LIKE A RAT IN A TRAP

The Lone Highwayman Was Hemmed in by His Eager Pursuers.

NO AVENUE OF ESCAPE WAS OPEN

And the Bold Robber Was Captured With the Greatest Ease.

A FULL CONFESSION OF HIS CRIMES.

Any Amount of the Stolen Property Discovered Upon His Person.

The solitary bandit who has been making such a commotion in Michigan and Wisconsin has been captured, and has made a confession. He was surrounded by his pursuers and forced into the town of Republic, where he was easily arrested.

REPUBLIC, MICH., August 31.—Reimund Holzhay, the lone highwayman, who terrorized Northern Wisconsin for five months past, robbing trains, waylaying stage coaches and holding up pedestrians, is in custody. He was captured here this morning by City Marshal Glode and Justice of the Peace E. E. Weiser, and will be taken to Bessemer to answer for the killing of Fleschbein at Gogebic on Monday of this week. Holzhay confesses to all the stage and train robberies.

At 7 o'clock this morning Marshal Glode and Justice Wesier were walking down street from their homes. When near the railroad depot, they met a man dressed roughly and apparently anxious to escape attention. The Marshal was struck by his close likeness to the description of the Gogebic stage robber, and immediately stepped in front of the man saying: "I want you." The stranger whipped his hand to his hip pocket, but before he could draw a pistol was felled by Marshal Glode's billy which stunned him. He was taken to the village jail, recovering consciousness on the way.

DAMAGING DISCOVERIES.

At the jail he was searched and three revolvers, three gold watches, four pocketbooks and other articles were found on his person. One pocketbook bore the name of Reimund Holzhay, the robber's name. He broke down under examination and acknowledged committing the robbery of the Milwaukee and Northern train at Ellis Junction last May, and the robbery at Lake Gogebic on Monday last.

Holzhay came here last evening and put up at the Republic House. The police officers in all the towns up here had been furnished with a description of the robber, and when he entered the Republic he was at once placed under surveillance on the suspicion that he was the man wanted for the murder and robbery. The Bessemer authorities were telegraphed to for further information, but up to an early hour this morning no response was received from them. Marshal Glode resolved not to wait for word and to make the arrest, being fearful if he dalayed longer the man might escape. Among the pocketbooks found on Holzhay was the one that he took from Fleischbein, the man whom he killed and robbed when he held up the stage at Gogebic, and which contained letters and papers bearing Fleischbein's name.

THE STOLEN GOODS.

Another pocketbook, evidently belonging to W. G. Decelle, 408 Sibley street, St. Paul, was recovered. There was also a 14-karat hunting case stem-winding gold watch, the case of which was made by the American Watch Company, the movement being a Wheeler and numbered 991,934. The chain is small curb without bar. The man admits that he took the watch from Fleischbein. Another of the watches is a low-karat gold watch, hunting case and stem-winder, case No. 1,283 and Raymond movement No. 282,661, made by Illinois Watch Company. The other watch is an 18-karat gold watch, hunting case and stem-winder, nickle movement made by Robert Monnot Loche, evidently a Swiss article. The chain is a double link with small cube charm.

It was some time before Holzhay would admit his identity, but finally when confronted by the evidence of his own pocketbook, acknowledged his identity. He stubbornly refused to say that he had committed other robberies than those at Ellis junction and at Gogebic, but after much cross-examination said:

"It is generally supposed that one man has done them all, and I think that it is so." He then entered into a detailed statement of his various crimes. His story was an interesting one.

A BOLD CRIMINAL.

The crime for which the highwayman is under arrest was an exceedingly bold one. A stage coach plies between Gogebic station, on the Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western Railroad, and a summer resort hotel on Gogebic lake, three miles distant. On Monday last the stage left the hotel with a party of four men who had been spending several weeks there. The members of the party were Donald Mackerchar, of Minneapolis, one of the officials of the International Bank; A. G. Fleischbein, of Belleville, Ill.; Robert Rintoul, of the Bank of Montreal, Chicago, and William Paddon, also of Chicago.

At 11:30 A. M., as the stage was dragging lazily along over the road, its driver was startled by a command to "Hang on to the reins and not to make a single move at the peril of your life." There in front of him was the stage robber, wearing a slouch hat and holding two immense revolvers, which he pointed at the driver. One of the passengers adopted a trick to throw the robber off his guard. He had a considerable amount of money on his person and did not want it taken from him.

When the highwayman extended a general invitation to "cash in," he put his hand into his coat pocket, presumably to get a pocketbook, but really to get his revolver. He drew it and commenced firing at the robber, who stood his ground and returned the fire.

QUITE A BATTLE.

