JAMES REES BURIED.

Another Man Who Helped to Build Pittsburg Laid Away to Rest.

THE OLD CITIZENS DYING RAPIDLY.

Dr. Holland's Eloquent Eulogy of His Worth and Life's Work.

A BIG CROWD OF FRIENDS ATTENDED

The funeral service over the remains of the late James Rees took place yesterday afternoon at his residence, Fifth avenue, near Amberson avenue. By 2:30 P. M. the beautiful rooms, the hall and the stairs were thronged with sympathizing friends who were there to pay a last tribute to their dead friend. No better testimony of his worth was needed than to witness the vast concourse of people whose countenances evinced a deep expression of sorrow. At such gatherings the forcible epigram of Renan is felt "Death adds perfection to the most perfect man."

The coffin of black ebony with massive silver trappings was elevated upon a catafalque in the front parlor, overlooking a lovely lawn, shaded by tall overhanging trees. Above the casket a model of a river steamer made of white and blush roses, with the name of the dead man worked in blue violets, was placed. At his head a broken pillow of white immortelles stood. A wreath of pink roses was laid on the lid. Every portion of the apartment contained a floral memento from some one who knew him, while he moved in the great vortex of human life.

DR. HOLLAND'S EULOGY.

Promptly at the appointed time the Rev. W. J. Holland, pastor of the Bellfield Presbyterian church, began the exercises by reading the burial service. After the ritual had been read, a quartet sang "Beyond the Starlit Night." The choir afterward sang a favorite hymn, "Asleep in Jesus, Blessed Sleep." After it was concluded the Rev. Holland delivered an eloquent panegyric on the virtues of the deceased. He said:

"Once after another the links that bind Pittsburg of the past with the Pittsburg of the present are being broken. Less and less the ranks of men who have laid the foundations of this city's commercial and intellectual greatness are becoming thinned. We scan this vast audience; we can see but few who have raised our town into a foremost position upon these munoane shores. Few of us knew that the quiet man who will shortly slumber beneath the green sward played one of the most conspicuous roles in this city's life; yet it is a fact. He was, in social as well as in business life, unostentatious; but beneath this apparent reserve there welled up an ocean of sympathy for those that fortune's ill-favored fingers touched.

"His life is a conspicuous demonstration of the divine apothegm 'Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.' He was a man of strong convictions. He grasped a problem, and then with iron tenacity worked it out. His judgment, not always unerring, was based upon what in his conception was right. It is evident the divine favor rested upon him in all his undertakings, because the unfolding days were but a revealment of new successes.

A LOOK AT THE BRIGHT SIDE.

"But let us look at another side of his life. The past is irrevocable. The ledger is closed. From the other side, the spiritual side, we can cull something that will wonderfully help us. Since he was a small child he deeply felt the power of religion. He manifested in his daily actions those principles which are the life and energy of the church. One instance in his life I will quote—but which I cannot indorse—will go to show his character. When a small child he sought admittance into the church, so that he could partake of the holy mysteries; but the church refused to accept him on account of his youth. He felt this keenly.

"This action was never forgotten by him. He never again applied to be admitted. Nevertheless he lived a life conformable to his early desires, and the climax of that life was a triumphant entry into that celestial domain beyond the shimmering skies. To those who mourn his death let me say, the ministry of the most adorable third person of the divine trinity will console you more than the power of human speech can tell."

The pallbearers were W. B. Negley, Henry Hays, George A. Berry, Colonel William H. Herron, C. Loomis, R. S. Smith, B. F. Wilson, Colonel James Collard, James McBride, Daniel Bangby, Samuel Lewis and George McBrisbin.

ALLEGHENY'S RECORD BROKEN.

Mayor Pearson Never Disposed of So Many Cases at One Hearing.

There were 40 prisoners before Mayor Pearson at the morning hearing in Allegheny yesterday. Twelve of them were arrested at 1 o'clock yesterday morning at a house on the corner of Beaver avenue and Spruce street, where a gambling game was going on. Their names are John Murray, Alfred Pope, William Gordon, John Carroll, John Manley, Thomas McMann, James McBurney, Charles Trent, William Faulkner, Frank Johnson, Ed Cunningham and John Condery. They were all fined $3 and costs each.

N. A. Kline was rescued by Officer Thompson, who caught him in the river. Kline was charged with attempted suicide. He told the officer he would jump in again, and he was then locked up. At the hearing it was developed that he had been drunk, and as he swore off before the Mayor the latter discharged him.

The Mayor discharged, on charges of disorderly conduct, Louis Moser, Carl Sitzenfun, Con Kaler and Frank Burk, and on the same charge fined Fred Altmos and Joseph Gettie $10 and costs each, while John Venness got 10 days, John Williams and Wallace McCoy 60 days each, and Charles McGowan 30 days for like offenses. John Snavel, a vagrant, was given 10 days.

The hearing was the largest during Mayor Pearson's term of office, and has scarcely ever before been equaled by any of his predecessors. A number of disorderly people were fined or discharged.

DIED IN JAIL.

The Attenuated Form of a Stranger Now Lies in the Morgue—He Was Taken From the Hospital.

One of the most attenuated specimens of humanity ever seen out of a dime museum now lies on the mortuary bench in the morgue. Not alone can his ribs be counted, but every articulation in his bones is plainly discernable through the skin, for no flesh remains. His name was Robert Reef, or Reese, who died at the county jail early yesterday morning of heart disease and a complication of other disorders.

