

FLOWERS ON SUNDAY.

A Step Takes One From Winter's Foretaste to the Tropics.

THE CHRYSANTHEMUMS IN BLOOM

In Allegheny Park Conservatories, With Sleet Upon the Roof.

SCENES IN THE WARM GREENHOUSES

LTHOUGH it was a wet Sunday in the Allegheny conservatories, it was a delightful day to those inside the transparency. The rain pattered on the glass roofs overhead, and trickled down the sloping sides in little grimy runnels. Through the blurred panes one could dimly see the parks, half hidden in floating mist. Here and there some luckless wanderer hurried through the rain, with upturned coat-collar, and head bowed upon his breast. The honsopeers looked indifferently gloomy over the confused mass of foliage, and the gray smoke that floated upward from the chimney stacks could hardly be distinguished against the dark, lowering background of sky.

But neither the rain nor the gloom sufficed to keep the usual crowd of Sunday conservatory visitors from their accustomed haunts. There were muddy footprints in the tiled hall and along the passages. Here a drenched umbrella had been allowed to drop a little pool of water; here some untidy drip had sprinkled the flooring with rain drops from his saturated headgear.

VERY HAPPY HOUR. Everywhere, however, resounded human voices, and the merry sound of human laughter; everywhere were happy groups, upon whom the dull weather without had no more effect than the proverbial water on the back of the legendary duck. What ricked they of the damp, cold Northern climate? Here they were, comfortably huddled, basking in tropic heat, admiring the glorious vegetation of equatorial climes.

Brawny mechanics, rough-hewn sons of toil, with their buxom, dimpled dames clinging lovingly to their strong arms; port misses, giggling, rosy-cheeked maidens, fresh from the restraint of the school room; grave professors, whose long, bony fingers poked among the plants; and, finally, while rows of little twinkling eyes that seemed weighing every bud and sunlit every fiber; there were among the many who came to see the flowers this rainy Sunday.

There was the ubiquitous small boy, too, with a faint halo of after-dinner jam around his self-asserting mouth; and there were the mutually adoring couple, falling out and making up, behind the convenient screen of leaves.

THE LOVELY CHRYSANTHEMUMS. The chrysanthemums were all about in the western conservatory. Does the wretched creature live who loves not chrysanthemums? Of a surety, if there be such a man, he has no soul for the beautiful. To the writer it is their exquisite simplicity which attracts. If the rose be the gorgeous queen of flowers, the chrysanthemum is their

"Quaker maid, demure and fair, Whose wisdom leads the bosom wound."

There were few in the conservatories yesterday, at any rate who did not admire the chrysanthemums—whether white, or yellow, or reddish-purple; whether long and starchy of petal, or close and compact—dainty little flower fluff, or the profuse banner upon them through his spectacles as a Bacon might have beamed upon a Herriek's charming love songs. They were sweet to his soul, after long stunts in the graver paths of botanical research.

The school-miss went into raptures over them and cried: "O-h-h-h!" and "M-m-m!" and "A-a-a-a!" as each new flower appeared, nestling in its bed of green.

ALL ADMIRABLE. But there were other parts of the buildings almost as admired as the western conservatory. The great central conservatory, science-whispered back: "Oh, Laura! You had girl! Don't you remember Sunday school this afternoon?"

But Laura persists in being wicked. She murmurs: "Bother Sunday school! You watch and judge me if you see anyone coming."

And then (alas for good principles as inculcated by the Sunday school!) Ethel whispers once more: "Well, pull me one, too, Laura—there's a dear!"

LOVE AMONG THE ROSES.

Where the roses bloom there are two lovers. They meet in the adoration phase of their affections. She says, with downcast eyes, and blushing cheeks: "Jack, dear, how I do love you!"

They are very pleasant snatching parties, these rosy conservatories, on a Sunday afternoon, even though the weather be of the dampest and the crowd of the smallest. One can always walk an hour away from a banana tree, and emerge on the other side, studiously looking in different directions.

SUCCESS AFTER DIFFICULTIES.

Washington Lobbyists Will Be Active the Coming Winter.

IT IS NOT A DISHONORABLE CALLING

WASHINGTON, October 27.—A well-known theosophist told me a few days ago that the theosophists all over the country had gone into a mining enterprise in Colorado under rather unique conditions. The scheme was organized in St. Louis, which has been the center of activity in mining stocks since the St. Louis owners of the famous Granite Mountain Mine in Montana became millionaires through the development of their property. St. Louis has a great deal of money invested in mining property in Montana, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado and other States and Territories of the West.

MUTINY ON BOARD.

A Russian Sailor Makes Trouble on an American Ship—A Captain and Crew of Eight Rescued From a Water Grave.

