

WILL YOU STATE WHY MRS. LINDE LEFT YOUR COMPANY? Because, on the morning after we appeared in Philadelphia, I went upstairs from breakfast and found my wife in bed. She had received this letter, and had read it before I had finished breakfast. In all the five years of our married life I never saw her cry. She vowed that she would not appear again with Mrs. Linde, and do you think that I could have a woman in my company who was followed around by a man who had threatened my life?

THE WHOLE ROMANCE IN THE CASE A Letter, Bridling With Points, From Mrs. Scharschmidt's Intended, ASKING JUSTICE FOR HIS BETROTHED

The promised difficulty in the concert of last night when the Immortal Levy, whose proteches on the concert have amused the masses, but failed to attract the music-loving public in the same degree as the sweet strains of Artucello could do, failed to take place last night.

THE LIBRARY HALL MUDDLE. Mr. Brunet May Extend the Time of Sale Until Next Friday—The Library Committee Now Has $38,000.

Concerning the possible sale of the Library Hall building, John M. Kennedy said yesterday that he could not state definitely what Mr. Brunet would do in the matter.

Mr. Brunet was in the matter of the library, and was anxious to do all he could for its interest. Just what he would do was as yet undetermined. A definite conclusion would be reached to-morrow, and the sale might then be postponed until Friday.

MR. WRIGHT INTERESTED. The first question was in reference to the alleged threatening letter received by Mr. Levy, and he replied: "Of course, if you want to call a letter of this kind a threatening letter, but it is not such a letter as you or any other man would write on being informed that a lady was being ill-treated in whom you were interested. I simply told him that if he wrote such a letter to Madam Lindo more pleasant, or he would hear from me."

"Then you are interested?" "Of course I am, I am, as you ask, engaged to be married to her, and I esteem her very highly as any man should the woman whom he intends to make his life-partner."

"What is the cause of the enmity of Mr. Levy to Mrs. Scharschmidt?" "The next question," "I really know no enmity, except that Madame Levy thought she could sing, and Mr. Levy gave her the preference, to which she was entitled, but she was not so good, and could not submit. This is really the only cause that I know of, and probably the conjugal feelings of M. Levy may have prompted him to his ill-treatment of Madame Lindo."

HE WENT TO THE HALL. At this time Mr. Wright, who is about 5 feet 10 inches in height, dark complexioned and of remarkably good appearance and gentlemanly demeanor, suggested an amendment to the hall which was at once taken.