Reef was found on Second avenue by the police on August 20. He was sick and delirious and appeared to have been drinking, and the police sent him to the Homeopathic Hospital. Last Saturday the hospital authorities decided that as the man was growing worse each day he should be transferred to an insane asylum, and to that end he was committed to jail for examination, preparatory to sending him to Dixmont. He was so weak and ill that he had to be carried into the jail, where he was placed in the hospital department.

He told the police his name was Reese, but at the hospital gave the name of Reef, and said he had lived eight years at Cleveland, where he was employed in Houck's clothing house, and at Braddock he worked in a tailor shop. Inquiry by the hospital people at both these places failed to bring responses. The deceased was apparently about 35 years of age, tall, dark complexion, black beard and hair.

The body was taken to the morgue and the Coroner will hold an inquest this morning.

CENTRAL'S GRIST.

A Big Batch of Prisoners Turned Over to the Care of the Workhouse.

There were 55 persons at the Central station yesterday morning, five of whom were taken to the Twelfth ward for a hearing, and the balance were heard before Magistrate Hyndman, who officiated in the absence of Mr. Gripp. Of the total number heard at the Central station 25 were given workhouse sentences, one was sent to Morganza, and the balance were either given light jail sentences, fined or discharged.

Kate McCally, an old-timer, was the first to receive sentence. She had assaulted a man on Wood street by striking him in the face with her umbrella, and received a 90 days' sentence. George Stuckrath had been engaged in a fight with Maggie Martin at 199 First avenue. He got a 30 days' sentence and she forfeited $30 by not appearing. William Kilmer and Fritz Dexter had been fighting on Wood street, but Dexter proved that he had been on the defensive, and was let off with a $3 fine, while Kilmer got 30 days.

Samuel Johnston, Charles Carter, P. W. Brooks, John Robinson, Sherman Woodson, Mose Genlery, John Beachen, William Adams, Eliza Worth, Myrtle Rossin, Emma Wolson and Annie Lewis, all captured in the raid on Woodruff's disorderly house at the Yellow Row Saturday night, were given 30-day sentences, while Woodruff and his wife were held, and an information will be entered against them for maintaining a disorderly house.

John O'Brien, Con Folev and James Mehaffey each got 30 days for assaulting Peter Holohan, who accused them of beating him up and robbing him of a small sum of money. Holohan had a badly damaged countenance and a couple of witnesses to prove his statements.

John Wood and Alex. Carter got into a fight in a Second avenue barber shop Saturday and turned the shop inside out, breaking things up generally, for which they got 30 days. Charles McInary, a small boy who was recently released from Morganza, was acting suspiciously on Ninth street and arrested. He will be returned to Morganza to-day.

ROWERS ON THE ALLEGHENY.

What the Davis Island Dam Does for Lovers of Boating.

The completion of the Davis Island dam is a boon to the lovers of boating. It has slack-watered the Allegheny river, making a very slow current, so that it is suitable for rowing during the entire open water season.

Because of its freedom from steamboats and coal barges, the Allegheny has been the favorite rowing water. The boat houses are located on its banks, and they do a large business in renting boats when the current is favorable. During a great part of the season just past, as in preceding seasons, the current of the Allegheny has been so rapid that it was difficult to row up stream. Not infrequently, when the water went down very swiftly, the keepers of boats declined to let them out. Many a couple went down to the river in the evening, intent on a quiet row on the moonlight water, to be refused a boat by the man who owned them, while he pointed, for his reason, to the swift current. The dam has changed this condition of things, creating a pool in the lower Allegheny. Aquatically disposed lovers can now be sure of a row on almost any fine evening.

In Which Young McGinnis Was Hit Over the Eye With a Table Leg.

Frank McGinnis was arrested by Officer Bennett at his home on Preble avenue, Allegheny, yesterday afternoon, and lodged in the lockup, charged with disorderly conduct.

It is alleged by the officer that McGinnis got into a dispute with his mother about spending his money for drink, and a general row ensued, in which his father also took part. After smashing up the dishes and furniture, young McGinnis was struck on the side of the face with the leg of a table, inflicting an ugly gash over his right eye. He will be given a hearing this morning.

The Single Tax Association Declares in Favor of the Democracy—Democratic Principles Indorsed.

Yesterday afternoon the Single Tax Association decided to throw the strength of the organization during the campaign this fall to the Democratic candidates and platform. The meeting was held in Veteran Legion Hall, Sixth avenue. The platform adopted by the Democratic Convention on September 4 was up for discussion, and this ended in an unqualified indorsement.

The features of the platform that met with approval were the declarations in favor of "pure, honest and economical government, to the end that labor may not be robbed of the bread it has earned;" tariff tax reform; opposition to trusts, and the indorsement of the Australian ballot system.

The paragraphs in the platform embodying these ideas were made a preamble, and then the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the single tax men, irrespective of party affiliations, look upon these declarations as a step forward in the emancipation of labor, and in securing to the working classes the freedom of the ballot independent of the assaults of intimidation and corruption.

Resolved, That as it appears at the present time that the Democratic party is moving more closely to the line of individual freedom and emancipation of labor than any other, we will in the coming election support the State candidates of this party, as embodying the principles set forth in their platform, and will use our best efforts to secure their election.

Resolved, That we will cordially co-operate with the Democratic societies of the State and our city toward the attainment of this end, and for that purpose we ask them to put themselves in communication with us.

The Single Tax Association has 100 active members, the majority of whom are men who have taken an active part in politics and for many of whom it is claimed they can carry their districts. They intend taking a lively part in the coming campaign.