NEW YORK, October 27.—The American ship Landseer, from the Philippines Islands, with sugar for Boston, put into port today flying signals of distress. The steamer Flying responded to the signal. When the police boarded the Landseer they found one of the sailors, William Matson, a Russian, in irons. On a complaint of First Officer Shippa, of the Landseer, Matson was placed under arrest, charged with attempted lewdness assault.

On the 15th of this month, off Cape Hatteras, the Landseer fell in with the crew of the schooner Jacob H. Hackett, from Savannah for Boston. A hurricane had struck two days before and swept everything movable off her decks. Capt. Matson and his men were about abandoning all hope when the Landseer hove in sight.

SETTLED AN OLD FEUD.

Two Men Killed and Many Wounded in an Iowa Battle.

DUBUQUE, Ia., October 27.—A feud of 20 years' standing was settled yesterday near New Hampton, the county seat of Chickasaw county, by a general battle, in which several men were killed and several others wounded. Thomas Doud, his two sons, Peter McKenna, and a number of other farmers had assembled at the farm of Albert Smith to assist him in a barn-raising. A feud has existed between the Douds and McKennas for 20 years. All the neighborhood has taken sides one way or the other, and the men who were killed and wounded were members of the McKenna family, who occupy adjoining farms, for 20 years. All the neighborhood has taken sides one way or the other, and the men who were killed and wounded were members of the McKenna family, who occupy adjoining farms, for 20 years.

MUCH FIRE AND LITTLE WATER.

A Business Block Totally Destroyed in the Early Morning.

SELMA, Ala., October 27.—A fire broke out in Leopold Brothers' dry goods establishment on Broad street, in the center of the business portion of the city this morning, about 2 o'clock. The people were all asleep, and the fire gained great headway before it was discovered. When the fire alarm was finally sounded, and the engines had responded, the water plugs for some time did not furnish sufficient pressure to reach the highest points where the fire was raging. A brisk wind was blowing, and the flames spread with great rapidity. In a short while the entire block was in flames.

GETTING TO BE A CRESTAUL.

Lots of People Who Are Ready to Ouboe the Eiffel Tower.

MINNEAPOLIS, October 27.—George W. Cooley, formerly City Engineer of Minneapolis, has designed a structure which he proposes shall be erected on the grounds of the World's Fair. The colossal proportions of the structure would make the Eiffel tower turn green with envy. The design contemplates a pyramid of granite, each side of whose base is to be 1,320 feet long, and whose summit will be 100 feet square and 1,000 feet above the ground. At the extreme top it will be placed a Goddess of Liberty 200 feet high, making the total height 1,200 feet. At each corner is to be a tower 100 feet high, surmounted by statues of Columbus, Washington, the President and some other prominent men in the nation's history. Mr. Cooley believes the scheme can be carried through in two years, and will lay his plans before the coming meeting of the National Association of Engineers to ascertain their feasibility. He estimates the cost of such a structure at about $175,000,000.

SMOKED WITHOUT WARNING.

Four Men Killed While Playing Cards Under a Freight Car.

IRWIN, Pa., October 27.—A distressing accident occurred here this evening at 5 o'clock, in which three men were killed instantly and one died an hour later from injuries received. Thomas and James Thompson, Robert Robinson, Samuel Hemming and Benjamin Stubbs were sitting under a car carrying cards, when the shifter pushed a train of cars back on the siding, moving the car they were under and instantly killing Robinson, Hemming and Thomas Thompson. James Thompson had his back broken and died while being removed to his home. Stubbs escaped with slight injuries.

A PECULIAR SERVICE.

Funeral Ceremonies Over an Empty Coffin in a Providence Church—Portuguese Do Honor to the Memory of the Late King.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., October 27.—In a little wooden church, heavily hung with black and only relieved by the colors of the eagles of the United States and Portugal, a curious ceremonial was performed to-day in a foreign tongue over an empty coffin.

It was a service in memory of King Luis of Portugal in the Church of Our Lady of the Rosary, and the chief observers were the Portuguese Beneficial Society of this city. The brethren assembled at their hall, nearly a mile from the church, and marched thither, escorting a hearse drawn by six horses and proceeded and followed by outsiders.

The coffin was a costly wooden casket covered with broadcloth. No portrait of King Luis and no suitable uniforms could be procured as desired, so that the bier was without emblems of royalty. Other than the appointments were complete. A band playing a dirge led the line to the church, but the casket was not taken inside until after mass.

The bier was then carried forward to a place before the altar, and was there raised high above the heads of the audience. Six great candles were placed about it, while the brethren in their black robes and another boy between these two held aloft a cross.