The horse dashed away at a rapid rate, but the robber continued to empty his revolvers at the men in the coach. Mr. Fleischbein rose from his seat and received a 44-caliber bullet in his hip. At the same time the coach gave a lurch and he was thrown forward in the roadway. Banker Mackarchar also fell a victim to the robber's murderous weapon. He received two bullet wounds—one in the left side of the head and another in the leg.

The robber pounced upon his helpless victim in the roadway, shoved a pistol in his face and threatened to finish him then and there. Fleischbein pleaded for his life, and the robber after going through his pockets, getting about $40 in money, a watch and chain and a ring, left him lying bleeding and helpless in the road. He lay there nearly three hours before the arrival of assistance.

Then he was taken to Bessemer, where he was put into a hospital and his wounds cared for, but he had bled so much that his strength was sapped and he died that night, having first furnished a good description of the highwayman. Mr. Mackarchar was taken to Minneapolis, where, at last accounts, he was said to be on the road to recovery.

CHASED BY BLOODHOUNDS.

It is believed that the robber is the same who recently, in the boldest manner, held up the Northwestern and Wisconsin Central trains. As soon as news of the robbery reached Ashland Sheriff Foley and posse started in pursuit. They were soon joined by a mob under Judge Lynch. A pack of bloodhounds, with their Indian trainers, were also brought into requisition. All avenues of escape were cut off, and a systematic man hunt was begun, ending this morning, as above stated. The particulars of the capture are not yet known.

The rewards offered for the capture of the noted train and stage robber aggregate about $3,500. The Wisconsin Central Railway Company offered a reward of $1,000 for the capture of the man who robbed its trains near Chippewa Falls, the United States Government has a standing reward for the arrest of the Shawanee mail robber, the Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western Railroad Company offered a reward of $1,000 for the Gogebic stage robber, and there are several other rewards which amount to $500. The Milwaukee and Northern Railroad, at the time one of its trains was robbed near Ellis Junction, offered a reward of $500, but withdrew it some time afterward.

TOO MANY, TRAMPS.

An Urgent Need for a Better Police System at Johnstown—A Proposition Made to the Burgess—Finding of Another Body.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.]

JOHNSTOWN, August 31.—There is much complaint at the inaction of the Burgess in not causing the arrest of the drunken loafers that are to be seen on the streets. Captain Kuhn, Borough Solicitor, in speaking about the matter, said: "I have assured the Burgess officially that he has ample power to arrest these drunken vagabonds and make them work. I have told him that if he has no place for them to sleep at night he can corral them on some vacant lot and let them bunk on the ground. It necessary, he can put chains on them during the day on the streets."

Captain Hamilton says that if the Burgess puts these fellows to work and has the dirt on the streets scraped up in piles he will not only provide a guard of soldiers but will have the dirt hauled away at the State expense. There must be 200 or 300 tramps in town, every one of whom ought to be arrested forthwith.

It is folly to say that because eight or ten arrests per day are made no more could or should be made. There is not a day that from 50 to 100 of the vilest and most desperate characters on the face of the earth could not be picked up on Washington street and in other parts of town.

SHERMAN TURNED OUT

Of a Railroad Car in Order to Make Room for Others—A Brother of the General Very Angry About the Matter.

CHICAGO, August 31.—Grand Army men in this city were very much stirred up today about an interview with Major Hoyt Sherman, a brother of General W. T. Sherman, which was published here. The gist of it was that when General Sherman and his brother reached the depot in Milwaukee last night to take the train for this city, at the close of the National Encampment, the old warrior was very much fatigued; that they were shown into a car and were just comfortably seated, when a lot of members of Phil Sheridan Post, of Chicago, came into the car; that they insisted that the occupants had no right there, and that the General and his brother were compelled to seek seats elsewhere.

Mr. W. C. Curtis, Commander of Phil Sheridan Post, was interviewed to-day in regard to the matter. Mr. Curtis admitted that it was an awkward affair, but held that the members of the post were not to blame in the matter. The trouble, he thought, arose out of the fact that the General was tired and his brother unnecessarily quick-tempered. The facts, he said, were that the car had been chartered by a number of members of the post who had their wives with them. When they reached the depot they found the seats taken, and, not knowing that General Sherman was on board, ordered the porter to clear the car, which he proceeded to do.

When the discovery was made that General Sherman was being ejected, a member of the post offered him his seat, which was declined. Mr. Curtis says the General did not seem angered about the matter, but that Major Sherman was in high dudgeon. They went forward into another car where seats had been reserved for them.

JUST A TRIFLE MYSTERIOUS

Is the Manner in Which an Early Morning Murder Was Committed.

ST. LOUIS, August 31.—While George Atkins was passing the corner of Twelfth and Morgan streets at an early hour this morning he saw a man assault a woman and run away. When he (Atkins) went to pick up the woman some unknown man rushed up and stabbed him in the side, inflicting a fatal wound. All the parties then escaped, leaving Atkins in the street. The police have not yet succeeded in clearing up the mystery surrounding the affair.

