

THE SLATE BROKEN.

Opening of the Fifty-First Congress Marked by the DEFEAT OF A PREACHER

Selected by the Majority to Open Sessions With Prayer.

THE SENATE SITS IN SERENITY.

About $17,000,000 More Needed to Run the Government

THAN WERE ASKED FOR LAST YEAR

A pleasant December day ushered in the new Congress. The usually dull routine of the opening day in the House of Representatives was broken by an unprecedented incident.

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT. WASHINGTON, December 2.—All nature seemed so happy to-day, that not even the most bilious and bigoted Democrat could find or look dependent as the Republicans made their re-entry into the control of the House of Representatives, which they have not had for nearly a decade of years.

By motion, the three ex-speakers of the House, Banks, Randall and Carlisle, with Kelley of Pennsylvania, the "Father of the House," were exempted from the chance of the heavy duty of the day.

THREE LUCKY EXCEPTIONS. By motion, the three ex-speakers of the House, Banks, Randall and Carlisle, with Kelley of Pennsylvania, the "Father of the House," were exempted from the chance of the heavy duty of the day.

LONG BEFORE THE HOUR OF HIGH NOON, when Clerk Clark's gavel rapped the House to order, the galleries were filled to overflowing and the corridors jammed with other crowds which could not even see inside the doors.

CHARLES O'NEILL, of Philadelphia, got a good deal of attention for a caucus of Republicans to-day, by the vote of Mr. Cowles, of North Carolina, for Amos Cummings for Speaker.

WHERE LOCAL MEMBERS SIT. Rayne, though deferred dangerously long, got a good deal of attention for a caucus of Republicans to-day, by the vote of Mr. Cowles, of North Carolina, for Amos Cummings for Speaker.

SCENES IN THE SENATE. Another Great Crowd Present.—The Ceremony dignified as usual.—Land Abundance Upon the Introduction of the Two Dakotas.

WASHINGTON, December 2.—To some extent the scene of crowding on the House side was paralleled at the Senate. The galleries were jammed, except that of the correspondents. The writers were mostly in the House wing.

FOREIGN ONLOOKERS. The diplomatic party was well filled by a number of the foreign delegates to the Maritime and Pan-American conference with their ladies.

OF THE ROUTINE OF CALLING THE HOUSE to order by the Clerk of the last House, Mr. Clark of Missouri, the opening of the roll, the election of Speaker, the swearing of the members, the election of Clerk Doorkeeper, Sergeant-at-Arms and Postmaster, there is little or nothing to say.

THE FIRST BIG BREAK IN THE ROUTINE was the defeat of the Republican caucus nominee for chaplain, and is the first instance on

TWO BIG FAILURES.

Two of Philadelphia Firms Collapse, Owing Nearly a Million.

PUBLISHER SINGLERLY IS CAUGHT

By the Closing of a House in Which He Was Greatly Interested.

HIS SURPRISE KNOWS NO BOUNDS

A Drug and Chemical Firm Assigns, With Liabilities of $300,000.

Philadelphia was struck hard yesterday by two big failures. The stockists manufacturer of Lewis Cox & Co. was the first, for about $300,000, involving Mr. Singlerly, the wealthy publisher, and that was followed by a drug firm that failed for $300,000.

SECRETARY WISDOM ASKS FOR $17,000,000 MORE TO RUN THE GOVERNMENT THAN IT TOOK LAST YEAR.—PENSILVANIA AND PA.—HE WORK HERE COSTLY.

WASHINGTON, December 2.—The Secretary of the Treasury to-day sent to the House the estimates of appropriations required for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1891. Among the amounts asked for are the following: $249,000 for the completion of the Pittsburg public building; $7,000 for repairs to the Marine Hospital at Pittsburg; $1,000 for rebuilding the stone floating wall on the river front at the Allegheny arsenal, where it has been weakened by floods and the constant passing of trains; $10,000 for new machinery at Frankfort arsenal, and $1,800 to improve the drainage at the arsenal.

NO DEED OF ASSIGNMENT YET. There has been no deed of assignment as yet. Mr. W. W. Ledyard, of Third street, is the counsel.

MR. SINGLERLY'S CONNECTION WITH LEWIS COX & CO. dates from a period just anterior to the opening of the handsome retail store, 1229 Chestnut street, about three years ago, an event which caused a sensation among shoppers and tradesmen on account of the general atmosphere of elegance about the store.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

MR. SINGLERLY'S SURPRISE. Lewis S. Cox was reported ill, and would not be expected to be seen, and William M. Singlerly said he had nothing to say because it was all a surprise to him.

