I receive complaints from those who are most interested in the game of baseball regarding the conduct of umpires and especially is this true of players. But the local papers take the matter in hand and work up matters to fever heat and then trouble begins to brew. I have shown how some of this stuff is written by underpaid scribblers who have little else to do and hereafter I shall not pay any attention to it."

A Man With Quick Consumption Steals Enough to Last Him for Life.

NEW YORK, August 26.-Albert Me-Millan, the trusted bookkeeper of the Cody & Nelson Company, tailors at 226 Fifth avenue, took all the cash he could lay his hands on last week and fled. He had previously raised two checks drawn to his order by the firm and pocketed over $1,200 of his employers' money. The total loss by his dishonesty is $2,200. A warrant has been issued for his arrest on a charge of forgery, but he cannot be found.

McMillan has only six months more live, and it is thought he took the money go to the South and die. His conduct been always good during the two years he has been in the firm's employ, and previous to that time he has had a good reputation. Competent physicians declared some time ago that he was the victim of a fatal disease —a quick consumption—which would end his life in six months.

"I have lived a straight and decent life. he said recently to a clerk in the store, "and is this my reward?" He always wanted to go to a warmer climate in hopes that he might successfully battle with the disease. He has a mother and four sisters living in a town in Pennsylvania. He is 34 years of

John W. McCoy's Money to Do Good Thousands of People.

PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH 1 BALTIMORE, August 26 .- The will of John W. McCoy, a business partner of William T. Waiters, was admitted to probate to-day. The amount is about $250,000. It is one of the most extensively divided estates ever left in this city. The Johns Hopkins University is the residuary legatee, and it will receive something like $100,000 from the bequests. There are 14 bequests to charitable institutions of $3,000 each. There are also a large number of personal bequests, including handsome remembrances to literary triends. Among these are $2,000 to Richard Malcolm Johnston, the writer of Southern stories: $2,000 each the writer of Southern stories; $2,000 each to Mrs. Watkins and Mr. Lee, a wellknown librarian of this city; $5,000 to Mr. Foard, wife of N. E. Foard, of the Balt Foard, wife of N. E. Foard, of the Balti-more Sun; annuities to the children of the late Edward Spencer, a well-known journal-ist, and of John R. Tate, the artist. Beside these, other friends are left hand-some sums. His magnificent collection of paintngs goes to the Peabody Institute, and his library to the Johns Hopkins University.

The Allegheny High School Committee save postponed the dedication of the new building until sometime later in the month, because it is not ready. The committee let a contract on railings to Kramer & Redman against General Alger, the position of Surgeon General and the selection of the place to hold the next encampment. ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. MILWAUKEE, August 26 .- Milwaukee has thrown her arms and heart wide open to the G. A. R. veterans. She bids them make themselves wholly and comfortably at home while they remain within her gates. She has on her prettiest and most winning ways. Always generous and cheerful, she is now in an especially amiable mood. Through the generosity of one of her leading citizens, visitors can view the naval in a lifetime without money and without price. One can revel in the sunlight of her smile at Juneau Park, or sip her amber

From early morning the inspiring sound of the fife and drum could be heard on the streets leading from the railway stations and steamboat docks. No large installments arrived until after 9 o'clock, but SOUADS OF VETERANS. with their wives and children, could be seen as early as 6 o'clock, enjoying the sights. Some were grimy and travel-stained, but all looked expectant and happy. Occasionally a large delegation, headed by a band or drum corps, would pass, waking late sleepers and filling the air with music, on the way to camp. Rapidly the crowds increased in size, and by 8 o'clock marching companies, baggage wagons and omnibuses were making the street crossings dangerous to foot passengers. By 9 o'clock the rush of the day was on and the special trains began to arrive at the stations, emptying their loads to swell the great currents pouring through the central streets. To-night the best authorities say, there are over 50,000 strangers in the city. As many more will arrive authorities say there are over 50,000 strangers in the city. As many more will arrive to-night and to-morrow. When the grand parade moves off to-morrow morning there will pass in review before the Commander-in-Chief at least 35,000 veterans of the Civil War. The crowd will increase still further Wednesday, and on Thursday thousands of people from within 300 miles of Milwaukee will come to see the grand naval battle on Milwaukee Bay.

BUSINESS BEGINS TO-DAY.

The sessions of the National Encampmen open to-morrow in West Side Turner Hall. Meanwhile, the chief subject of interest is speculation as to the next Com-mander-in-Chief. Private Dalzell is here and says he is a candidate. Corporal Tan-ner is also here. He denies he is a candidate, and says his preference is General Alger, of Michigan. Tanner is the favorite of the noisy, professional old soldier ele-ment. General Russell A. Alger, the Dement. General Russell A. Alger, the Detroit millionaire, is also on the ground. He arrived this evening, accompanied by Mrs. Logan and party. He evades committing himself, but is obviously "in the hands of his friends." An ugly rock has, however, risen in the course of the Michigan man, upon which the bark of his hopes may usell a second to the secon easily go to pieces. Detroit wants the next encampment, and the Department of Mich-gan has already committed itself to the support of Dr. Christ. P. 8:30 o'clock to-morrow morning to try to contrive some way out of the muddle. NEW ENGLAND'S CHOICE. Judge Vesey, of the Supreme Court of Vermont, arrived in the city this morning, accompanied by the delegation from his State. He is said to have the united sup-port of the New England States, and to be port of the New England States, and to be gaining in favor by those who dislike the political influences back of Alger.