BALFOUR'S POLICY.

The Way He Managed to Capture Parnell Votes in Parliament.

IT WAS DONE VERY QUIETLY.

Endowment of the Catholic University of Ireland the Bait.

THE SPEECH OF QUEEN VICTORIA.

It Was More Remarkable for What Was Not Said Than What Was Spoken.

The political situation in England is remarkable. By a very quiet move Secretary Balfour has succeeded in gaining the support of the Parnellites, and the Opposition has scarcely any strength left. Queen Victoria's speech in proroguing Parliament is more notable for what she did not say than for what she did. She never mentioned the royal grants.

[BY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, August 31.—(Copyright)—The political situation in England to-day is remarkable in the extreme. Balfour, by one of those smart theatrical movements which Englishmen are accustomed to consider an imitation of Lord Beaconsfield, has fairly divided his opponents. Without any fuss or ostentation whatever, he casually announced in the House that the Government proposed to endow the Catholic University in Ireland. The effect was electrical. Irishmen, instead of being bitter opponents of the Government, evinced a lively desire to shake hands with the ministry.

The Gladstonians were glum and evidently irritated at the jubilation of the Parnellites, but as one of the Irish leaders succinctly remarked to them, "You had an opportunity to do this in your day, but emphatically refused to do it, so you cannot expect us to refuse the good things offered us. If the Tories offered us home rule we should take it, and be only too glad to get it."

Balfour had laid his plans well. He had had Mr. Parnell sounded, under pledge of secrecy, and had got his support. He had gained the approval of the Liberal Unionist leaders, and he had put the heads of the Irish church into ecstacies by a hint of what was coming. The only sections he did not consult were the Gladstonians and the Ulster Tories, whose good opinion he affects not to value at all. These latter have already made their protest, but the House is up and away and they have no chance now of making their voices heard until Parliament meets again next February. In the meantime Mr. Balfour is undoubtedly reckoning on the good seed taking root in Ireland.

COUNTS ON THE PRIESTS.

He believes the priests will be with him to a man, and in this surmise he is probably correct. The priests, he concludes, will win over the rioters, and he is of the opinion that the Irish party will be sufficiently grateful for what he has done to render to the Tory party a measure of aid occasionally. In this, probably, he has made a mistake, for the Irish members are fighting for Ireland, and any combination they can make for furthering her interests they will assuredly enter into, but without doubt it is a clever move. For a long time past the details of the scheme have been perfecting. Extensive alterations have been in progress at the splendid buildings of the royal society, and doubtless this will become the headquarters of the new university. The knowledge of the announcement respecting an endowed Catholic university did a great deal to smooth the way for the prorogation of Parliament. It knocked the fight out of nine-tenths of the Irishmen.

To-day there has been a rush of tired-out officials and faithful Parliamentarians from London. Lord Salisbury, who is off to Dieppe, headed the flight, and the fine weather favored the holiday-bound legislators.

THE QUEEN'S REMARKABLE SPEECH.

The Queen's speech at the close of Parliament is remarkable, not for what it contains, but for what it omits. Parliament voted, after a somewhat stormy discussion, a large grant of money for Queen Victoria and her progeny. Her Majesty, however, does not think this sum worth mentioning, and says nothing whatever about it. This is regarded generally as a snub for the faithful Commons, who discussed the whole question openly, instead of voting it unanimously without a murmur.

Last week we illustrated a very nobby shape intended solely for young Gent's wear. This week we publish a hat of larger proportions, and one suitable for portly and fleshy gentlemen, or those of middle age. This Derby is essentially and emphatically a fall hat. The full crown, medium brim and heavy rolling curl makes it one of the most stylish and becoming hats in the market. One of the attractive features in our establishment is the earnest endeavor to give customers the benefit of our judgment in the selection of headgear, and where our advice is taken a stylish and becoming hat will adorn the wearer every time.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE PUZZLE SOLVED.

The intense interest manifested by the public in regard to our puzzle, for which we offered four Suits of Clothes as prizes, may be gathered from the fact that we have received in all 10,246 answers. The largest number came, of course, from this State and towns and cities near by, but many also came from long distances—as far east as Maine, as far west as California, as far north as Canada, as far south as New Mexico. The remote points to which the Pittsburg papers carried our advertisement is evidence of their wide circulation and their value as an advertising medium. Out of these 10,245 answers only four were correct, and these were sent by the following four boys, whose pictures (with the exception of the Kansas lad, whose photograph we could not get in time for publication) we here append:

CHARLES G. THOMPSON,

But numbers bargains do embrace.
