J. D. Bauder, the ex-proprietor of the de-tective agency which did such a thriving business until the Department of Public Safety swooped down upon its unique operations, certainly displayed a rare amount of nerve in a recent attempt to close up the months of the witnesses against him.

While a DISPATCH reporter was chatting yesterday with Mr. John Marron, that gentleman said: "Mr. Bauder has attempted the most audacious counter-move against the Department of Public Safety that the records show. Within the last few days he hatched out a scheme which he hoped would have considerable effect. He sent a note to a magistrate requesting his presence at the County Jail. Thinking that Bauder wished to make a deposition the Magistrate went to see Bauder, and learned to his astonishment that Bauder desired to make informations against every witness who testified concerning the exactions of the agency, for keeping speak-easies. After very little reflection the Magistrate refused to take the informations, and informed Bauder that while the plan was advoit, it would be pretty hard to find a Magistrate who would entertain such a proposition. The matter not only is an evidence of Mr. Bauder's cunning, but it goes to show that the ex-detective feels that his chances of acquittal are nebulous." "What was Bauder's ulterior motive?"

was asked.

"He doubtless hoped to scare our witnesses away from the city, but the plan miscarried. Yes, it was extremely difficult to secure evidence against Bauder's gang because the men who had been bled had considerable dread of prosecution under the Brooks law. We had to compel some of them to tell what they knew."

It is learned that other arrests are not an immediate contingency as Inspector Whitehouse is too busy working up evi-dence against those already under arrest to attend to a large number of people now under suspicion. The Inspector observes sententiously that the suspects cannot afford to run away.

CONSTABLES UNDER SURVEILLANCE.

In connection with the speak-easy vocation it was stated on very reliable authority yes terday that Chief J. O. Brown, of the Department of Public Safety, had an accurate list of Pittsburg speak-easies, and would watch the ward constables' reports to Court on violations of the Brooks law, and in cases where the constables failed to report illegal sellers would take steps to have the constables prosecuted under the punitive clause of the Brooks license law. Chief Brown was seen yesterday and acquainted with the statement, and requested to say whether any such move was in contemplation. He said: "No; we shall

William J. Fry Did Not Commit Suicide In the Jall-The Muscles of His Heart Were Worn Out.

A CASE OF HEART DISEASE.

William J. Fry, aged 29 years, was found lying dead on the floor of his cell in the jail, yesterday morning, and it was at first thought to be a case of sureide. When the body was taken to the morgue and stripped, four wounds were found in the left breast, just over the heart, and a lead pencil found on the floor of Fry's cell was found to have been the instrument with which they were inflicted. The Coroner ordered a post-mo The Coroner ordered a post-mortem exam-ination to be made by Drs. Guy McCandless and Chessrown yesterday afternoon. The result of their investigation shows that hear disease was the cause of death. The Coroner said last night that the physicians, in examining Fry's body, found that he had been suffering from heart disease for a long period, and that the muscles of the heart were badly ruptured and broken. Accord-ing to the developments of the autopsy the were badly ruptured and broken. Accord-ing to the developments of the autopay, the wounds in the breast of the deceased were inflicted while he was suffering excruciating pain, as they were only superficial, none being more than one-fourth of an inch Judging from the result of the autopsy, Judging from the result of the autopsy, Coroner McDowell has the following theory of the case: Fry had been suffering intense pain, and had taken pencil and paper to write a letter to his mother. A piece of paper on which was written, "Dear mother, I am very sick," was found in his cell. While making the attempt to write Fry was seized with violent pain, and, having the pencil in his hand, struck himself on the breast near the seat of the pain the pencil in his hand, struck himself on the breast near the seat of the pain with the hand holding the pen-cil. The point penetrated his white shirt and his undershirt. Only one hole was found through the garments, and as there are four wounds he must have opened his shirts before striking himself the second time. Three of the wounds have the superscence of having hear made he striking appearance of having been made by striking sideways while the other is pointed straight in corresponding with the hole in the shirt. Another point in "apport of this theory of the case is the testim my of a colored man in the case is the testimery of a colored man in the jait with whom Fry conversed on Thurs-day morning. He says Fry complained of being ill, and held his hand over his left side as if it pained. The Coroner continued the inquest until this morning, when he will continue the in-vestigation.