NEW COKE FIELD. J. W. Moore purchased a Large Tract of Indiana Cokes Coal Land. GENERAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. INDIANAPOLIS, Pa., December 2.—J. W. Moore, who recently disposed of his coke interests in the Connellville region, will, it is reliably given out, embark in the business again.

BLAINE MADE A BLUNDER. He Thought a Cable Was About to Be Laid to His Own Benefit. CHARLESTON, S. C., December 2.—The true story about the French cable was learned today. Secretary Blaine telegraphed to Governor Richardson that the French Cable Company desired to land their cable at this place, November 20, the cable being laid from Hayti to Charleston.

SEVENTEEN MEN INJURED. A Ride on a Flat Car Ends in a Serious Mishap. EAST TAWAS, MICH., December 2.—About thirty men, working at Sage's camp, started to work at daylight on a flat car. They backed out on a steep embankment, the track and seventeen men were more or less injured.

DISSENSION RATHER THAN UNION. Panama Citizens Have Little Faith in the Pan-American League. NEW YORK, December 2.—A dispatch from Panama dated November 23, says: Many believe the Pan-American Congress which is now in session, will cause dissension, rather than the construction of a permanent union with a permanent state of peace throughout the five republics, with which it is proposed to form the union.

HIS CAREER ENDED.

Death of Samuel Wilkeson.—Bourding Up of a Life Full of Honors and Hard Work.—A Lawyer Who Couldn't Keep Out of Jealousy.

DEATH OF SAMUEL WILKESON.—Bourding Up of a Life Full of Honors and Hard Work.—A Lawyer Who Couldn't Keep Out of Jealousy.

NEW YORK, December 2.—The death of Samuel Wilkeson occurred this evening, at his home in this city. Since his retirement from duty as Secretary of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company on October 17, Mr. Wilkeson's health has been far from robust, a nervous ailment, which he has had since he had yielded very rapidly.

PHILADELPHIA, December 2.—The announcement that Lewis S. Cox & Co. had failed, which was on the street soon after the beginning of business this morning, was the biggest surprise that has come upon the Philadelphia business community for long time. It has been known for a long time that Mr. William M. Singlerly was in some way identified with the firm.

THE CORNER-STONE LAID For a Lodging House for Deserving Young Women in New York. NEW YORK, December 2.—Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard, laid the cornerstone to-day of a new lodging house for young women who come to New York in search of work, at 14 East Sixteenth street, and 100 friends of the generous daughter of the Vanderbilts stood grouped picturesquely among the hoops of uncut stone and builders' materials.

PREVENTED ONCE MORE. Mrs. Engels was not long in discovering her husband's whereabouts. After one or two visits she succeeded in regaining her husband's affections, and she was installed as mistress of the household in a circular room.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

SHAKING HIS WIFE.

A Wealthy Paralytic Having a Hard Time Trying to Get Rid of

HIS TROUBLESOME WIFE.

He Leaves Her Several Times, But in Van, as She Invariably

PASTERS HERSELF ON HIM AGAIN.

He Has Now Left Her Again, Taking All of His Furniture With Him.

NEW YORK, December 2.—Frederick W. Engels, a wealthy paralytic who was spirited away from his wife in the Sherman Hotel, 150 West Forty-eighth street, last February, went through a similar experience one night last week. Mr. Engels has a country residence at Rockville Center. He was stricken with paralysis in the legs about a year and a half ago. On November 20, last year, he was taken to New York for treatment. While staying at the Rosemont Hotel he became acquainted with a German woman, who was known as Francesca Margherita Hemshell. He renewed a suit of acquaintance with her, and married his acquaintance of the Rosemont Hotel there on Thanksgiving Day after their first meeting.

SEVERAL TRACES PATCHED UP. Mr. Engels' brother Paul and Attorney Mott were sent for several times by the paralytic, and they always succeeded in patching up a truce between the two. Finally, Mr. Engels told his attorney that he could not endure his wife's treatment any longer, and he desired to be taken to his country home. Mr. Engels said he wanted to leave the flat. His wife had gone to consult her attorney.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

STAR ROUTERS DOWN.

A Decision of the Supreme Court Agrees Them.—A Next Session to Get For the Services Never Performed.

WASHINGTON, December 2.—The Supreme Court of the United States to-day rendered an opinion in the case of the United States against Bradley Barlow and J. L. Anderson, brought on an appeal from the Circuit Court for the district of Colorado. This case grows out of one of the star route contracts, which a few years ago attracted general attention.

