PITTSBURG, MONDAY, NOV. 4, 1889.

THE OFFICE-SEEKER'S WRATH.

The bolt which Mr. Baker, of Indiana, hurled at President Harrison is very thunderous in its first appearance; it is upon occasion the President's a traitor, that a remarkably familiar appearance. Mr. Baker wants a consul and has not got it. Consequently Mr. Baker is in a wrathful mood.

There are grave features connected with Mr. Baker's wrath. He is the original Harrison man. The multitudinousness of the original Harrison man is so well known that all of them are going to get mad at the inability of the consul to go round.

REALITY VS. BUNKER.

The investigation of the new West Virginia oil field, reported in another column, cuts down the wild reports which have been made concerning that field to the sober proportions of reality. Instead of the 500- or 1,000-barrel well that rumor reported, a well with a good showing for 20 barrels daily of good oil has been discovered.

CANNIBALISM IS MURDER.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Philadelphia Press, has asked its readers to send in their opinions of the moral principle involved in the cannibalism among the survivors of the shipwrecked Esmeralda, and a number of them have complied. Among the correspondents are a doctor and a clergyman, both of Philadelphia.

NOT THAT KIND OF A REPORT.

"The Government Directors of the Union Pacific Railroad have officially reported that the road ought to pay up its indebtedness to the Government. But it will not," remarks the Boston Globe.

AFTER A LARGE, IF NOT VARIED, ASSORTMENT OF bad weather, a prolongation of the brightness and clearness of yesterday will be gratefully received.

A VERY pertinent suggestion is cast with the road of a heavyweight projectile at a prevalent political practice by the Philadelphia Ledger. It is that the poll-tax receipts paid by political committees and handed over to voters of their own party, do not qualify the voter, as he has not paid the tax himself.

PITTSBURG IS GETTING READY TO GIVE SOUTH America a greeting with her industries and her wealth, both arrayed in their most attractive guise.

TELEGRAPH RATES AND GOVERNMENT.

Concerning Postmaster General Wanamaker's recent revision of telegraph rates on Government business to a basis of about what business has been done for the general public in this country, and is now charged in England, the New York Post remarks that "the probability is that he will not get the service done at that rate."

A CIVILIZING AGENT IN KENTUCKY.

From the Detroit Free Press. Judge Lewis, of Kentucky, who was driven from his courtroom by the Howard gang while trying one of their number, has hunted them out of a distance of 30 miles and killed six and wounded five. Good for him! Two or three others of his kind would civilize the State in a year or so.

THE NEW LIGHT OF ASIA.

The new "Light of Asia" is not Sir Edwin Arnold's, but the Westinghouse patent. The Pittsburgh Company has secured a contract for illuminating the city of Peking with electricity.

A VILLAINOUS LOOKING KNIFE.

That Can and a Good Deal of Laughter at a Berlin State Dinner. An amusing incident took place at Berlin the other day on the occasion of the banquet given for the officers of the "Kaiser's Alexander von Russkian" Regiment to the Emperor and Empress. The Emperor and Empress were seated at the head of the table.

What mischief this makes of all the claims of the trust advocates! It shows that all the talk about the advantage of great capital, the securing of the best management and the highest organization is the merest bomb. It proves, on the contrary, that the inevitable result of such overgrown combinations is to insure neglectful management, careless conduct and poor results.

HOW WAPPLES MADE A MAN.

A Boy Tackles a Railroad Official's Palace and Makes His Mark. From the Philadelphia Press. The all-around man who, as dispatcher, conducts the business of the freight department of the North Pennsylvania Railroad, at Third and Berks streets, is a common name.