What Detectives Allen and Turner Found in Making an Arrest-The Drug Taken

From Prisoners in the Jail. When Detectives Allen and Turner, of the Gilkinson Agency, went to No. 272 Fifth avenue yesterday to arrest Mrs. P. P. Zimerman and E. G. Emmett, they were armed with a search warrant and went through the apartments. Under Emmett's bed Mr. Allen found an opium pipe and a lot of opium, and the smell of that drug pervaded the spartments. Emmett's card was found, and on it he sets forth that he is "general manager of the American Publishing Company, New York and Chicago." Sloan claimed to be also connected with that establishment. Mrs. Zimerman said to the officers that she was Emmett's wife, claim-ing that they had been married a few days ago. The man and woman were taken to Alderman McMasters' office and committed to jail to await a hearing. The house on Fifth avenue was watched. At about 5 o'clock Sloan appeared. When told that he was wanted he assaulted the officers with an umbrella, and it was only officers with an umbrella, and it was only atter a hard struggie that he was over-powered and handcuffed. He was taken to the Alderman's office. While the commit-ment was being prepared Sloan asked De-tective Allen if he could get a drink. The detective accompanied the prisoner to a rear room. He drew from his pocket a tin box, from it took some black substance and placed it in his mouth. He confessed that it was opium, and said he hoped they would not take it from him in the jail. At the jail the detective gave a hint to the warden, and the opium was taken from Sloan. Emmett was then searched in his cell, and a similar amount of opium was taken from him. Each man had four or

ITEMS OF INTEREST FOR THE TOILERS

An incipient strike is in progress on the Citizens Traction line, and the road may be tied up at any moment. The conductors and gripmen have a grievance which will be brought to the notice of the management of the company within a few days, and from the determined position taken by the men there is a probability that there may be trouble before a settlement of the difference has been arrived at. Local Assembly 2121, K. of L., composed of the conductors and gripmen of the Citi-zeus' Traction road, had a meeting in Lawrenceville on Thursday night which lasted for five hours. The assembly same to order at midnight, and an adournment was called at 5 o'clock yesterday norning. The men who were present at the meeting were enjoined to keep everything to themselves, and it was difficult to get any of them to talk on the subject.

It was learned, however, that the men are not satisfied with the pay they now receive for extra trips. The wages of the men are 24 cents per hour for a regular trip, and 18 cents per hour for a special trip. The men claim that they ought to get more for an extra trip than for an ordinary one.

Master Workman L. N. Ross addressed the members of the assembly at the meeting, and he agreed with them that 18 cents for extra trips was not sufficient pay. After considerable discussion about what would be the proper amount they ought to have, it was decided to ask the company to give them 36 cents per hour for an extra trip. A DISPATCH reporter took a trip along Pean avenue last night to question the men on what they were likely to do about it. But they had all been well posted not to divulge anything that transpired at the meeting. "When are you going to present your de-mands to the company?" was the question put to one of the conductors. "That is further on!" he replied, and that was about all he had to say in regard to the matter. Several others stated they had not been at the meeting at all.

been at the meeting at all. The assembly is composed of all the con-ductors and gripmen of the line. There were 15 new men enrolled at Thursday's meeting, which makes all of them members of the K of L. An effort was made to see President John G. Holmes, last night, about the trouble of the men, but he could not be found. Super-intendent Rugg is out of the city.

The Carpenters Are Getting Ready to

The representatives of 18 carpenters' local unions of the K. of L. met in the hall of the Commoner and Glassworker last night to complete the arrangements for their part of the great labor parade on Monday. not interfere with what we conceive to be a matter wholly appertaining to the juris-diction of the Quarter Sessions Court and diction of the Quarter Sessions Court and the county officials. We do not consider our-selves charged with the execution of the provisions of the Brooks law except the Sunday selling of liquor is under con-sideration. Anybody who imagines that liquor can be sold with impunity on Sunday in any section of the city is at liberty to try it on, and the police force will show where the mistake comes in. But we regard the sale of liquor on week-days as a matter solely of commercial competition, so long as order is preserved. If people choose to buy their drinks of unlicensed parties we have no right to interfere, no more than we would have a right to disturb trade relations in any other branch of mercantile life. Sunday liquor-selling, however, is a distinct offense against the peace at the city.

Chief Clerk H. J. He replied that while the payment of an internal revenue tax might be considered prima facia evidence against people charged with illegal liquor selling, it was a mosted point as to its admissibility in courts of law.

Upon this question Chief Brown said: "During my recent trip through Vermont and New Hampshire 1 looked into the matter, and found that in both States the courts having jurisdiction of illegal liquor selling had decided in a number of cases that the evidence was perfectly admissible, and I suppose that those precedents would have some weight in our own courts should the question arise."

Will the Department of Public Safety take action leading to the settling of such an issue?" was asked. "I hardly think likely, as we at present