UPON THE REPRESENTATIONS of the contractors compensation was also given for the difference between 22 horses and 11 men under the old schedule, and 60 horses and 22 men under the new schedule, although, as a fact, no additional help was employed. The Government contractors, who were to receive payment, but were defeated, the court holding that the Government could not recover unless it was shown that there was fraud on the part of the contractor. The court overrules that decision, and holds that the contractors are equally liable, whether the Government contractor participated in the fraud or were formerly imposed upon.

A FLOOD OF BEER. Flows From a Jersey Brewery Just After an Ammonia Explosion. NEW YORK, December 2.—Eight thousand barrels of beer got loose in the streets of the upper part of Newark, N. J., early this afternoon. While the men of the C. Trefz Brewing Company were at dinner something burst with a loud explosion, which startled everybody in the neighborhood and blew out the windows and a part of the wall of the new part of the brewery in Rankin street. Ten tons of beer gushed from all the windows, and overflowing the gutters, poured into cellars on the opposite side of Rankin street.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

JEWELS ON THE JUMP.

A Cincinnati Officer's Chase After Two Trunks Full of Diamonds.

LOCATED AND CAPTURED AT LAST.

After a Desperate Struggle With a Couple of Determined Men.

SEQUEL TO A BIG NEW YORK FAILURE. The Precious Stones Redeemed and Batted Off Late Kentucky.

A Cincinnati deputy sheriff had an exciting time yesterday. He succeeded, after a long hunt, in locating two trunks filled with precious stones and jewelry, on which he serves an attachment for a Boston firm for $1,000, which was paid, after which the jewelry was hustled off to some point in Kentucky. It was part of the property of a New York firm, lately failed, and whose assets were reported as wanting.

SEVERAL DAYS ago the big jewelry house of Stern & Stern, in New York City, made an assignment, owing over $300,000, but left little or no assets. The assignment caused a flurry among the creditors, most of whom were manufacturers and importers, and there were a number of arrests.

SOME ASSETS FOUND. One of Stern & Stern's traveling men in Joseph Phillips, who lives at 323 Fremont avenue, this city. He had in his possession two trunks full of jewelry. Someone notified Clinton C. Totten, of Boston, who entered a writ in the Superior Court to-day, to recover $1,000. A writ of attachment was issued, and Deputy Jake Cormany was detailed to locate the trunks. He had been taken to the Superior Court to-day, where Russell's jewelry store, in the Arcade, Cormany called at Russell's, only to be told that they were at the Grand Central depot. He next visited the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton depot, but still he did not find the trunks. Then he went to Phillips' home, on Fremont street, where he was told the trunks were at the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton depot, billed to Detroit.

A HUNT FOR THE TRUFF. Cormany hurried back to the depot, but did not find the trunks. He then proceeded to the Cincinnati Bus Company, where he found that the trunks were checked with tags No. 227 and 64, and were at the Palace Hotel.

CORMANY ARRIVED at the Palace just in time. A big express wagon was backed up in front of the door, the driver of which bore a poster that drove over to get the trunks. Cormany as fast as he could got into the express wagon and waited until the arrival of the supposed trunks. He then went in the person of Jacob Stern, one of the firm, and Phillips, his salesman.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., December 2.—Clarence J. Toet, cashier and bill clerk in the United States Express office in this city, is missing. He was last seen in circumstances when Calvin J. Chamberlain entered the office this morning and went back to the room where young Toet slept. He found that the young man's bed was empty and he was gone, but his clothing was there, both the suits he wore in the building, his hat, shoes, stockings, etc. His watch and his revolver, which was cocked, lay on the floor near the bed. In his clothing was his money, also his keys and all his personal effects. A number of the premises detectives searched the money safe was shut, and later the contents were found intact. The other safe, for valuables, was opened.

WON'T PAY THEIR BILLS. The Expenses of Entertaining Pan-American Junketers Not Settled on a Ctr. KANSAS CITY, December 2.—Judge Henry made the injunction in the case of D. B. Morrison against the City Auditor, the City Controller and the City Treasurer perpetual this morning. Morrison sought injunction to restrain the city from paying bills amounting to $904, being the expenses incurred in entertaining the delegates to the Pan-American Congress while in this city.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

WOMEN IN NEW YORK.

For a Lodging House for Deserving Young Women in New York.

NEW YORK, December 2.—Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard, laid the cornerstone to-day of a new lodging house for young women who come to New York in search of work, at 14 East Sixteenth street, and 100 friends of the generous daughter of the Vanderbilts stood grouped picturesquely among the hoops of uncut stone and builders' materials.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.

RETRIBUTION TO HIS DEBT. Mr. Singlerly, whose capital built the Chestnut street store, and maintained the manufactory, placed implicit confidence in Mr. Cox's business requirements, so much so that his investments in the concern to date amount to $300,000.