The funeral service followed. It was introduced by prayer, and then Rev. Father Strada pronounced an eulogy upon the life of Luis. Prayers for the dead, the singing of the canon and responsive singing by the choir followed. After the ceremony, the hearse and bier were escorted back to the society's hall.

AN OBLIGING PARTNER.

It Flies Into a Kitchen and Prepares Itself for Broiling.

WESTER, Mass., October 27.—Partridges in this town are very obliging. One flew into E. W. Tourtelote's house through a window pane the other day, and kept right on into the kitchen and into a kettle of hot water on the stove. Out of the kettle it flopped about, splashing the apartment with drops of scalding water, sailed around the room once or twice, and then went through another window pane out into the world.

In certain instances when they would come to a granite "horse" or wall of granite of a certain thickness. Penetrating that wall they would come to ore.

EVOLUTIONISTS ON TOP.

Latest News of the Dispute Among South Carolina Presbyterians.

CHARLESTON, S. C., October 27.—The Presbyterians of the Palmetto State are still wrestling with the question of Adam's origin. The State Synod met at Spartanburg to-day and about 150 delegates answered to roll call. The opening services having been first gone through with, the Synod organized for business, and evolution turned up at once. The moderator announced the first business on hand was the election of a moderator. The names of Rev. J. M. Ross, of Greenville, and Rev. T. B. English, of Yorkville, were the nominations. The vote resulted as follows: English, 74; Ross, 26. Mr. English was declared elected. This was claimed as a point scored in favor of the Woodrow party in this State. English is a Woodrowite.

LIBERTY OR DEATH.

A Colored Prisoner Wanted the Former and Obtained the Latter.

ALEXANDRIA, La., October 27.—A negro, John David Green, aged about 33 years, was tried yesterday for the murder of Melinda Wallace, aged 12 years, on October 19, last year. This was his third trial. The jury brought in the verdict at 10 o'clock last night, "Guilty, without capital punishment." As he was being conveyed to the jail he attempted to escape. Sheriff Stafford was in charge. He was very much surprised, as he has been a trusted prisoner in the jail for several months past. He at first attempted to run after the fleeing prisoner but got tripped and fell—by that time Green was 30 yards away. Stafford pulled his pistol and fired, the ball passing through Green's body. His wound was pronounced mortal. When told he was sure to die in a short time he asked about the crime for which he had just received a life sentence, he protested his innocence. Many of the most reliable persons from that section say he is the one without a doubt who should have been hung at once for the crime, although they feared not having evidence enough to convict him. He died this afternoon protesting his innocence to the last.

WATCHING AN ISLAND ELECTION.

American Cruisers Stationed at Honolulu to Prevent All Trouble.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 27.—According to advices received from Honolulu to-day, there are four American vessels stationed at that port—the Itouga, Michigan, Nipic and Alert, the Itouga having recently arrived from San Francisco, and the Michigan from Callas. Admiral Kimberly still remains at Honolulu, and the squadron is under his immediate command. It is not known definitely here how long Admiral Kimberly will remain at Honolulu, but it is reported he will not return to San Francisco until after the election on the Hawaiian Kingdom, and it is believed the four warships will also remain there until after that event.

The list of the men who engaged in the recent rebellion at Honolulu has been in progress for some time. The hearing of both cases has been completed, being those of a Belgian and an American. Both were found guilty. Robert Wilcox, the leader of the insurgents, who has not yet been tried, was the principal witness for the defense. He claimed that he and his men were not engaged in rebellion, but in an effort to protect King Kalanika.

"I had written some verse on two other little Indiana papers, and had given some evidence of ability that Todisman offered him an advance of salary to work for the Democrat. Drawing the princely salary of $12 a week, he was the envy of every other local writer in that section of Indiana. His pet work was a column of verse, all his own, which had a special place every week in the Democrat."

"Old Todisman got a good bit of money every week for that column of advertising, and Riley, who divided $25,000 with Bill Nye in the lecture hall last season, got $12. Poetry came as natural to Jim Riley as eating. He could not resist the temptation to verify. He would be walking along the street in the most innocent way, when a light would flash on a gate with nine bars. He'd stop and look at it, and muse a minute, and then off he'd go into verse—nine verses, nine lines, and there it is. It came as easy to him as talking."

LOBBYING PROSPECTS.

The business of lobbying promises to pick up a little during the coming winter if the schemes now under consideration for granting steamship subsidies get before Congress. Lobbying has not been a very profitable trade since the exposure of the Star Route frauds. There is a certain amount of legislative work required of the agents of great corporations every year, more for protection than for anything else. All of the large railroads keep agents here to warn them of any impending legislation that is likely to affect their interests. Some of them figure as attorneys; some of them in other capacities. None of them admit their business occupation openly, although there is no doubt that it is especially advanced of it. The railroads which have their terminus