Major Warner, commander-in-chief, arrived in the city this morning, accompanied by his staff, and was escorted to the Plankinton by Blair and Hassendenbil Posts, of St. Louis, and the Kansas City escort of army and navy veterans. Major Warner declined to express any opinions as to his successor, and said that his views on the recent pension ruling as to dishonorably recent pension ruling as to dishonorably discharged soldiers would be given in his address. General Sherman came in this address. General Sherman came in this evening and was escorted to his quarters at the Plankinton by Ransom Post, of St. Louis, several bands, and a vast throng of old soldiers. By particular request the bands did not play "Marching Through Georgia," as General Sherman is heartily tired of hearing that tune.

His hair was plas-tered over to one side of his small head, and in one of the buttonholes of his coat was a bunch of blood-red geraniums.

DIFFERENT, CHARACTERISTICS. Not one of the prisoners looks like the other. Burke is stolid and indifferent. Woodruff is cunning and nervous. Coughlin is a man of iron nerve, with a heavy jaw and deep set eyes. Beggs is handsome and confident. O'Sullivan is serious and painfully attentive. Kunze is a giddy German, who runs to promades grins and flowers. who runs to pomades, grins and flowers Back of the six prisoners were six big bailiffs

The lawyers were next to gather within the railing. Attorney Foster, who made such a gallant fight for the lives of the Anarchists, sat down beside Senior Warden Beggs. The vitriolic Donahue and his business partner, David, who are to defend Kunze and O'Sullivan, lugged in great stacks of law books. Grim William Forrest is the heaviest gun the detense has set up to resist the fire from Hynes and Mills.

Judge McConnell took his seat shortly start to c'cleak. He was farent weighted. Vermont, is being boomed to defeat General Alger. Two other things are also working after 10 o'clock. He wore a fancy waistcoat and a natty neck scarf. He looks like a prosperous business man. As soon as court was formally opened Attorney Donahue slowly srose and began an exraest plea in behalf of Kunze, who he said had been denied a list of the witnesses who testified against the prisoners before the grand jury. Kunze, Mr. Donahue declared, was fighting for his life in the dark. A transcript of the evidence taken by the jury had also been de nied the prisoner.

Kunze had never seen Dr. Cronin. He had not even heard of him until after the Doctor's disappearance. He had been taken from jail to jail, but when he had asked the reason for his incarceration the State's Attorney had always told him that he was all right and that he would be set free as soon right and that he would be set free as soon as he told what he knew about the rest of the defendants. Kunze, Mr. Donahue continued, had never spoken to the rest of the prisoners. He had been snapped up by the State's officers, indicted on testimony which he now knows nothing about and practically abandoned to fight his own battle for life. Then Judge Wing, assisted by Attorneys Donahue and David, began the seemingly Donahue and David, began the seemingly hopeless fight to get separate trials for their clients. The affidavits of Coughlin and his lawyers were first read. Then came the affidavits of Q'Sullivan, Burke and Woodruff. The affidavits of O'Sullivan and Coughlin showed the fear of O'Sullivan and Coughlin showed the fear those prisoners have of Woodruff. In each of the affidavits of Coughlin and O'Sullivan were extracts from Woodruff's confession. One of these extracts bore upon Woodruff's story that Coughlin had paid him $25 to drive the wagon and the dead body to the catch basin; another extract was Woodruff's declaration that Coughlin and O'Sullivan wrote to one another in cipher. To all these charges, and many more besides, the prisoners entered the most sweeping denials.

A SMILE OF CONTEMPT. While the extracts from Woodruff's confession were being read, Coughlin and Beggs smiled contemptuously. Even Burke showed his disgust for the man beside him by looking at him with a savage leer. The confessor grew white, if that were possible, during the reading of the affidavits. He slid down into his seat, sprawled his legs out in front of him and buried his head in the palm of his right hand, Finally he became so nervous that he unbuttoned his vest and loosened his necktie. His mother looked at him constantly.

Not a muscle in O'Sullivan's face moved Not a muscle in O'Sullivan's face moved during the reading of the interesting document, yet if the confessor's story is to be believed, the iceman plotted up to the hour of the murder. Burke's affidavit was not read: Judge McConnell announced that he would listen to the arguments for separate trials Wednesday morning. The prisoners were led back to the jail and the room quickly cleared.

THE preparations used by barbers are not more vile than much of the soap used for washing the head and hair. Rank with powerful chemicals or with an excess of alkali, they draw the natural oil from the hair, causing decay and baldness. The Ivory Soap, as Prof. Cornwall, of Princeton, says, "Is very well made. The alkali is so thoroughly combined, it can not injure any thing." Insist upon your barber using only Ivory Soap and water when he gives you a shampoo.

A WORD OF WARNING. There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'lvory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.
